

RHYOLITE PLAYERS GIVE GOOD SHOW

The Rhyolite players attracted a good-sized house at their performance of "In Maine," at the Nevada theater last evening. The company gave a good show, much better than the average traveling professional organization. The play is a good one and abounds in interesting situations.

The company deserves praise for their careful portrayal of the various parts. E. Pritchard Smith gave a vivid rendition of the down East old Yankee, Zeph Cummings, who believes in the Golden Rule; C. L. Milward as Ralph Cummings, his brother; F. DeLange as Bingle, the fisherman; Ralph Munger as Tomps, the hired man, and J. P. O'Connell, as Mose Gossin, the stuttering lover, all were good. In the feminine cast, Mrs. Tallman, as Kestah, the old maid, made a hit with the audience, while Miss Smith as Susie Cummings, Mrs. Cats as Mrs. Cummings, and Miss Gladys Falconer as Betsy Tomps, all rendered their roles acceptably.

Earle Clemens rendered several of his songs in his usual style and was encored. The audience thoroughly enjoyed the performance throughout.

TRAVELING QUEHO INDIAN OUTLAW

SYSTEMATIC SEARCH IS BEING MADE FOR THE SUPPOSED MURDERER.

Queho, the bad Indian, is in a bad fix. A band of whites and Indians, making up what is probably the most determined band of scouts and trappers remaining in the West today, men who are tireless on the trail, persevering and never failing in carrying out their purposes; who know all the ways of savage cunning, and who are familiar with the country in which he is hiding, are after Mr. Queho.

At the head of the band is Sergeant Newberg, of the state police, who has been authorized to take up the chase. Assisting him are Ike Alcock and J. E. Babcock, both famous as scouts. The whites have with them six Indians of the Piute tribe, all anxious to rid the country of the peril of murderers, Crazy Queho.

Bill, on account of his intimate knowledge of the country, is acting as guide. Bill comes from Eldorado Canyon, bringing with him Captain Mullen, Dennis Kearney and Stubb, to assist. Jack and Mayhew, both Vegas Indians, are also members of the party.

Dennis Kearney is no spring chicken. Fifteen years ago Mouse killed two white men, prospectors from San Bernardino, near the mouth of Vegas, Wash. Kearney took his trail, following by day and night, like the fates, finally overtaking and killing Mr. Mouse near Muddy valley.

Two years later Avote killed five whites in the Eldorado district. Mr. Kearney and Vegas Jack cornered the murderer on Cottonwood Island in the Colorado river, where he was calmly, gently and systematically killed by a relative, one of Avote's hands being cut off and brought back to civilization as proof of a good job.

Queho, the object of the present hunt, was born in Eldorado Canyon and lived there an inoffensive red man, until he spent a few months in contact with civilization and bad whiskey last year. The murder of old man Woodbury, a few months ago at his camp, near Searchlight, and the murder of the woman at the Gold Bug mill, more recently, are laid to Queho. The Indians and prospectors are both fearful of the crazy Indian, believing that he will kill without mercy any one he may meet. It is very probable that Mr. Queho's days are numbered, considering those who are after him.—Las Vegas Age.

ASSESSMENT WORK WAS DONE WRONG PLACE

AND SO THE GOLDEN CROWN WAS RELOCATED BY LOCAL PARTIES.

Because the assessment work for last year was done on another property instead of the one intended, and because, therefore, some parties on the lookout for a good thing relocated the property for which it was supposed the work had been done, the basis has been laid for as pretty a law suit lately as the most litigious lawyer could desire.

The property in question is the Gold Crown, in the north end of town, and comprises one full claim lying between the Montana ground and the Midway.

The Gold Crown is owned by Ellis & Ellis, the well-known Salt Lake attorneys, who at one time also owned the Wandering Boy and the Stone Cabin here. These latter were afterward incorporated in the Jim Butler holdings. The annual work has been done regularly on the Gold Crown, generally under the direction of H. H. Atkinson, who represents Ellis & Ellis locally.

By some unaccountable mistake the assessment work last year was done on the Montana ground instead of the Gold Crown. The parties having the job got across the Gold Crown's boundary line several hundred feet. Hence, there has really been no assessment work done for last year.

Knowing this, on Christmas eve, Chris Malatesta relocated the ground and erected new monuments. Hence the basis for coming litigation.

Atkinson is in San Francisco at present and therefore could not be interviewed on the subject. It is understood, however, that the Ellis people claim a patent has been applied for on the ground, and that for this reason it is not subject to relocation.

SUBMARINE SINKS WITH ITS CREW

But the Submerged Vessel Is Raised This Afternoon--Water Bunkers Were Accidentally Filled.

By Associated Press.
KIEL, Jan. 17.—The German submarine "U-3" sank today in the harbor with all on board.

A salvage ship was sent to the rescue and the commander of the sunken vessel communicated with the rescuers by means of a lacy telephone.

He said he and his crew were in no immediate danger as the supply of oxygen was sufficient for forty-eight hours.

The sinking was caused by the accidental filling of the water bunkers.

The submarine was raised this afternoon and the crew rescued.

OSCAR SMITH IS ARRESTED ONCE MORE

BUT HE GETS QUICK ACTION ON A HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IN RENO.

Oscar Smith, one of the directors of the Eureka County bank, was arrested this morning by Sheriff Martin Mahoney of Eureka county on a warrant charging him and all the other directors of the bank with "feloniously assenting in the receipt of deposits in an insolvent bank known by its officers to be insolvent."

Sheriff Mahoney said, when he served the warrant: "I have only fifteen minutes in which to catch my train."

