WONDERFUL TONOPAH.

Tonopah banks paid out Monday, which was pay day for most of the mines, the stupendous sum of $495,000. About half of this was for labor, the balance being dividends paid to local owners of stock. This statement makes a great showing for Tonopah, especially as it is correct and its publication is authorized by the two banks operating in the town. Nevada should feel proud of Tonopah and never miss an opportunity to boost its glory. The more attention that can be attracted to the southern silver camp the greater probability of calling attention to and developing other camps in the state.—Carson Appeal.

E. E. WINFREY RUNNING STRONG

E. E. WINFREY, Democratic candidate for the nomination for state superintendent of public instruction, is in Tonopah for a few days and will return north Tuesday morning.

Mr. Winfrey, who is deputy superintendent of instruction, is very familiar with the duties of the office to which he aspires and is gratified to report that he has met with a pleasant reception wherever he has gone during the campaign. He has an extensive personal acquaintance in Eureka, Humboldt, Washoe, Lyons and Lander counties, where he taught the greater part of his life, and where scores of his pupils now are among the leading citizens. Then in the counties of Mineral, Storey, Douglas and Ormsby he is known in his official capacity as deputy and is confident of carrying those counties.

Mr. Winfrey has spent 23 years in actual teaching and the last two years looking after the schools in the middle western part of the state. At Tonopah he has made numerous friends and voters of both the old parties are well pleased with the candidate.

MARK BRADSHAW MINE INSPECTOR

Mark G. Bradshaw, of Candelaria, is the Republican candidate for the office of state mine inspector and has the honor of being the only man in the running who hails from the southern part of the state. Mr. Bradshaw has spent a couple of days in Tonopah and left this morning for Goldfield with the intention of returning Monday to spend the day here with his old associates.

Mr. Bradshaw is a native son of Nevada, having been born in Battle Mountain, where his father was engaged in building bridges for the Southern Pacific, and has spent most of his manhood in Goldfield, Tonopah and Candelaria. Through his instrumentality the old camp of Candelaria was rescued from oblivion by resumption of work on the Metallic property, which made the first shipment since 1893 in the name of Bradshaw. Since the resumption this mine has sent out 2,500 tons. Mr. Bradshaw has worked in Fairview, Wonder and Luckyboy, and was elected to the assembly from Esmeralda county in 1910. At the last election he was too busy to pay any attention to politics and let the nomination go by default, although he could have had it for the asking.

Mr. Bradshaw is not making any promises except to say the office will be run to the satisfaction of operators and miners with the object in view of securing absolute safety underground.

VIVID PEN PICTURE OF OPENING OF THE GERMAN SIEGE OF LIEGE

LONDON, August 8.—The only man who has yet got back to London after witnessing the first attacks of the Germans on Liege is Benjamin Hallet, a member of a Belgian zinc firm, who reached here after traveling forty-eight hours without food. Mr. Hallet said:

"A grim determination not to surrender Liege to the Germans until its last defender has been killed inspired every citizen I spoke to.

"There were many heartrending scenes in the streets as the troops marched out to meet the invaders. I heard one old woman say through her tears, 'He's my only son, and it will break my heart to have him killed, but I'll be satisfied if he kills three Germans first.'

"Despite their valor and resolution, I had no idea the Liegeois would be able to make such a magnificent and wonderful defense against such an overwhelming force as the Germans brought up. I saw the opening of the terrific struggle Wednesday and then came away.

German General's Mistake.

"The Germans had their big guns far away across the River Meuse out of sight. A small detachment came in with a white flag. It was Gen. von Emmich, the German commander, who came to demand the surrender of the city, saying he merely wanted free passage for his troops and would not hurt a soul, but he was friendly with everybody, and pay cash at the people's own prices for everything that was needed.

"When Gen. von Emmich, after talking of Waterloo and how the Germans had practically given the Belgians everything they have, including existence, began referring in a threatening tone, to the power of the German army as known to be irresistible, the Belgian officers shifted on their feet. But when he started saying what would happen to every Liegeois if the city did not at once do as the kaiser required, Gen. von Emmich was curly told that his request was refused, and the Belgian officers moved away, breaking off the interview.

"Gen. von Emmich had barely ridden back across the bridge over the River Meuse, and was still in sight, cantering across the beautiful valley, when there was a long roar, a crackling crash and splash. The bridge had been blown up. Gen. von Emmich was seen to turn on his horse and watch the cloud of dust which went up into the air far above the cloud of smoke from the explosives.

"The next hour was, I think, the busiest I have ever seen. Women and children, weeping, were hurried away in every possible kind of vehicle and many on foot, staggering along, trying to run and hardly able to walk, because they were carrying so many things. The men, and many women, too, were taking up positions to which they were sent by those who were in charge. The soldiers were hurrying at the double to their positions. There came an astonishing silence. The Germans were coming.

Saw Germans Coming.

"From the tops of the old disused fortresses—from almost anywhere in the city, in fact, because Liege is on a hill—the German troops could be seen approaching. Just as the first line came into view, the guns of the German artillery, posted somewhere far behind them, started booming. The shells could be heard coming as they hummed through the air. They were not aimed at the city, but at the forts, which lie in a crooked line quite some distance out. Some of the shells went wide, buried in the earth, and then kicked up a vicious, spiteful kick. Some hit the forts, but buried themselves in the sand out-works and spluttered out. The forts did not reply.

"Ahead of the German column galloped some wagons. They pulled up alongside the river, near the wreckage of the blown-up bridge. The soldiers, looking in the distance like busy ants at work, seemed to be tearing their wagons to pieces and throwing the bits into the river. Other men picked up the bits, and in what seemed an amazingly little

AMUSEMENTS

BUTLER THEATER.

This evening's program at the Butler will be one of unusual interest, showing four reels of interesting pictures, as follows: Barry O'Moore in "The Adventures of the Missing Leg," produced in collaboration with the "Pictorial Review." Pat celebrates the receipt of a legacy after the most approved fashion. When the bag of gold disappears Octavius unearths some marvelously useless clues. Pat drowns his sorrow very successfully, and the rest of the story is a scream. "The False and the True" is a Vitagraph drama, with Dorothy Kelly and George Cooper, and a Selig two-reel war drama, "The Baby Spy" is a romance of the borderland. Tomorrow—Alice Joyce in a two-reel Kalem production "Nina, of the Theater," and the sixth number of the "Dollie of the Dollies" series with Mary Fuller, Monday—Six-reel feature, "Home, Sweet Home," a life drama in memory of John Howard Payne, author of the most generally beloved and widely appealing song ever penned. High domestic sentiment is the theme.—Adv.

SUNDAY DINNER AT THE HARRINGTON HOUSE

The Harrington house now serves a regular Sunday dinner at the popular price of fifty cents and the hostess invites all her friends to call once and give the house a trial. The dining room of the Harrington is the most spacious in town and the lofty ceilings and broad porches render this the coolest place for eating that can be found in the southern country. The chef of the Harrington is a master of his art and one visit is certain to make a regular patron of all guests. 1-W-Sat-tf

A Word of Caution

In nothing else can a person be more deceived than in the matter of glasses. Fakirs and unscrupulous peddlers know this and the country and often the city is visited by men who mislead the customer and give him only the cheapest and most harmful glasses.

Just why people will be led into the trap set by the "Big I Traveling Dr." no one seems to know.

Tonopah is my home. I'm here to do what's to be done with glasses—to do it well without "doing" you.
