Russia Reported to be Mobilizing Another Large Army at Odessa

The Italians expect the immediate fall of Gorizia. There is heavy fighting at Gallipoli. The Russians have advanced to the Styr river. They have checked the Teutons in the northern and southern position. Skouloudis is quoted as saying that should the allies retreat across the border from Macedonia, Greece may disarm them.

MILITARY OPERATIONS IMPEDED BY SNOW

(By Associated Press.) GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 24.—In the semi-circle from Trent to Trieste where Austro-Germans and Italians are fighting for supremacy, military operations will be seriously affected by snow. Neither side dares to advance large guns which may be lost in a night owing to a heavy snow fall.

FIGHTING IS TAKING PLACE TEN THOUSAND FEET ABOVE SEA LEVEL

On the Austro-Italian frontier where fighting is taking place at ten thousand feet above sea level over several miles of mountains where every little pass means a small battle, weather conditions and snow are important factors. On these mountains ordinary regiments, however brave, are practically useless as they cannot stand the climate and only Alpine troops on both sides are being utilized.

Since the beginning of October several feet of snow has fallen in the Swiss Tyrolean and Italian Alps above 9,000 feet and there is besides always the danger of an avalanche. Under these conditions Alpine warfare will be impossible even for a strong force. The men and mountain artillery are practically buried in deep snow in the higher Alps and the attack must be postponed until spring. Thus Italy feels secure from an invasion of Lombardy and Venetia during the winter and can employ her reserve forces for other spheres.

On the Isonzo, however, it is another matter for the country around is a plain and there is little doubt that the Italian army will attempt to force its way to Trieste and Flume via Tolmin and Gorizia this winter. Daily the attacks on these two towns on the main railway are becoming fiercer. The Italians continue to bring up more heavy artillery which now is in a semi-circle around both cities.
