OF TWO EVILS CHOOSE THE LESSER.

Despite the fact that gambling has been closed for some months in Nevada, games continue to run and the unwise are still afforded a chance to go through the separators. Prior to the enforcement of the law the attorney general handed down an opinion, stating that social games could be played, but that games of chance must cease. By social games was meant solo, pinochle, whist, or in fact any of the hundred contests that are to be found in Hoyle.

With the closing of gambling the state and county immediately lost one of the principal sources of revenue. Now that the people are not supposed to gamble, no license is paid. Yet it is of common knowledge right here in Tonopah that gambling exists. Within the last two days there have been as many poker games played at parties in which women were the participants. At one of the gatherings a fair player lost every cent she had with her and after borrowing from her acquaintances, finally put up her furs in order to secure additional coin so that she could continue in the game. Yet hardly one of the players realized, or cared, that the law was being broken, and continued to play for stakes that were somewhat high.

Even among the men, it is currently rumored that a poker game can be found at any time in some of the downtown resorts. These conditions have resulted from the calamity howlers' organization, who, in a desire to cleanse the state of everything that was purported to be evil, struck out in all directions with their eyes shut. Now that gambling exists, and it will always exist, the revenue goes to private individuals instead of helping to swell the treasury of the county. Reno and its fanatical population desired to pose as righteous creatures, yet they are making a strong stand to keep the divorce law from being amended in order that they may harbor refugees from all over the United States who are desirous of securing a decree with the least possible amount of trouble. While this is beneficial to Reno, it gives the state of Nevada a name far blacker than that acquired when gambling was in existence. It was noticeable that the gamblers possessed a few morals, but the average divorcee—well, give us the gamblers, and the revenue.

MINERS AT BLACK HORSE STRIKE FOR THEIR PAY

The Ely Expositor states that the miners and mill men of the Amalgamated Nevada Mines company at Black Horse, went on a strike last Saturday, owing to the fact that the company was two months in arrears with a pay day. It is believed that the money will be raised at the head office in Boston. A considerable amount of work has been performed by the company and a new mill has been erected.

JUDGE MORAN IS CHAMPION DIVORCE JURIST

Judge Moran of Reno is fast creating a record as a divorce judge which will stand for many years. Although he has been in the judicial chair only a matter of two weeks he has heard thirty-three cases. The very first day he granted nine decrees and the rush for Christmas has been on ever since. In nine actual working days Judge Moran has decided thirty-one cases, all in the divorce court. He has two cases still under submission and verdicts in these cases are expected any day.

FROST ANNOUNCES ARRIVAL OF AUTUMN

As a sure indication that fall, if not winter, has arrived, the ground this morning was covered with about an eighth of an inch of frost. There were innumerable heads of different houses that were extremely bashful when it came time to light the fire, for the bed was so nice and comfortable. According to traditions, the frost will now be a daily occurrence until snow flies.

The BONANZA for First Class Printing

OLD EUREKA AND PALLSADE ROAD SOLD

It is ascertained that at the foreclosure sale last Tuesday of the Eureka and Pallsade railroad property in Nevada, the railroad line was bought in by George W. Heintz, general manager of the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company. Inasmuch as the main need for this railroad line is in connection with the famous old Richmond Eureka mines of the United States company, it is considered a reasonable inference that Mr. Heintz was acting in the behalf of his company.

The railroad is 88 miles long, much of which is now out of commission on account of a severe flood of a year or so ago. It will likely cost from $50,000 to $75,000 to repair the line, and it is likely also that the United States company will rebuild the line as a standard gauge, instead of continuing the present narrow gauge.

It is hardly likely that the United States company will delay much longer in getting back to the old Richmond Eureka mines for the wealth of mineral left at depth. It will be recalled that these noted mines are numbered among some of the most famous producing properties of the west, having paid somewhere between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000 in dividends during the time when silver prices were at the high tide.

These ores came from little more than surface workings, occurring in the lime, the ore body being wedge shaped between the shale and quartzite until the great Ruby Hill fault was encountered. There is a vertical throw of something like 1000 feet from this fault, and the Logan shaft was started to find the faulted ore at depth. This shaft was driven considerably below the 1000 level, and a crosscut was driven over to where the ore was scheduled to make its appearance. It did not appear, in the shape of sulphides, and considerable water was also developed. This water, with subsequent litigation and other difficulties occasioned the abandonment of this interesting work at that time, and this point is more than likely to receive the first attention of the United States management when the rebuilt railroad line will justify the resumption of operations along a big scale. It is reasonable presumption that these mines are good for a number of years of successful production.

GRASS VALLEY OUTPUT ESTIMATED AT $2,000,000

Two million dollars is the estimate made of the probable combined product of the Grass Valley quartz mines this year. The product was that figure last year. It is stated, and the quality of the rock encountered and the activity of the mines forecasts a production equal this year. The number of men employed is given as approximately 700 and the monthly salary roll is placed at $65,000 and $75,000.

RANGES REPORTED TO BE IN FINE CONDITION

Cattle and sheepmen from different sections of the county visiting Winnemucca are jubilant over the prospects of stock for the coming winter. The recent heavy rains have supplied the ranges with plenty of green grass and present indications are that, unless visited by heavy snows, there will be sufficient feed to carry the stock through the winter without hay.
