EXTENSIVE WORK ON GREAT BEND

President Charles S. Sprague of the Goldfield Great Bend Mining company announced today that the company has succeeded in purchasing the outstanding stock of the Diamondfield Mining and Milling company, which has been operating on the property a lease that still ran for about two and one-half years, and that plans are at present being mapped out for the resumption of operations by the parent company on an extensive scale in the near future, says the Goldfield Tribune. These plans, he stated, include the enlargement of the lessees' mill from five to ten stamps. The lessees recently made a bullion shipment, valued at about $600, which represented a cleanup of a run of dump ore. There are excellent ore showings on various levels of the property and it is the intention of the management to proceed with the further development of the ground as rapidly as possible.

PIONEERS' SOCIETY PAY THEIR RESPECTS

FUNERAL OF MRS. RULISON HELD EASTER AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Pioneers of Nevada will participate in the funeral services at the Congregational church at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Ellen M. Rulison, wife of Charles H. Rulison, who died last night after an illness of several weeks, says Saturday's Reno Journal. The funeral services will be under the auspices of the Pioneers' association, at the Congregational church. Rev. W. D. Trout will officiate.

Mrs. Rulison was 77 years old and a native of New York, where she was born at Glenn Falls, June 12, 1837. She came to Nevada in 1862 with her husband. They settled at Dayton and resided there until 1888, when they moved to Reno. The family home was at 534 West street.

Her husband, three sons, two daughters and five grandchildren survive Mrs. Rulison. The sons are Dr. David W. and Fred J. Rulison of Reno, and Charles J. Rulison of Carson City. The daughters are Dr. Helen M. Rulison of Tonopah and Mrs. Fred Small of Reno. To Mrs. Rulison the sympathies of her many friends in Tonopah are extended.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Rulison, Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church, was well attended by friends and pioneers, of which society she was a member. Rev. W. D. Trout paid a fitting tribute to her many virtues and her favorite hymns were sung amid a wealth of Easter blooms.

A tribute offered by one of her pioneer friends follows: "In her death another pioneer has passed within the veil, whither the vast majority of those who helped form the early history of Nevada have gathered. She was a native of Glenn Falls, N. Y., of Scotch-Irish parentage. She inherited the sturdy qualities of both races. Her life was one of unostentatious sterling Christianity; her creed to minister to her family in all ways useful to their best interests; to live peacefully with her neighbors; to recognize her dependence on a Higher Power for wisdom and guidance. She leaves the best possible legacy to her family and friends, of whom she had many, the example of a quiet and unselfish life, happy in her home and children who rise and call her blessed. Would the world held more of her stamp, it would be better and happier by far. She is not dead, only gone before into that higher school where life goes on as real as this, where our friends are waiting to welcome us, and to us who are nearing the evening of life there is a looking forward to a happier reunion with those who have passed within the veil, just out of sight, but not afar."—Journal.

TONOPAH TODAY IS CLEANING UP

MUNICIPAL TEAMS WILL START TO REMOVE THE RUBBISH TOMORROW

Owing to the inclemency of the weather yesterday, the cleaning up program for the week was somewhat neglected. This morning, however, the property holders began in earnest and all over the city rakes are kept busy. Chief of Police Evans and Dr. Richards, the health officer, are directing operations. Four teams will start work tomorrow morning removing the debris. It is requested most urgently that there be no delay on the part of owners or occupants of premises which would necessitate the return of teams to districts which they had already visited.

As timbering is in progress today and the work of the shaft is being continued, the importance of the find is still to be determined. For the last fifteen feet the shaft has been revealing vein matter carrying small values.

NEGRASKAN SEEKS HIS BROTHER HERE

J. F. HELM LOOKING FOR JOHN M. HELM, BREWER AND MINING MAN

Guided by a letter written May 7, 1906, from the William Tell house of Reno, J. F. Helm of McCook, Neb., a wealthy farmer, is in Reno seeking his cousin, John Michael Helm, who wrote that he was dying and that he had $91,250 invested in mines in Tonopah and Goldfield, says the Gazette.

