JUST A MERE MAN AFTER ALL

EVERYBODY in the United States and in the benighted, rowdyish outlying provinces has a God-given right to get married, unless prevented by uneugenic conditions, or by a previous, unobliterated state of marital servitude.

Woodrow Wilson, president of the republic, is not excluded, but somehow, we are sorry to see him fall prey to the widow. It won't be long before the professor is out of the White House, a structure rendered sacred by the personality of the splendid woman who was the first lady of the land, one whose dying request was that her plans for the moral purification of the city of Washington be carried out, which was a sacred trust and carried out to the letter by her co-workers after her demise.

President Wilson should, we think, have deferred his second marriage until the expiration of his term. Dewey was the idol of the nation at one time and he lost the nation's love when he made a fool marriage with a giddy widow. The fiancée of President Wilson may not be giddy. She is doubtless a woman of most excellent character and attainments, but it is sacrilege, it seems, to have the executive mansion turned into a place of gaiety so soon after the sadness of Mrs. Wilson's death, particularly as the President of the United States should have more important and more potent matters, than widows to engross his mind during this, the most crucial period in the nation's history.

MAKIN'S FURNISHED FREE

OF ALL the boys that have been sent to the industrial school at Elko, but one remains, the others having from time to time taken their departure without permission. It is understood that the school was rendered unpopular by reason of the fact that the superintendent forbade the boys smoking cigarettes.

The state of Nevada was put to an expense of many thousands of dollars in the erection of the beautiful buildings, in furnishing them and providing officials and help. It would be a big losing proposition if the institution were not to be tenanted.

Into the breach steps the board, consisting of Governor Boyle, Senator Fernald, Judge Taber, Sydney C. Foster and George Russell. They have devolved a plan to keep the boys from running away. Superintendent Kyle suggested putting bars on the windows and constructing a dungeon, but the board thought it would be cheaper to furnish the kids with cigarettes and permit them to smoke their wicked little heads off, burn out their mucous membranes, blacken up their lungs, retard their growth, dwarf their intellect and stunt their moral development, all of which cigarettes are supposed to do to the growing child. It was a splendid inspiration. Now it will not be a matter of keeping the boys in the institution but of preventing too heavy an immigration.

THE ROCKEFELLER PLAN

THE vote on the Rockefeller proposition to the Colorado miners has been taken at different dates at the different plants and the complete result has not been announced, but apparently it has been adopted by an overwhelming majority, says the Chronicle.

And, as the vote was taken by ballot, it doubtless expresses the real sentiment of those voting, which is by no means always true of viva voce votes in such cases. As for Mr. Rockefeller himself, so far as we know, he has never even been accused of anything wicked, except the prospective inheritance of a great fortune, which he cannot help. So far as can be judged from reports of his activities, he is an unusually kind-hearted man, who desires to do the right thing by everybody if he can find out what it is. And he apparently gives most of his time and thought to the application of the great fortune of which he is the most active administrator for the benefit of mankind.

If, as appears, he is a person of that kind his personal contact with the miners employed by his company would be sure to result in the mutual confidence which inevitably develops among those who know and respect each other. As a rule, we hate most those of whom we know least. The Rockefeller proposals, while definitely placing the management of the property in the hands of its owners, fully recognizes the solidarity of the men in their employ and makes ample provision for direct dealings between the company and its employees as two units in fixing wages and conditions of employment.

And, having done that, the proposition goes much further in providing for the men comforts and enjoyments which they would be very unlikely to provide for themselves, even if they had the money. The result must be a decided raising of the standard of life among the men, which the consumers of iron and coal will pay for. Industrial peace, coupled with personal comfort, is much better for any community than continuous strife, which inevitably follows the attempt of either employers or employees to control an industry without regard to the interests of the other party.

CLIPPED AND CREDITED

Whatever may be done to establish national preparedness must be for the sake of national defense. Other results can be only incidental and temporary.—Albany Journal.

Oregon for president is reported to be the latest program for Mexico, probably on the theory that he is no less fitted for the place than any of the others.—Los Angeles Express.

With the cost of war $3,000,000 an hour the belligerents might lessen the demands upon charitable America by stopping a few hours and giving the savings to their own poor.—Baltimore American.

An Omaha drug store was easily held up because the proprietor had his revolver locked up in the safe, which proves that a safe is not the safest place to keep a gun.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

If Europe wants to poke fun at our too-proud-to-fight policy we may find some amusement in the fact that all of the belligerents are too proud to quit.—Baltimore American.

Get the Hydrogen Peroxide Habit

There should be a bottle of this preparation in every home. "Peroxide" should be used as a germicide, antiseptic and purifier. It destroys all impurities, is invaluable as an application to wounds, and is the most efficient mouth wash, as it destroys all bacteria and purifies the breath. A bottle should be kept in your medicine cabinet. Price 15c-25c-50c.
