ANOTHER FAILURE REGISTERED

A PARTY of Iowa people, arriving late last night by auto and desirous of continuing their journey early in the morning, made inquiry as to the choice of roads from this point, but at that hour there was no one to give information. The hotel did not possess any literature descriptive of Tonopah and Nye county, nor a local road map. The travelers left this city with scarcely any knowledge locally gained of its resources and attractions and nothing to guide them on their way except a general map which they had secured somewhere back east. Certainly Tonopah will not appeal to them in memory, except with recollections of its being a sleepy, self-neglecting place that doesn't realize that it pays to advertise.

The Bonanza has repeatedly urged the calling of a meeting to organize an association that would prepare logs of the roads in this locality and get up some handy pocket literature, as well as to appoint a reception committee that could give some personal attention to these travelers. At the last called meeting there was present one reporter and one business man whom the reporter asked to come along. It is true that the pictures were particularly good that evening, besides it was almost too nice out of doors to spend an hour in a stuffy office. At all events the meeting failed.

HOW TO BUILD A BIG INDUSTRY

AMERICAN industry is again rising to its appointed task. It has undertaken to supply for all American needs all the dyestuffs which our manufacturers will require. To do this, however, means the expenditure of a great deal of new capital for the erection of plants and their equipment. So long as the war continues and a British fleet shuts out from our shores the German dyes, these new American dye plants will be able to live comfortably. But when the war ends the German producers who have made dyes their especial product will again be able to undersell the American output unless the latter receive a decent amount of protection. There is virtually no secret about this industry which is not now in our possession. It is only a question of whether capital will risk this new venture without the assurance of fair play, according to American Protective standards. Our country has the capacity to make dyes enough for our own use. A spirit of broad and helpful statesmanship at Washington would see to it that this expanding industry will get a tariff law that will enable it to go on expanding, war or no war.

THE DEPARTED OF NEVADA

JUDGE C. C. GOODWIN'S address at Carson City on Independence Day was heard by thousands and the printed report read by many thousands more. It was not the oration that was expected from this oldest living exponent of Nevada journalism. There were some who expected it to be devoted chiefly to reminiscences of the early history of the state and the tracing of the growth of the commonwealth from its very genesis.

It was not such, except where these points were lightly touched upon. That was the pathetic part of his beautiful oration. Bowed with his 83 years, Judge Goodwin did not see in the faces of the assemblage many who formerly smiled and sorrowed with him on the old lode. Their children and their children's children looked up at him as he spoke. Within the throng were chiefly those who had made this state their home after his departure to beyond its borders.

That was why Judge Goodwin wandered from his theme. It was too difficult a task to speak to the new generation and the newcomers, the words that he would have been so eager to utter in the presence of the men and women of the early days. But, with the exception of a meager handful, they had departed. In sadness he concluded:

"My soul has been holding a part of a memorial service ever since I reached Carson. Looking over the old scenes here 'all the burial places of memory have been giving up their dead.' My soul has been calling the names of the men and women whom I knew and loved here in the long ago. I wait and listen after each call, but no answer comes back through the folding doors that separate this world from the beyond."

The hearts of those who have known him went out to this venerable pioneer, for they knew that he was speaking the truth, and that his heart was in the dear old days of long ago.

IN THE STILLY NIGHT

IF INSOMNIA or other cause necessitates a night vigil, or if one reads by the open window after the city has hushed, there comes intermittently through the night a strange rattling roar that for a moment puzzles one to classify. It eventually is recognized as the dumping of waste over the dump or the emptying of ore into the bin, the difference between the two sounds being easily distinguishable.

Ever by day and by night these cars come from the depths, laden to return for a fresh burden. Beneath the city many hundreds of feet are silently working the forces of men and machinery that are creating these huge dumps that are miniature hills upon the mountain side. The reader finally becomes obsessed with the conclusions that are reached from his midnight theorizings as to the cause and effect of these intermittent rumbling emanations from the emptying cars. Each represents cost to the miner and to the mineowner in money and labor, each are equally difficult to bring to the surface, but one goes crashing into the bin and the other goes rolling down the dump.

A Word Is Enough to The Wise

Indoor living during winter months is apt to deprive the system of purifying oxygen. This will result in impoverished blood. A tired, sleepy, inert feeling should be sufficient warning that you need Our Beef, Iron and Wine to help nature restore your "vitality." This remedy is made in our own laboratory and contains all of the valuable strengthening qualities of fresh, lean beef—an easily assimilated form of iron—and a rich, mellow sherry wine. This is an ideal tonic for stimulating the system and aiding digestion. Price $1.00.