Aided by P. E. Groesbeck of Groesbeck & O'Brien, Mr. Helm searched the death records of Reno, but found no evidence that his cousin had died here. The letter written at the William Tell house had a number of postscripts, written at different times, and they indicated he was growing weaker and that, in case of his death, records would be left and notice sent to Nebraska.

The only notice received, Mr. Helm says, was a newspaper with a cross marked on an item saying Helm had bought another mine at Tonopah for $40,000. Mr. Helm will leave tonight for Tonopah and Goldfield to see whether he can locate his cousin. His cousin first came west from Joplin, Mo., where he was in charge of a brewery, in 1901 or 1902. J. F. Helm is on his way to the exposition.

LOS ANGELES PULLING FOR LINCOLN HIGHWAY

FAVORS ROUTE VIA TONOPAH AND GOLDFIELD TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The city of Los Angeles is the Mecca of all transcontinental auto-ists. They may cross the continent over a half dozen different routes, but they all terminate at Los Angeles, and from that place tour all points of interest in southern California, says the Ely Record. The city of Los Angeles has been mainly responsible for the construction of two good highways leading through Arizona, and for this reason perhaps, her commercial bodies have heretofore "pulled" for those routes, to the detriment of the Lincoln highway, but recently the people there have seen a great light, and at last are awake to the importance of the new transcontinental route, which will soon eclipse all other highways on the continent. The commercial bodies of Los Angeles have at last awakened to the fact that southern California must have direct connection with the Lincoln highway, and for that purpose they have appointed Harold L. Arnold to make a tour of the route to Ely via Goldfield and Tonopah for the purpose of getting first hand information of the route, as the following telegram will testify:

"Los Angeles, California, March 29, 1915. G. S. Hoag, Sec'y Nevada Auto Ass'n, Ely, Nevada:

"Being commissioned by commercial bodies of Los Angeles to enlist cooperation of Nevada and Utah in development of a commercial highway from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles via Ely, Goldfield, Big Pine and Mojave, we propose driving over that route for preliminary investigation as soon as road conditions are favorable. Please advise me fully as to roads and climatic conditions at this time and whether we can count on your co-operation in the promotion of this enterprise.

"HAROLD L. ARNOLD." Mr. Hoag, who has been routing southern California travel over this route for several years, replied to the telegram in the most favorable terms. He not only told them that the road was in splendid condition and climatic conditions perfect, but also that they could rely upon his hearty co-operation with regard to all travel needed for southern California. Heretofore the people of Los Angeles have been unfriendly to the Lincoln highway, but now that it is generally recognized as the great national thoroughfare, they have changed their minds, and in the future can be relied upon as the best of all boosters for the route. They realize now, if not before, that the Lincoln highway is much preferable to the routes through Arizona for summer tourists, and a careful inspection of the route will convince them that road conditions as a whole are even better than those of the southern routes. They can be of great assistance in directing travel from southern California through Ely and on to the east, and doubtless they will be the means of directing hundreds, perhaps thousands, of tourists this way.

RESOLUTIONS REGARDING THE LATE ARTHUR H. PARSONS

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of the Desert Power and Mill company, held at its office in Philadelphia, March 25th, 1915:

It is with profound sorrow that this board has heard of the death of our esteemed employe, Mr. Arthur H. Parsons. The many months of courageous battle with his almost incurable, though flattering, malady left but little hope for his restoration to health and bespoke a probable premature dissolution, and as feared, the end came on Wednesday, the thirty day of March, A. D. 1915.

Therefore, Resolved, That in Mr. Parsons' death this company has lost an industrious, energetic and highly capable superintendent, and one whose integrity and loyalty were never questioned.

Resolved, That in his death the profession in which he engaged has suffered the loss of one who had already advanced its efficiency, and had his life been prolonged he would doubtless have accomplished much that would have placed his name among the successful scientists and added much to material prosperity.

Resolved, further, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the board of directors and a copy be sent to Mrs. Parsons, his widow, and to Mr. Parsons, his father, as an expression of the sorrow of this board and as an evidence of the high esteem in which he was regarded by the company.

Resolved, further, That a copy of these resolutions be ordered published in each of the newspapers published in Tonopah.
