HOLD THE WHIP HAND.

THE allied armies are holding the dominating position on the German western front and there is no room to doubt the ability of General Haig or General Petain to launch another offensive that will measure up well with what they have done in the past since the big drive began this spring. The allies have gained their objective and have beaten off all counter attacks in which, by every reckoning, a great part of Hindenburg's strategic reserves are used up. The summons to the fresh fighting forces on the eastern front which had been rested and recuperated while Russia was in the throes of an internal revolution was a confession of weakness that could only have been extorted through the unavoidable necessity for making a last effort to bring the allies to a halt in their unceasing advance. The lull that ensued before this was due to German exhaustion, not to that of the allies, who continue to hold the dominating position held for so long in the battle area. The fall of such places as Lens and St. Quentin will come just as quickly as the commanders desire. There are few illusions left to the enemy either as to the numbers or qualities of the army which he once affected to despise and he must be in a dreadful state of uncertainty as to the next step which General Haig intends to make of it. One point, however, is clear to the Germans, no less than to the allies, namely, that the initiative rests in the hands of the British and the French, and that it may be used in more than one direction with good results. The events of the day of small things will then be seen in true proportion. The real offensive has not yet begun, according to the calendar of the operating generals who over a month ago predicted there would be no startling movement until after the first of July. The fourteenth of July would be a psychological date for the movement to begin as it would carry with it the prestige of the fall of the bastille which in French annals is equivalent to our Declaration of Independence. The great offensive on the Somme will not begin for several weeks, but the plans are already laid and the present investment of Lens may be assumed to be a forerunner of the finale which will drop the curtain on German operations on French soil. Conditions are ripe for a strategic stroke and the present situation on the eastern front is not likely to cause the field marshal to hold his hand, though victory may be less speedy than would have been the case if well equipped Russian armies had been pressing the foe on that side.

DESERVED COMPLIMENT.

IT IS pleasing to note that the bankers of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, California, taking in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Richmond and other towns, selected C. Edwin Oyster, the public accountant of Oakland, for secretary of the Liberty Loan committee in charge of headquarters for those counties. This committee, with an allotment of $8,500,000, raised $9,100,000. The district committee was composed of the leading bankers of the two counties and the fact that these men, all veteran financiers, trusted their organization and the details of the movement to Mr. Oyster is a surpassing vote of confidence in his judgment and discretion. It is not every man who can be trusted to go forth and exhort his fellowmen to contribute such vast sums as involved in this undertaking and the choice implies that the man representing this body of the most influential men in the state of California must certainly have been endowed with something more than ordinary qualifications for the task imposed on him. Mr. Oyster is the same man who was brought here for the purpose of experting the books of the county with the object of determining to what extent the mining companies were indebted to the people for back taxes. His standing, which some pinhead statesmen of Carson City sought to impeach by throwing obstacles in the way of his appointment, may be appreciated from the voluntary testimonial embodied in his selection by the leading bankers of his own district. It also stands to reason that a man who would be trusted by his immediate neighbors with raising over nine million dollars, must be an accountant of ability and gifted with rare judgment who was not likely to be swayed by personal considerations in carrying out the trust committed to his care. In the same line of reasoning it might be said that when the same man returned a report on the finances of Nye county purporting to disclose a shortage of over $300,000 in the amount of taxes due the county treasury the report should have received more attention than was devoted to it by the county officials. The report deserves to be followed up. Every effort has been made to prevent any action and serious insinuations are going the rounds to account for the failure of the proper county officials to act in the premises with the object of securing the prompt return of these moneys to the taxpayers of Nye county. If the money is not due or the people are not entitled to it by some peculiar interpretation of the law there can be no valid reason for the bushwhacking tactics pursued. If the shortage of $300,000 is valid then the responsible companies should be made to come forward with a settlement or prosecution should follow forthwith. Instead of that we find a policy of evasion and procrastination which carries with it the implication that there is some powerful influence operating for the spoliation of the people.

What a placid existence it must be with the "Silent Fleet" in the Kiel canal, but there will be an awakening one of these days that will not be called a silent demonstration.

Some of these southern senators are hard to understand. They are opposed to food regulation laws and yet demand that the rest of the country dispense with the use of alcoholic beverages on which Uncle Sam relies so strongly for internal revenue.

The strangest feature of this Coecki investigation is that any one should expect a New York policeman to be a sleuth. His mental capacity is generally measured by his ability to get away with warm weather schooners.

