TIME TO GET TOGETHER.

TONOPAH is confronted with a very serious situation. There is no denying the fact. Two leading mining companies have resorted to the courts to settle their differences with an ominous and endless apex as the dominant issue. Records of such litigation do not portend an early settlement, as the questions are so involved and complex that a decade may pass into eternity and find the cases still pigeonholed in the records of some superior court for which the suits are destined.

Hundreds of small investors and stockholders, whose every dollar is locked up in the securities of these corporations, must wait. They will suffer the keenest pangs of disappointment and blighted hopes. Their dreams of retirement to some snug farm in a more peaceful section are shattered. The future of their children may depend on the speedy settlement of this litigation. Plans for the higher education of their children must be abandoned and their faith in the men who have done so much to place Tonopah on the map as the most prosperous camp of the nation will be rudely disturbed. Some consideration should be given these people. They are innocent sufferers who invested their earnings in local mines with the conviction that some day they would receive the reward to which they are justly entitled.

In the name of justice and fair play the Bonanza urges the directors of both companies involved to get together in a businesslike way and try earnestly to evolve a plan of mutual satisfaction. They can do it without sacrificing an atom of principle or losing any prestige.

The West End has come into the dividend earning class after a period of trying experiences and the Jim Butler is on the threshold of paying dividends. Both properties have a glowing future. They have large estates underlain with mineral wealth and each has demonstrated the fact that it has the making of mines that, with judicious management, will stand second to none in Nevada. The only cloud on their future is the overhanging litigation which will mortgage the earnings of both companies for an indefinite time. Some way should be found to avert such a tragedy. It is suicidal to continue such fratricidal struggle. The Bonanza appeals to the directors of both companies to make one more effort to settle their differences. Bear and forbear is the motto that moves the world. Men of generous impulses and broad minds should learn to give and take, and every move in that direction will be cordially endorsed by stockholders whether they are rich or poor.

The West End has won the undying support of local investors, for the reason they know the affairs of that company were in the hands of Frank M. Smith, a Nevada man, one of their own kind, a prospector by training and experience, and one whose generous nature has never turned against an appeal from the worthy. The Jim Butler, named after the father of Tonopah, carries with it the prestige of that grand old man who was worshipped by every prospector and whose name has always been associated with ideals of honor, candor and square dealing. It was Jim Butler who refused to enter into written contracts with the pioneer lenders of Tonopah. He preferred to take their word instead of a bond for the fulfillment of their pledges and he was not mistaken in his men. At midnight when all leasing contracts expired, every man operating under the tribute system laid down his drill, shovel or hammer and came trooping down Mizpah hill to join in a demonstration in honor of the man who relied on their honesty to do as they were pledged. Stockholders of the Jim Butler and West End look to the precedents established by Nevada men to find a way out of the present dilemma and prevent a deadlock which can only be disastrous.

This retrospect brings to mind the days when Wise Brougher, H. C. (Cal.) Brougher, T. L. Oddie and Jim Butler came out here on the desert and wrested a mineral principality from the wilderness. They cleared the way for others and made possible the erection of such cities as Tonopah and Goldfield, where a few years before the hungry coyote could scarcely find a scanty repast or enough water to slake his thirst. The sacrifices of these pioneers should not be forgotten and the Bonanza feels it imperative to urge a reconsideration of differences before the dispute reaches an ultimatum. The people who have invested their money in stocks of either company feel that the hardships thrust upon them will appeal to the respective directors when they become known.

It is idle play to spend the splendid earnings of both mines in the employment of lawyers and mine experts. Lawyers are employed by mining companies to keep them out of litigation and, if the matter is left to the attorneys with free rein to act in the interest of stockholders they will find some middle ground on which their clients can meet and solve the problem that has culminated in a lawsuit that must otherwise be a most expensive proceeding.

Mr. H. C. Brougher feels satisfied that the case can be settled by the men at the head of the two companies getting together and it is hoped something more than an effort will be made to bring about this result.

ABSINTHE BANISHED AFTER MAY FIRST

UNDER THE PURE FOOD LAW DECOCTION OF WORMWOOD IS FORBIDDEN.

After the first of next month the man who thinks he requires a bracer after a night with the boys will have to find some substitute for the tantalizing green liqueur distilled in France which is so stimulating in a trape. Absinthe is forbidden under section 4, paragraph 5 of the Nevada pure food and drug act, which reads: "Foods shall be deemed to be adulterated within the meaning of this statute if it contains any added poisonous or other added deleterious ingredient."

The beverage known commonly as absinthe is a manufactured product containing wormwood, or absinthium, a serious ingredient, and added deleterious and injurious to the health of the people. Any of the product found on the market after May 1st will be confiscated and destroyed.

Deputy Inspector Addison has received instructions to watch saloons for the sale of this drink and also to notify all wholesalers and retailers that they are not permitted to have absinthe in their possession after that date.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS GIVE A CARD PARTY

Next Wednesday afternoon the ladies of the Women's Relief Corps will give a card party for the benefit of the old soldiers and veteran patriots whose declining years they seek to solace. There will be prizes and refreshments, and those who have had the pleasure of attending one of these affairs will make a point of attending on this occasion.
