DECKED WITH FLOWERS AND COLORS Floating to the Breeze the Wrecked Battleship MAINE SINKS TO HER LAST LONG REST

HAVANA, March 18.—Under lowering skies and a heavy sea, the old battleship Maine, resurrected after fourteen years' burial in Havana harbor, Saturday plunged, with her colors flying, to her everlasting rest, 600 fathoms deep in the waters of the gulf. The sinking of the hulk was carried out precisely as planned, marking the end of the work begun more than a year and a half ago.

After imposing ceremonies in the morning, which ended with the formal transfer of the custody of the bodies of the dead by the mayor of Havana, Julio De Cardenas, to Brigadier General W. H. Bixby, chief of the engineer corps, U. S. A., as the representatives of the United States, the coffins were taken aboard the armored cruiser North Carolina, where they were deposited on the quarter deck, covered by a great mound of floral tributes under a guard of honor, composed of marines. Minute guns were fired by the North Carolina and the scout cruiser Birmingham and the batteries of Cabanas fortress until the ships cleared the harbor.

Soon after 2 o'clock the heavy tug Osceola, aboard of which were the United States minister, Arthur H. Beaupre, and the staff of the legation, Brigadier General Bixby, Colonel William H. Black, Lieutenant Colonel Mason M. Patrick and Major Harley B. Ferguson, constituting the Maine commission, passed lines to the stern end of the wedge-shape wreck and started seaward.
Two flanking tugs attached lines to either end of the bulkhead, which then became the after-part of the hulk, for the purpose of the steadying and steering her.

Her decks covered deep with flowers and palms and an American ensign floating from the jury mast, where the main mast formerly stood, the Maine put to sea on her last voyage. On deck stood Captain John O'Brien, famous as "Dynamite Johnny," skipper of the filibustering steamers Dauntless and Three Friends, acting as the Maine's last pilot. As the wreck passed the American squadron the crews maned the rails, the marines presented arms, the handsmen on the quarter deck played the national anthem, while minute guns boomed a requiem.

Progress necessarily was slow.
Half an hour later the North Carolina and Birmingham got under way, followed by the Cuban gunboats Hatuey, Yara, Enrique, Villundas and De Octubre, the United States engineer's steam dredge Bernard, carrying all the men who had worked on the cofferdam, a steamer with the Havana camp Spanish-American War Veterans aboard, Commodore Carbonell's yacht Gypsy, with the Havana chapter, D. A. R., and a fleet of tugs and chartered vessels.

Passing out of the harbor no salutes were fired, the flotilla headed by the Maine proceeding in silence with flags at half-mast. The course was almost due north so as to keep the wreck head-on to the heavy sea and thus avoid the danger of falling into the trough.

At 4:35 o'clock a three-whistle blast from the North Carolina followed by one gun, announced that the three-mile line had been crossed. Half an hour was given laggards of the fleet to arrive. Then the American cruisers took up a position to the eastward of the wreck, the Cuban warships moved to the westward and the accompanying vessels were grouped to the north and south.

Meanwhile the wrecking crew aboard the hulk and made ready to carry out the arrangements for the sinking which consisted of opening numerous valves in the bottom, operated from the deck, the large stufce-ways in the bulkhead and all the doors in the two permanent bulkheads remaining in the ship.

Precisely at 5 o'clock another whistle sounded from the North Carolina and another guns was fired.
The crew throw open the valves and with Captain O'Brien aboard a tug alongside, which steamed a little distance away. Then all eyes in the great fleet were fixed on the wreck, the crews of the warships lining the rails.

For ten minutes no change was visible in the battered hulk, which pitched heavily as the rollers struck her. Then she was seen to be sinking at the bulkhead and soon the waves began to wash over the deck. The stern was seen to rise, and in a few seconds the hulk was almost vertical, showing first the propellers and then the full keel. The next moment there was a flash of blue and white, as the ensign flying from the mast struck the waves and disappeared. Simultaneously the decks were blown up by the air pressure and the old Maine plunged down, leaving flowers on the surface of the sea.

Whistle blasts from the whole fleet was the only salute.

Ten minutes later the Cuban flagship Hatuey fired a farewell national salute to the squadron, to which both cruisers replied, then shaped their course for Norfolk.

Precisely twenty minutes elapsed from the opening of the valves until the vessel disappeared. This was exactly as planned. The depth where the Maine plunged is estimated to be not less than 600 fathoms, and on account of this and the velocity of the gulf stream, it is believed that she did not reach the bottom until carried many miles to the north and eastward.

MILLING $200,000 OF NATIONAL ORE

IS SECOND-CLASS ROCK AND EX-TRACTED FROM THE STALL
LEASE.

An interesting event in the history of the wonderful camp of National is the reduction of the great pile of ore on what was known as the Stall brothers' lease on the ground owned by the National Mines company on the famous Charleston hill. It is estimated that there are 2500 tons on the dump and will average as near as can be sampled about $80 to the ton, and the mill owned by the company commenced grinding on this bonanza pile of ore last week.

The history of the Stall brothers' lease is well known on the public for it was in working this block of ground that the wonderful treasure vaults of National were discovered and this lease alone in a comparatively short time produced in high-grade alone over a million dollars. The big pile of ore now being milled is the second grade material that incased the extremely rich gold ore that brought the camp into prominence with one of the richest high-grade mines in the world.

Frank W. Stall, one of the owners of the rich pile of ore, is in town and expects to go to National in a few days, to be present during the milling operations of the rich ore pile.

CHILD WOULD NOT EAT

Constant Cough Weakened Him.
A healthy child ought to be "hungry as a bear" at meal time. Poor appetite means falling health.

The best thing you can do for a child that won't eat is to give teaspoonful doses of Vinol. This is wonderfully good in bringing back lost appetite and it is so pleasant that children take it eagerly.

Mrs. E. Stranger of Bronx Borough, N. Y., says: "My little son, three years old, had bronchitis for a year. The cough disturbed his rest and he lost his appetite.

"I gave him Vinol for a while and it stopped his coughing and brought back his appetite. His health has improved wonderfully. He likes Vinol."

It is the tonic iron and strengthening cod liver elements in Vinol (it contains no oil), that make it so strengthening and blood-enriching.
It makes weak, pale children strong and rosy, and we guarantee it to do exactly what we tell you—if it does not you get your money back.

pah, Nevada.

BULLY FOR THE FIVE-GALLON CAN

Many evils are charged to the Standard Oil company, but there is one blessing for which the big monopoly must be given credit. The empty gasoline or kerosene can is a blessing to the denizens of the desert. Four of them, filled with water, make just the right load for a jackass. One holds just a dime's worth of water. Split endwise, a bachelor's dishpan is the result. An experienced housekeeper cannot do without them. Cut the top out of one, and you have a vessel just the right size to boil a ham. Cut around three edges of one end, and you have a box with a door, which mice cannot molest. If the roof leaks, cut up an oil can and patch it. If you want an ash pan, cut one in two, and there you are. Partly fill half of one with ashes, and you have a spittoon. In fact, if you want to make anything, get an oil can and go to work. Long live the oil can! Hock the oil can! Vive the oil can! Hurrah for the old can!—Wonder News.