Peace with pay is the latest revised version of the Hun's prayer book. This is bound to come and the payment will be exacted with compound interest from the man who caused the world's misery.

From the way congress is tackling the liquor problem it is a safe bet that the moonshine business will be one of the infant industries during the war.

The Utah flood damages are another reminder that there is a cold winter ahead and that there will be a shortage of fuel except for those who take time by the forelock.

KAISER CALLS SELF SUPREME WAR LORD

TRUSTING IN GOD AND HIS TROOPS, HE PROMISES AN EARLY VICTORY

(By Associated Press.) AMSTERDAM, June 27.—On June 21 Emperor William, in reviewing troops on the western front, made a speech in which, according to a Berlin telegram yesterday, he said: "I express to the troops gathered here my fullest appreciation of their conduct and my firm confidence that they as Lutherans, whenever they may be employed, will, trusting in God do their duty and succeed in gaining the peace for the Fatherland which we need for its further development."

In conclusion the emperor is quoted as saying: "I am especially delighted to be able once more to congratulate the well tried dragon regiment of Bayreuth of Hohenfriedober fame. When in the late summer of 1916 I sent the Berezki squadron to Rumana I gave it on the way my order to maintain at all costs the old tradition wherever it might be and to gain fresh laurels if possible. The regiment fulfilled the expectations of its supreme war lord and achieved deeds which will please old Fritz, yet there in the

DEATH THREATS FROM ANARCHISTS

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, June 27.—Six department of justice agents were assigned tonight to guard Federal Judge Mayer at the trial beginning here tomorrow of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, anarchists, arrested here recently charged with attempting to defeat the selective draft law. Reports that Judge Mayer, who will preside at the trial, had received letters threatening his life were explained tonight by his announcement that telegrams and letters he received merely protested against the prosecution of the defendants. At the same time it was announced that Harold A. Content, the federal assistant district attorney, who will try the case, has been threatened with death in letters he received.

Here is a pointer for the young men who hope to escape the draft by marrying: The war may be over in a year or two, but if you marry it will never end.—Los Angeles Times.

RUSSIA REJECTS IDEA OF SEPARATE PEACE WITH SCORN

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—In another stirring address today at the capitol, Ambassador Bakhmetieff, head of Russia's diplomatic mission, gave a solemn pledge that the Russian people and army, "convinced that a separate peace would mean the triumph of German atrocity," are prepared to fight beside American, until the world has been made safe for democracy. "Russia rejects with indignation any idea of separate peace," said the envoy. "Striving for a lasting peace based on democratic principles established by democratic will, the Russian people and army are rallying their forces around the banners of freedom. Russia wants the world to be safe for democracy. To make it safe means to have democracy rule the world."

SHRINERS LISTEN TO STRONG APPEAL

(By Associated Press.)
MINNEAPOLIS, June 27.—A strong plea for unity of the American people in the struggle for a humanity was made by Henry F. Niedringhaus, of St. Louis, imperial potentate, in an address at the annual meeting of the imperial council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

"Today a mighty inspiration impels every one of us to loose in patriotic consecration whatever has disappointed, whatever has estranged, whatever has divided us," he declared. "We are Americans and we stand for human liberty and human justice."

"Let us resolve to crown the miracles of the past with the spirit of a republic compact, united, indissoluble in the bonds of love and patriotism, from the lakes to the gulf, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the wounds of disappointments, past differences and war healed in every 'And may God forget us if we forget the divinity of our purpose.' The question of admittance of three new shrines caused spirited discussion. Delegates from Fort Dodge, Iowa, Topeka, Kansas and Honolulu, asked that temple districts be authorized so new shrines could be organized. Strong opposition developed to the Fort Dodge and Topeka requests.

Chicago, Boston, Portland, Oregon, and Des Moines, Iowa, have extended invitations for the 1915 meeting.

"It may be for years," says Herbert Hoover, regarding the possible duration of the war, but we may take comfort in the knowledge that the rest of the quotation "It may be forever," doesn't appear.—Portland Oregonian.

WORST OF UTAH FLOOD IS OVER

(By Associated Press.)
SALT LAKE CITY, June 27.—Colton is the farthest point east in the Price river flood district which could be reached last night by telephone, all lines of communication being down beyond that point. At that point it was reported that the water had receded about three feet and the Mammoth reservoir in Gooseberry creek is now empty save for the water that is running in from the melting snow, the dam having gone out to its foundation near the center of the core.

Several railroad bridges on the Denver & Rio Grande line between Colton and Castle Gate have been washed out and three or four bridges along the state highway also have gone out.
