

SENATOR NEWLANDS GIVES OUT HIS PLANS

WASHINGTON, March 23.—One of the recognized democratic leaders, Senator Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada, has written a letter to Champ Clark, in which he outlines a program for democratic action. It has been practically certain, says Senator Newlands, that in addition to reciprocity, congress will take up the tariff also. The senate will probably follow the lead of the house with regard to the selection of the committee to consider reform and constructive legislation. It is incumbent on the democrats to indicate decisively to the country what the party proposes to do if it should be entrusted with power in 1912. He says:

"The voters in the next campaign will rely more on our performances than upon our promises, and we should, therefore, during the extra session and the next session crystallize into legislation so far as we can the pledges we have made in our platform."

The senator recommends adjustment of the trust and banking questions by national commissions in the same way that the railroad question has been handled. He believes in appointing a budget committee to co-operate with the committee on expenditures in the senate and the economic commission appointed by the president, and the immediate reduction of the military and naval expense to $100,000,000 annually for the army and a similar sum for the navy, with the creation of a merchant marine to be an auxiliary to the navy in time of war, and free entry to the American registry for all ships, wherever built; for conservation and the development of internal waterways; in the independence of the Philippines when those islands are able to maintain a stable government; for their neutralization, and in throwing open their trade to all countries.

Senator Newlands remarks that the transportation question may be regarded as adjusted so far as legislation is concerned, except the physical valuation of railroads and the regulation of stock and bond issues. He recommends the organization of national holding companies, in which all the states can participate.

In contrast with the work of the interstate commerce commission, Senator Newlands finds that the enforcement of the anti-trust act has been lame and halting, "changing with the shifting incumbents of the attorney general's office and according to the requirements of political exigencies." In consequence there exist over 800 trusts of enormous capitalization, practically without regulation or control. The remedy suggested is the organization of an interstate trade commission with powers similar to those of the interstate commerce commission. Legislation should be had to restrict the activities of the trusts, providing for a license system and requiring uniform prices to all purchasers.

Interstate exchange or banking, says Senator Newlands, is as much a part of interstate commerce as interstate transportation is. The big New York banks, he thinks, have forgotten their true function, that of exchange, and have been turned over to the aid of promotion and speculation. The interests of depositors have not been adequately safeguarded. The senator says:

"The repeated bank panics with their attendant breaks in the exchange of commodities between sections, communities and individuals are as intolerable as are the break in transportation of great interstate railway systems caused by cutting out a section of track here, or the destruction of a bridge there, or by other obstacles impeding the movements of trains."

The senator would compel adequate capital and reserves and a system of mutual protection for relieving embarrassing situations. He recommends the organization of state national reserve associations, in each of which all of the banks of that state should be stockholders, with note-issuing functions and emergency circulation, and the insurance of deposits. A national banking commission to meet annually in Washington, its membership partly appointive and partly elective, is included in the plan.

GOVERNOR HAS APPOINTED KEARNEY STATE ENGINEER

GRADUATE OF NEVADA UNIVERSITY TO TAKE PLACE OF EMMET BOYLE.

CARSON CITY, March 23.—Announcement was made yesterday from Governor Oddie's office that the governor had appointed W. M. Kearney of Reno to succeed Emmet Boyle, resigned, as state engineer of Nevada.

The announcement disposes of a problem that has been bothering Governor Oddie since his election. He had retained Emmet Boyle, a democrat, in office despite the protests of republicans and some anti-Dickerson democrats, on account of his manifest ability. The political squabble that came at the close of the session between the governor and the democratic senate was accentuated by the resignation of Mr. Boyle. The climax of the trouble came when Governor Oddie vetoed the water law, which he had advocated, rather than entrust it to the hands of the democrats.

Engineer Kearney is a young man, a graduate of the University of Nevada. He is not especially well known either in engineering or political activity, although he is a republican. It is said that he is a man of capability and that he has had considerable experience, especially along the lines of irrigation.

He is a son-in-law of Andrew Stinson, who ran for the nomination for mine inspector last election. He resides on Riverside avenue.

It is said that Mr. Kearney has done some work on contracts under Surveyor General Kyle of the government in connection with Professor Thurtell.

No inkling of the governor's intentions concerning the Panama fair bill could be gleaned. Everyone has his own pet theory. The governor devoted his time to receiving callers and working on the mass of miscellaneous bills.

DRUNKEN BEES MAKE LIFE MERRY FOR THEIR OWNER

Alcohol has the same effect on bees that it does on human beings, according to J. F. Franklin of Halley, who is the owner of a large apiary near that city. Franklin fed his bees on a mixture of sugar and alcohol during the first warm days of the spring, and as a result they alighted upon him, some apparently petting him, while others fell to and stung him vigorously.

Franklin is one of those favored by some sort of mystic choice in nature whereby, as a rule, bees do not bother him, but the combination alcohol and sugar was too much for them and their natures became perverted, with the result that Franklin wore bandages for several days thereafter.

"It is the first experience I ever had with drunken bees," said Mr. Franklin at the state house recently, where he went for the purpose of visiting the officials of the state horticultural department on business.

"Incidentally, I never was stung in my life before, and I have handled bees ever since I was a boy of ten years of age. But I would not advise anyone to experiment on bees with sugar and alcohol unless they are looking for trouble," Boise Statesman.

ONE PLAY BARRED.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Miss Sarah Bernhardt, who opens an engagement here next week, will not be permitted to present "La Samaritaine" in New Orleans.

The city attorney, in an opinion given to the mayor, described "La Samaritaine" as "absolutely shocking to the moral and religious sense of a Christian community."

Why Send Out of Town for Your Printing

When you can have first-class work done right here, by first-class union printers. The business man who sends out of town for his printing injures his own business as well as that of others. While on the other hand the man who patronizes home institutions increases the town's pay roll, and thereby builds up his business. The printers and book binders in the cities of surrounding states do not come here to spend their money.
