REMOVE THE COBWEBS.

An opinion is easily formed regarding the mail order business sent out from Tonopah, by witnessing the business transacted by the Wells-Fargo company. For the last ten days the delivery wagons have been running late into the night in an attempt to deliver all the packages consigned to the people of this city. Each day's train witnesses the arrival of hundreds of dollars' worth of goods and every article could have been purchased at home and the money sent outside, remained here.

The fault is not with the Wells-Fargo people, but lies with the local merchants. Just because they are doing a little business it is not realized that by advertising the business could be doubled or trebled by the judicious use of printers' ink. An advertisement quoting prices is read by hundreds in Tonopah and the results are ten-fold.

It is a very easy matter for a purchaser to scan the daily paper in search of an advertisement wherein some special article is quoted, and failing to find the same, to pick up a catalogue and after a short investigation, make out an order and send the requisition to one of the large mail order houses. This has happened time and time again, and will continue to happen as long as the merchants wait for the people to come to them. No business can be built up in this way. The merchants must take the aggressive and once started the matter is easy. Systematic advertising is an art that has been acquired by the big outside houses, but the average merchant, it appears, prefers to dust the cobwebs from his door when he could have the general public perform this function by the use of a little printers' ink. It is probable that the merchants prefer to buy a large stock of goods and then carry them over from season to season and finally dispose of the lot at a loss.

TO BE DEPLORED.

The dismissal on motion of District Attorney Tilden of the old indictments against Henry Weber, Thomas V. Rickey and Volney B. Leonard, for embezzlement, is another evidence of the weakness of our system of making and enforcing laws. These men have been accused of serious crimes. It has been charged in each case that, in violation of confidence reposed in them by other people, they took money and converted it to their own uses. They either did or they didn't. If they did, they are thieves, and deserve to be punished like any other malefactors. If they didn't, the facts should be brought out in court, before a jury, and they should be turned loose, without stain on their characters. Having the cases dismissed on a technicality leaves them in a bad state before the people, and leaves their alleged victims with no hope of getting the satisfaction of knowing where their money went, or who got it. It requires no evidence to convince them that it is gone.

There seems to be altogether too much word-splitting, too much respect for precedent, and not enough attention paid to the matter of finding out who committed the crime, and administering the proper dose of punishment. It really makes no difference as to the guilt or innocence of a defendant, whether he hauled away his plunder in a wagon or cart, but from the results of some trials especially of wealthy malefactors, one would suppose that if a man stole a lot of hams, using a wagon to move them, and was accused of using a cart, the case, and the hams, would go by default, and the thief, having been once in jeopardy, would go free.

Some day, perhaps, it will be possible to give judges more latitude in determining the grade of a crime. When a robbery or other crime is committed, and the thief found, even though he be accused of burglary, when the evidence shows the crime to have been larceny or robbery, the judge, who is presumed to know the law, should have the power to change the complaint to fit the evidence, and when it is shown that a person has done that which he ought not to have done, hand him out his medicine.—Wander News.

OFFICIAL COUNT OF STATE BALLOTS

The official returns of the state election held in November were canvassed yesterday by the supreme court and resulted in no particular change in the vote as announced and tabulated by counties. There was a change in Churchill county which gave Douglass a gain of 125 and Con Ahern a gain of 100, but in neither case was the change sufficient to change the result. The mistake was one of addition. Pah-rump, in Esmeralda county, was the only precinct to fail to make returns and already the offending owner of the polling place has been punished. The most significant feature of the returns is in the fact that Joe Josephs was elected clerk of the supreme court by a lead of 11 votes over J. W. Legate. It means another democratic official. George Springmeyer was defeated by Cleveland H. Baker by 65 votes. It is possible that a contest may be instituted, but not probable. Con Ahern was beaten by Charlie Deady by nearly 400 votes.

The votes received by the candidates and certified as official by the court are as follows:
United States Senator—Harris, 1959; Nixon, 9779; Pittman, 8624.

For Representative in Congress—Miller, 2409; Roberts, 10,066; Sprague, 7688.
For Governor—Dickerson, 8798; Gegax, 1393; Oddie, 10,435.
For Lieutenant Governor—Easton, 8486; Ross, 9729; Wall, 1887.
For Justice of the Supreme Court—Norcross, 14,726.
For Secretary of State—Brodigan, 10,528; Douglass, 8857.
For State Treasurer—McMullan, 10,041; Ryan, 9441.
For State Controller—Davis, 9268; Eggers, 9883.
For Surveyor General—Abern, 9364; Deady, 9750.
For Attorney General—Baker, 9773; Springmeyer, 9708.
For Clerk of Supreme Court—Josephs, 9528; Legate, 9517.
For Superintendent of State Printing—Booth, 8640; Farnsworth, 10,662.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—Bray, 10,157; Smith, 8867.
For Inspector of Mines—Ryan, 9952; Watson, 9392.
For Regent (long term)—Fisk, 3403; Henderson, 11,870; Reid, 10,987; Reeves, 3633.
For Regent (short term)—O'Brien, 13,533.
Constitutional Amendment—For, 8231; against, 2870.

RESORT KEEPER KILLED BY BROTHER-IN-LAW

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 22—James Harvey, owner of a resort in Mill Creek canyon, was shot and killed yesterday by Robert Powell. Louis Harvey escaped with his life only because of the poor marksmanship of Powell.

Louis Harvey's wife is a sister of Powell, and the latter charged the Harveys with mistreating her. The feud has been brewing for some months and Powell hid behind a tree with a rifle, taking the life of James Harvey as he stepped from the house. After killing Harvey, Powell compelled his sister to accompany him on a tramp across the mountains two miles to Covington ranch, where he was arrested.
