Ballinger Announces That the President Requested Him to Remain Silent.

Says His Official Acts Were With the Idea of Fulfilling His Trust.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 5.—Ballinger concluded his direct testimony in the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing this afternoon with a statement that his every official act had been with the sole idea of fulfilling his trust and he defied anyone to put their finger on anything he had done while in the public service which was not in the line of duty in accordance with his trust. The council for Glavis, one of Ballinger's chief accusers, took up the cross examination of the witness. Early in the day a hitherto unpublished letter of the president to Ballinger, under date of September 13th, 1909, was read. In it the president expressed a desire to retain Pinchot but said his weakness lay in his "inability to credit the high and honorable motives of those who differ with him on his methods." The president requested Ballinger to remain silent under the criticism and the secretary said this was why he had not followed a natural impulse to answer the charges.

GILLETT SAYS HE NEVER WENT TO A FIGHT

By Associated Press.
SACRAMENTO, May 5.—In response to a score of letters received at the governor's office every day since the death of Tommy McCarthy, following his fight with Owen Moran at San Francisco last Friday, urging the governor to stop the Jeffries-Johnson fight on the Fourth of July, Forrest Mitchell, executive secretary to the governor, sent out answers today saying the governor is helpless to interfere and that he suggests complaints be filed with the district attorney of Alameda county, and if this is a prize fight and not a boxing contest, he has the law in his hands to put a stop to it. The letters were addressed to the religious organizations in Alameda county, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Los Angeles and Fresno. Mitchell says the governor does not favor prize fights, has never attended one and says he never will.

ROOSEVELT THANKS THE NOBLE PRIZE COMMITTEE FOR HIGH HONOR

In His Address Suggests Numerous Ideas to Preserve a Perpetual Peace Among Nations.

By Associated Press.
CHRISTIANA, Norway, May 5.—Theodore Roosevelt appeared before the Nobel Prize committee today and delivered an address with the result that tonight his name is on the lips of everyone. His talk, which was for the purpose of thanking the committee for the peace prize, which had been tendered him, was as follows:
"It is with peculiar pleasure that I stand here today to express the deep appreciation I feel of the high honor conferred upon me by the presentation of the Nobel Peace prize. The gold medal which formed part of the prize I shall always keep, and I shall hand it on to my children as a precious heirloom. The sum of money provided as part of the prize by the wise generosity of the illustrious founder of this world-famous prize system, I did not, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, feel at liberty to keep. I think it eminently just and proper that in most cases the recipient of the prize should keep for his own use the prize in its entirety. But in this case, while I did not act officially as president of the United States, it was nevertheless only because I was president that I was enabled to act at all; and I felt that the money must be considered as having been given me in trust for the United States. I therefore used it as a nucleus for a foundation to forward the cause of industrial peace, as being well within the general purpose of your committee; for in our complex industrial civilization of today the peace of righteousness and justice, the only kind of peace worth having, is at least necessary to the industrial world as it is among nations. There is at least as much need to curb the cruel greed of gold and arrogance on the part of the world of capital, to curb the cruel greed and violence on the part of the world of labor, as to check a cruel and unhealthy militarism in international relationships.
"We must ever bear in mind that the great end in view is righteousness, justice as between man and man, nation and nation, the choice to lead our lives on a somewhat higher level, with a broader spirit of brotherly good one for another. Peace is generally good in itself, but it is never the highest good unless it comes as the handmaid of righteousness.
"The advance can be made along several lines. First of all there can be treaties of arbitration. There are, of course, states so backward that a civilized community ought not to enter into an arbitration treaty with them, at least until we see my own nation do."
"The advance can be made along several lines. First of all there can be treaties of arbitration. There are, of course, states so backward that a civilized community ought not to enter into an arbitration treaty with them, at least until we see my own nation do."
"Now, having freely admitted the limitations of our work, and the qualifications to be borne in mind, I feel that I have the right to have my words taken seriously when I point out where, in my judgment, great advance can be made in the cause of international peace. I speak as a practical man, and whatever I now advocate I actually tried to do when for the time being I was the head of a great nation, and keenly jealous of its honor and interest. I ask other nations to do only what I should be glad to see my own nation do."

EDWARD REPORTED VERY ILL

England is Much Worried Over Unexpected Announcement of the King's Illness.

Suffering From Bronchitis and the Fact is Kept Concealed for Past Two Days.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, May 5.—The kingdom was thrown into consternation tonight by the unexpected announcement that King Edward was suffering from bronchitis in a form that caused anxiety to his physicians, two of whom are sleeping in Buckingham palace to be on hand in case of need. The first intimation of his majesty's illness was his failure to meet the queen who had returned from the continent tonight. The queen hurried to the palace and soon afterwards the public learned by an official announcement that the king had been ill for two days. The fact that his illness had been concealed caused increased alarm when it became known. A consultation was held late tonight, but no bulletin was issued, it being merely reported that the king was resting well and that his condition was more reassuring.

THREATS USED TO FORCE MINERS TO QUIT WORK

Four Hundred Striking Miners Wreck the Workings of the Kansas Coal Company.

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Kan., May 5.—A mob of 400 striking miners, mostly foreigners, raided the mines of the Clemens Coal company, south of here tonight, and by threats of physical violence forced the miners working to abandon the workings. The miners then broke the pump of the mine, dismantled the gas engine and threw the wreckage into the pit, threatening the miners with death if they returned to work. The raiders next marched to the mines of the Cherokee-Pittsburg Coal company nearby. They found only an engineman and pumpmen working, the miners being on strike. The engineman and pumpmen were driven from the top workings and threatened with violence if they dared to return.
