Marketing Copper Ores

The proposition to establish a custom leaching plant for copper, gold and silver ores at Luning will be received with applause by the miners of that part of the state, who have been without a market for their product except by accepting high railroad rates to the smelters of Salt Lake. The leaching plant, it is said, will not interfere with or compete with the Gunn-Thompson furnaces in the Yerington section, as the Luning plant will take care of ores running 5 per cent and upward in copper content.

As soon as the plant is installed the prospectors and operators who have occupied the Luning field for the last ten years will find a cash customer for all the ore they can produce at a minimum of cost and without paying tribute to the transportation companies. This should furnish employment to a thousand men in a territory tributary to Tonopah and serve as a general stimulus to business. Here is where the miners and operators will look for their supplies, and here the citizens of the upper end of Mineral county will look for labor and machinery.

Development of the Luning district has been a slow process, and apparently hopeless, but, like all new districts where the industrial metals predominate, the territory has come to the front with thorough exploration and the interesting of capital.

Capital can always be found where the opportunity is present. All it needs is to have the conditions sifted down to concrete facts and cleared of all theories and assumptions. This takes money, and the average prospector cannot procure money for exploration without surrendering a large percentage of his prospective profits. Thus it becomes a question of the wisdom of parting with a portion of a given area or holding on until a distant day when others develop adjacent claims and all claimholders share in the advent of prosperity. A give-and-take policy is always the best in the long run, and the man who chooses to part with a fraction of his ground is more likely to find capital than he who insists on the man with the money making the overtures.

Heavy Immigration

Arrival in this country of a larger number of immigrants for the past fiscal year than for any other of the ten preceding years excepting one, is a fact which is causing some people to do a little thinking as well as asking pertinent questions. Does it mean a rising tide of prosperity that 1,197,892 immigrant aliens were admitted to the United States in the year ended June 30 last, compared with 838,172 in 1912, with 878,587 in 1911 and 1,285,349 in 1907, when the climax of the inward movement was reached and broken up by the collapse of business with the panic of that autumn? Or does it, as in 1907, point to the crest of a prosperity wave soon to break?

In July, 138,244 immigrants were admitted, compared with 78,101 a year ago and 51,737 in July, 1911. July this year received more than the total of that month in 1912 and 1911 together.

Hitherto there have been only four years prior to 1913 when more than 1,000,000 immigrant aliens were admitted to the United States. Whether the fiscal year 1913, which ranks with the five big years, is going to be only a temporary high-water mark, as was that of 1910, after recovery from 1907, still remains to be seen.

There is little lack of employment anywhere in the country just now, except where people are on strike. These disturbances are only incidental and are just now rather rare. The south is taking direct some large companies of immigrants. The demand for unskilled labor is steady and there is a good deal of work going on where this class of employment is in demand. The lumber camps are making provisions for the winter's work. Some construction work is being taken up and many manufacturers and mines are in a position to absorb considerable numbers.

Mail order systems are growing. First came the money order, then parcels post, C. O. D. deliveries and banking by mail. Now the drummers want the right to vote by mail, and there is more than a betting chance that they will find early relief from disfranchisement. The public is only waking up to the value of the postoffice department as a vehicle for ordinary business, and it is not improbable that, before another president is seated, government ownership of telegraphs will be broached.

Newlands is on his way to appease the cry of his henchmen for some argument to overcome his standing on the tariff question. He shouldn't worry. He will have plenty of time to explain. The chances are that he will take the southern route to avoid the wool growers of Elko and Humboldt counties who listened to the lure of the siren in the last election. Pittman shows no anxiety to come back to his constituents.

The diaphanous gown has a powerful influence. In Lima, Ohio, a "blind" beggar regained his sight on observing a transparency enveloping a pretty girl pass the corner where he was soliciting alms.

Sulzer is eager to make his peace, but he is a trifle late in reckoning with the people. They cannot be fooled all the time.

ENGLAND HAS PLAN TO PROMOTE ATHLETICS FOR THE OLYMPIC

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A new plan prepared by the English Amateur Athletic association for the development of English athletes for the Olympic games at Berlin in 1916 has attracted favorable comment both at home and abroad. It is proposed to create interest and enthusiasm in track and field sports in all grades of competitors from the school boy to the club athlete. A systematic series of championship games at standard metric distances is planned, beginning with public school championships and continuing through every classification of English athletes up to the national championships.

The program includes: Public school championships—Under the approval and co-operation of the head masters, and a committee from the schools to accept entries and to manage the meeting. County championships—To take place in counties where they do not at present exist at metric distances. Triangular Olympic contests—Triangular contests between England, Scotland and Ireland at metric distances. Olympic field events—To include these in the Amateur Athletic association championships, and introduce such field events which are not at present included, if possible, to arrange for a two-days' meeting. Scratch races—To assist affiliated clubs with prizes, provided they include approved scratch races at metric distances in their program. Such races to include scratch races during 1913 and 1914 for novices, open only to competitors who have never won a prize in athletics, ordinary school competitions not to count. A series of competitions at Olympic distances and events to be called Olympic novice trials. The events to be level, and open only to competitors over 17 years of age who have never won a prize at athletics, ordinary school competitions and junior sections of athletic clubs not to count as wins.

On the question of training and trainers, the A. A. A. officials have announced that the question of training has been considered at length, and it was agreed that necessary arrangements should be made for central quarters in London and other centers, such as Manchester, Birmingham, Cardiff and Newcastle, where an official trainer and adviser would be on the track at a set hour to advise and help approved athletes.

As an example of the new spirit at New Haven, the Yale Basketball association has decided to enter a "varsity" five in the Intercollegiate Basketball league this winter. The blue withdrew from the league last winter owing to lack of interest and financial support on the part of the student body. It has been decided, however, that in order to stimulate interest in basketball at Yale it will be necessary to have the university represented in the league again. As a result of this decision Captain H. D. Swihart will call the candidates together at the end of November and place them in charge of Coach Haskell Noyes, captain of the Yale championship teams of 1907 and 1908. Since his graduation Noyes has coached the University of Wisconsin fives with remarkable success.

Quality Is the True Test of Cheapness
 Price can often be used as a strong argument in some lines of business, because a cheaper grade often answers the purpose of the purchaser. But it is different. Cheap drugs will never take the place of pure, high-grade ones. Quality—regardless of price—should be the chief consideration of careful drug buyers. What you buy here in the line of drugs and medicines will be of right quality, and the price will be right, too.
IN THE DRUG BUSINESS
 Right goods, right service and right prices are usually closely associated. Come here for Drugs and Sundries.