PROUTY'S UNION DRUG STORE

There is somewhere in the depths a mind that directs the destination of each, whether to remain waste upon the dumps of time, or go through the agony of the stamps and the melting pot to come forth burnished gold and silver to enrich and better humanity. Sometimes one wonders whether he is not like the rock that lies dormant in the earth awaiting the direction of a master mind as to his destination.

Perhaps tarvia was placed on Brougher avenue as well as Main street, but there is no positive assurance of that fact except for the coating of dust, which may conceal the road covering beneath. Kindly remove it, gentlemen of the commission. If you cannot separate the dust from the tarvia, take both and leave the street in as nearly as possible the condition in which it existed previous to the expensive experiment with pitch.

Confidence of the French people that their cause will ultimately triumph, as well as unbounded love for their country, has created an interesting spectacle in the banks of that republic, where additional letters have been employed to accommodate the people who are eager to exchange their hoards of gold for certificates of deposit which bear the inscription "for national defense."

NEBRASKA GIRL THE BRIDE OF TONOPAH

WEDDING OF MISS MARCIA L. WEBBER TO EDWYN D. MILLS

From the Schuyler (Neb.) Sun.
 Holy Trinity church was the scene of a very beautiful wedding on Thursday morning, June 10th, when Miss Marcia Louise Webber of this city became the bride of Edwyn D. Mills of Tonopah, Nevada. The church was decorated with lilies-of-the-valley, smilax and trailing ferns. Miss Mabelle Hughes played the wedding march and the ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Arthur L. Williams, bishop of Nebraska, assisted by the resident clergyman, Rev. E. A. Moore.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin with long court train, and was trimmed with priceless point lace which has been in the family for three generations. She wore a long tulle veil, cap effect with circlet of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Immediately after the ceremony a delicious breakfast was served at the home and then, amid showers of rice and rose petals, Mr. and Mrs. Mills left on the San Francisco limited for California where they will spend their honeymoon before going to their home in Tonopah.

Mrs. Mills is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Webber and has lived in Schuyler since babyhood. She is a graduate of Brownell Hall in Omaha and studied extensively at Mount Ida school in Boston and at Wellesley college at Wellesley, Mass. Her literary ability has been made known by many magazine articles and by her earnest efforts which have given Schuyler one of the finest public libraries in Nebraska. Her absence will be keenly felt in the church of her chosen faith, in the social life of the city and in the home where she has meant so much.

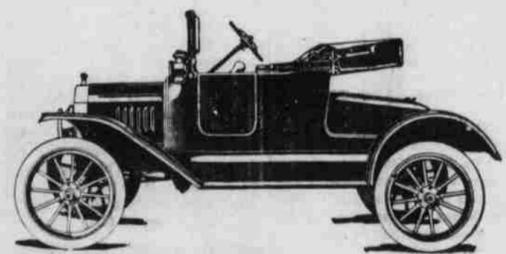

Mr. Mills is the eldest son of Rev. Samuel Mills, a former rector at Holy Trinity. It was on his vacation visits home that he met his wife, who was a close friend of his younger sister. Schuyler offers hearty congratulations and sincere good wishes to him and to his bride for their life in their new home.

SAINT QUENTIN NOW CONCENTRATION POINT

DAMAGED GUNS AND ROLLING STOCK OF GERMANS ARE TAKEN THERE

(By Associated Press.)
 PARIS, July 9.—Saint Quentin, supposed to be the general headquarters of German armies operating in France and Belgium, is the concentration point for damaged guns and rolling stock. The Krupps have installed in a motor-car works there a plant for the repair of cannon, machine guns, automobiles, gun carriages, etc. German workmen were imported from Essen to equip the plant. Barbed wire is also prepared for use and distribution from there.

The Saint Quentin works turn out an iron picket in the form of a cork screw to replace the wooden pickets.

WATER LOW IN HUMBOLDT

Reports in the state engineer's office, which come in regularly, do not show that the Humboldt river and its tributaries are very low. The stream measures less at this time of the year than at any time since 1884. In all other sections of the state, however, there is an abundance of water. The western, southern and southeastern sections are abundantly supplied and the season is so far along that, even with the scarcity of water in the Humboldt, the crops will not suffer much from the low water.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all the people of Tonopah, particularly those who supported me with their votes, for the distinguished honor they conferred upon my humble self when they made me Goddess of Liberty for the beautiful celebration recently held here. I wish to most particularly thank the ladies of the Goddess committee, for they were very kind. Sincerely yours,
 MARY HARRINGTON.
