Lesson From a Report

A glance at the annual statement of the Tonopah postoffice printed in the Bonanza of yesterday is highly illuminating as tending to show some of the discouragements which have to be met by merchants doing business in the town. In the first place it is apparent to the most superficial observer that too much money goes out from citizens of Tonopah. Contrary to common belief this money is not sent to Europe in the proportion represented by current report. In fact, the volume of international orders is disappointingly low. On the contrary the aggregate of domestic money orders is disheartening. The inference is plain. The men and women who are draining money from the camp are not included in what is referred to as the foreign element. It is the English speaking householder patronizing mail order houses who lacks loyalty to home institutions. The drain on the vitality of the camp is too much. There should be some way of counteracting this debilitating influence and it is up to the merchants to devise some way or means by which this enormous sum of money may be deflected to legitimate business channels. If they are selling their goods on a parity with competitors burdened with lower taxes, allowing for the increased cost of insurance, freight and rent, they should let the consumer know. This can be done by advertising their offerings and boldly challenging buyers to show where they fail to make an attractive showing. A campaign of advertising would work wonders in a short time and there is no doubt such a course would wear mail order buyers from outside purchases and bring them to a realization of their duty to the home merchant. The latter has to share the cost of maintaining the town and he is entitled to substantial support.

The pay roll of Tonopah is estimated at $5,000,000 per annum. Domestic money orders to the extent of $318,690.94 were issued by the Tonopah postoffice for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. The year before the amount was $283,562.97. This represents over ten per cent of the total pay roll of the camp sent out for some reason or other not explained. The deduction is that outside merchants secured a large percentage of the total. There is little excuse for such a drain on the wealth of the town and the Merchants association would do well to give this subject close attention with the object of diverting some of this business back to home firms. The total of international money orders issued for the last fiscal year was $58,989.15. The relative paucity of this business cannot be explained by the emigration last spring of so many Slavonians, Montenegrins and other former residents of the Balkan states to the old country to take up arms for fatherland for the records of the year preceding when there was no disturbance across the water shows even a smaller sum taken out of local circulation.

The secret of depression in mercantile circles is the domestic money order which in nine cases out of ten goes for cash purchases that are made at the expense of the local dealer. The latter has to credit customers that they may use their ready cash for the convenience of outside firms and it is natural that under such circumstances the local merchant has to exact a slightly higher price.

A Duty and An Opportunity

We may as well start out by admitting that Nevada needs nothing right now more than intelligent and properly directed publicity, says the Reno Gazette. As a community we have been advertised in about every manner except in regard to those things which would cause the stranger, the home seeker and tourist not to shun us entirely or pass us by with but scant notice. It is a fact, deplorable and regrettable, that the man, woman or child in any of the states east of Nevada, today, and particularly in the section east of Colorado, who seeks definite information regarding the climate, industries, agriculture or other resources of Nevada, finds, after the ordinary processes of research, that the information is not to be had. It is not in the public libraries, because little of an authoritative nature has been written or compiled. It is not in the magazines, because we have not succeeded in getting the eastern publishers to print much about Nevada except the things they have supposed the public wants to know regarding some of our "peculiarities."

The result is that we inhabit a vast empire, as large as several of the eastern states, regarding which our neighbors have about as much knowledge as they and we have of the land inhabited by the blond Eskimos. And most of them have about as much desire to enter upon a tour of exploration as we have to visit the habitat of the dwellers in the ice fields.

Nevada is a state of wonderful opportunities. We here at home know this. We know also that nothing is more to be desired right now than that knowledge we possess may be disseminated. We have not yet succeeded in carrying or sending this information to the people of the eastern states in such a way as to induce the desired influx of capital and immigration. Now the people of the east are coming to the west to see for themselves. Can we do less than show them the things we have? Twice the sum appropriated would not be too much to pay were the results logically possible secured. We are not in the position of the communities which have nothing to sell or nothing to export. We are here in fact with the opportunity of a great-thing, perhaps a greater opportunity, even, than can possibly come to us in another half century. Any reconstruction along the line suggested by the politicians who favor a recall of the expeditious appropriation by referendum or by special legislative enactment would, according to our view of the matter, be the worst possible form of false economy.—Reno Gazette.

TOM LOCKHART ASKS WHERE IS JUMBO X CASH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Former President Thomas G. Lockhart of the Jumbo Extension Mining company of Goldfield, when seen in his offices in the Security building, said that he was still a heavy stockholder in the Jumbo Extension Mining company and that he was in hearty sympathy with the eastern attacks which have recently been made on the present Jumbo Extension management.

Mr. Lockhart said he would like to know what has become of the $124,000 that was in the treasury of the company when President Edward F. Van Dyck took over the control and what has become of the returns from the output of the mine since the beginning of Van Dyck's administration.

Van Dyck, in his annual report to stockholders fails to make a financial statement.

Mr. Lockhart says Van Dyck was formerly a clerk in the employ of the Jumbo Extension and Goldfield Florence companies.

Since Van Dyck became president of the Jumbo Extension, he has become a cattle king, contesting supremacy with Miller and Lux, the noted ranchmen, around Skaggs, Sonoma county, Cal.

Mr. Lockhart has refused to send Van Dyck his proxy to re-elect himself to office.

The withholding of the Lockhart proxy, taken in conjunction with the eastern attacks which have been made on Van Dyck's management, explains why Van Dyck is unable to re-elect himself.

The annual stockholders' meeting was set for July 14, but was adjourned because a majority of the stock was not represented. The adjourned meeting will be held on September 15.

Mr. Lockhart is associated with A. D. Parker, the noted Colorado railway financier, in the ownership of Goldfield Florence, and notwithstanding the fact that Florence has sold up to $6 a share, he has never parted with a share of his stock, allowing it to decline in the markets to 25 cents without taking advantage of the opportunity to sell. He is rated in Nevada and California as "honest as the day is long," and does not hesitate to express his dissatisfaction with the present management of Jumbo Extension.

Last year President Van Dyck reported to Jumbo Extension stockholders that the average value of the company's large tonnage of milling ores was $20 per ton, leaving a fat margin of profit, and on frequent occasions after that Mr. Van Dyck telegraphed east and west that bodies of very high grade shipping ore had been opened up. In his recent annual report stockholders were shocked to have him state officially that the average value of the ores was around $5 and did not pay to mill.
