LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF THE WAR

Correspondence of the Associated Press

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.—A banker of considerable prominence in Constantinople has given the Associated Press correspondent some idea of what may be accomplished in Turkey in event of the war having a favorable outcome for the Turks. Although the banker stipulated that his name should not be used at this time, his position and knowledge of the country are such that his statements, even appearing anonymously, may be considered as of unusual importance.

Discussing the essentials that would make Turkey a strong and self-contained political unit after the war, he said at the outset that what Turkey needed today most was an economic policy that would leave something for coming generations. In other words, exploitation would have to cease.

"The undeveloped resources of the Ottoman empire are enormous," he continued. "Turkey, for instance, could meet the entire grain shortage of Europe, if its soil were adequately tilled and marketing facilities afforded. Turkey could supply all of Europe with fruit, and ship fully one-half of the meat now imported by European countries from South and North America, Australia and New Zealand.

The intelligent cultivation of cotton would place Turkey next to the United States as a producer of the staple. The olive oil industry could be increased a thousand times. More wool could be exported. Ports of Anatolia and Syria are especially suited for the raising of plants of great medicinal value. Even coal of fair value could be shipped to the Mediterranean countries."

Before any of these things could be made possible, however, said the banker, the Ottoman government must realize that a stable economic policy is necessary. Some of the Young Turks had already arrived at such a conclusion, but little had been done even by them, he asserted.

"But we must be patient. It is hardly two years now since the Turks themselves have taken to work. Up to that time the Turks had held the erroneous notion that work was not particularly ennobling, that work, after all, was for others—Kurds, Greeks and Armenians. With the Turks holding the reins of government, this view could lead to but one result—a total lack of sound economic thought. Whatever was done had the meeting of immediate needs as its objective.

Exploitation of a most ruthless nature ensued. Under this system the splendid forests of Turkey were destroyed; the peasant was taxed to death and given no opportunity to improve either himself or his land; honest investors were kept out of the country, with the result that Turkey today has no industries, and is obliged even to ship its olive oil to Italy for refinement. The absence of all economic understanding on the part of those in power under the old regime was appalling. Those wishing to establish themselves in some industry or business in Turkey were usually asked to pay for the privilege in the form of a bribe to some official.

"Already conditions have improved, but there is much room for betterment yet. But I am not one of those who maintain, maliciously, I think, that the Turk is constitutionally averse to progress. He simply does not, as a rule, understand that what may benefit others, will benefit him who maintains, maliciously, I think, he is also covetous enough to envy the foreigner whose skill and enterprise lead to success. He does not understand that a similar qualification and exertion on his own part would produce a like result."

RESUME OF WEEK'S SPORTING NEWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—George F. Slosson, the veteran billiard player, whose balk-line cue work has won him an enviable reputation internationally, has decided to enter the ranks of the three cushion carom players. He will represent New York in the Interstate league contests which will begin next week and continue until early in May, next year. In addition to his strong balk line play Slosson for many years has been considered a master cueist at single cushions and his many friends predict that at three cushions he will prove to be equally adept. The entry of "The Student," as Slosson is familiarly known in the world of billiards, will add a great deal of interest in the coming tournament, which opens with games at Cleveland, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh next Monday night. In all 25 players will take part in the tourney, which will consist of over 600 games, representing 15 cities. In addition to those named the itinerary includes the following cities: Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cincinnati, Toledo, Buffalo, Boston, Rochester, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York.

matters of grave international importance had been discussed earlier in the day by the president and Secretary Lansing, both of them as well as other members of the cabinet drove to the grounds from their official quarters as though nothing but peace reigned over the entire globe. The weather was blistering hot but President Wilson and the other visitors remained interested spectators throughout the game, frequently applauding as vigorously as though a world's series contest was being played.

Intercollegiate football makes its 1915 debut this afternoon with the playing of two games within the Pennsylvania state boundaries. At Carlisle the eleven of Albright college and the Carlisle Indian school will line up in the first game of their schedules as has been the custom for some years, while at Lewisburg Bucknill university will face Bloomsburg State Normal school.

The Carlisle-Albright game is an early season contest that is watched with more than ordinary interest by football followers as giving a clue to the strength of the redman team. In 1912 Carlisle defeated Albright 59 to 7; in 1913, 25 to 0, and last year 29 to 0. With Coach Glenn Warner no longer in charge of the gridiron campaign of the aborigines, the initial effort of the Indians this season takes on added importance.

ONE GUESS, WHAT CAR IT IS
The " " is my car; I shall not want another. It maketh me to lie down beneath it, it soureth my soul; it leadeth me into the paths of ridicule for its own sake. Yea, though I ride through the valley, I'm towed up the hill, for I fear much evil. Thy rods and thy engine discomfort me. I anoint my tires with patches; my radiator runneth over; I repair blow-outs in the presence of mine enemies. Surely if this follows me all the days of my life, I shall dwell in the bug-house forever.—Exchange.

IF you want to take the bite out o' tobacco, and leave the good in, you've got to do it slow—the VELVET way.

There is a big temptation to rush tobacco through by an "express speed" artificial process. Ageing VELVET two years ties up many thousands of dollars. But it pays both the smoker and manufacturer in the end. 10c tins and 5c metal lined bags—both great tobacco values.

In winning the national tennis singles title at Forest Hills recently, William M. Johnston of San Francisco played seven matches in eight days, defeating in turn H. H. Hackett, C. C. Pell, D. A. Watters, K. H. Dehr, C. J. Griffin, R. N. Williams and M. E. McLaughlin. At the beginning of the year from the Pacific coast found himself in one of the hardest sections of the draw and his feat in coming through and winning the championship left no question in the minds of tennis followers as to his right to the ranking of foremost player of the year.

A study of Johnston's section of the draw and the record he made therein shows that he played and won seven matches against the best of the eastern and western racquet wielders. During these matches Johnston faced opponents in twenty-seven sets of which he captured all but six. Reduced still further the score sheets prove that his progress through the tournament was accomplished by playing 263 games, of which he won 163 and lost 104.

The complete record of the tournament, which opened with an entry of 128 players, showed three defaults in the first 64 matches, after which every contestant was on the baseline when the umpire called "play." As a result there were 124 matches held, aggregating 445 sets and 4183 games.

The complete record of Ty Cobb's ten years in major league baseball is a clear index of the wonderful ability of this diamond star. Cobb joined the Detroit club on August 26, 1905, and during the decade in which he has played for the Tigers has rolled up a grand batting average of .358 in 1239 games. In this period Cobb went to bat 4685 times, making 1729 hits and 875 runs. He also has stolen 485 bases, an average of 48 and a fraction a year.

That the national game still holds a big corner in the hearts of Americans was never more clearly demonstrated than when a few days ago President Wilson pitched a ball out on the diamond at the opening of a game between amateur teams near Washington, D. C. The occasion was to raise funds for the entertainment of veterans at an encampment. Although