"You must give me time to pack my grip," said Mr. Smith, and he led the way to the court house, where within less than the fifteen minutes mentioned, he applied for habeas corpus and Judge Moran had made out the original order, returnable for hearing next Saturday.

In the meantime quick work had been done along another line and a bail bond in the sum of $1,000 was executed. The makers of the bond are C. L. James and H. J. Darling.

Mr. Smith said to the Gazette this afternoon that in his opinion the bank certainly was not insolvent at the time the receiver was appointed, for it has already paid the depositors 50 cents on the dollar with assurance that at least 30 cents more will be paid.

Gus Hintze, a saloon man of Eureka, who preferred one of the charges, does not allege that he was one of the depositors who lost through the receiving of deposits by the bank. The charge now brought is similar to the one formerly decided in favor of Mr. Smith by the Supreme Court.—Reno Gazette.

COUNTY FAIR ON THE FILMS FOR TONIGHT

VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES AT THE BUTLER THIS EVENING.

At the Butler theater tonight another good program will be shown in addition to the pictures. Mr. Al Grosch will sing another late illustrated song. Mr. Grosch has a very pleasing voice and it is indeed a treat to hear him sing.

The pictures for tonight are: "A Clever Domestic" (comedy), "Mexican Tumbler" (acrobatic), "The Rescue of Mollie Finney" (Kalen Western drama), and the original Neil Burgess in "The County Fair."

This is a picture that has been played 6000 times, and it is as well known as "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

It is all there—just as it used to be—showing Neil Burgess playing the part of Aunt Abby, and Taggert riding Cold Molasses to victory and winning the purse to pay off the mortgage on Aunt Abby's farm. No one will regret attending the Butler, as a good program is on for tonight.

POSTAL CLERKS AWAIT ACTION BY CONGRESS

SO THERE IS NO WALK-OUT IN THE GOLDFIELD OFFICE AS EXPECTED.

The anticipated walk-out in the Goldfield postoffice, where eight of the clerks are affected by the exhaustion of the special appropriation made by congress to raise the salaries in some of these Western offices, will not take place after all, despite the fact that temporarily their wages are cut in two. The Goldfield Tribune of this morning has the following on the subject:

"The anticipated walk-out of clerks at the local postoffice, which was scheduled for yesterday, did not occur, owing principally to telegraphic advices from Washington which informed Postmaster Collins that an emergency bill, providing the old salaries for postal clerks of Goldfield, Nome and Fairbanks, Alaska, is now in committee and will be acted upon immediately.

As a consequence the local clerks decided to await the action of congress before taking any decisive action in the matter of leaving their present employment. This means that unless the bill is passed as a retroactive measure taking effect at the time the former appropriation was exhausted, the pay of Goldfield mail clerks will be considerably lower this month than it has been during the last three years. They have decided to wait until February 1 before taking any decisive step in the matter."

Postmaster Collins of Goldfield, in a statement for publication, said: "I hope that it can be arranged so the old salaries will apply under the new conditions. I have an excellent force of clerks and the fact that they are willing to await the congressional action shows they are the kind of people that can be relied up. While I appreciate the economical policy of the postal department, I cannot but feel that the employees of the local office should have a sufficient salary so their wage would leave a fair surplus over their expenses. I anticipate that this situation will be recognized and that the old salaries will be restored."

LEGISLATORS GETTING BUSY AT CARSON

(Special to The Bonanza.)
CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 17.—Little of interest was transacted by the legislature during the morning session today.

In the senate a bill was introduced by Rymers of Lyon to move the county seat from Dayton to Yerington. The bill was referred to the Lyon county delegation.

A bill was introduced in both houses repealing the law whereby the governor is compelled to accept gifts to the state. It was under this law the Supreme Court held that Governor Dickerson was compelled to accept the $400,000 donation of North Carolina bonds.

The governor's message was received by both houses shortly after convening. The message is very lengthy and contains many suggestions in the way of reform and reducing the "expenses of the state. He favors good roads and suggests plans for increasing the revenues of the state.

GAMBLERS FIND A SAFE HAVEN

BOTH SACRAMENTO AND OGDEN WIDER OPEN THAN RENO EVER WAS.

Contrary to predictions which held that the gamblers of Reno would be compelled to go to South America or other remote parts to obtain employment at their calling, it is now reported that those who left Reno are comfortably situated and finding remunerative employment both in California and Utah, the puritanical sister states of Nevada.

For weeks the developments and revelations in Sacramento have shown that gambling there is flourishing to a greater extent than it ever did in Reno, while in Ogden it is stated that the smallest open gambling establishment is larger than the largest ever seen in Reno.

One of the fraternity, returning to Reno recently, states that open gambling is flourishing in Ogden like a green bay tree and that at least five resorts are in active operation. At one place there are never less than three faro banks constantly receiving deposits, and not less than three roulette tables. For heavy patronage there are additional tables.

The limit seems to be taken off, for it is reported that a prominent Nevada recently entered one of the places of chance and, after buying $1500 in checks, was allowed to bet $1000 on the turn of a card.

Most of the Reno gamblers are working in Ogden, but they would prefer to return to Reno because there is a saloon law there closing saloons tight from 12 Saturday night until 6 Monday morning. No drinks are served in the gambling houses, which are conducted on the second floors.

In Salt Lake big poker games furnish the gambling medium, but otherwise there is a ban on. It is said that the American party controls the city and the Mormons the county. The Mormons allow gambling in the county, but forbid the Americans to allow it in the city.

In Ogden the medium of collecting taxes is through monthly fines for breaking the ordinance. The fines amount to from $800 to $1000 a month for each house. In addition to the gambling games there are race-track poolrooms in active operation.
