STAY IN YOUR HOME TOWN.

WITH peculiar unanimity the newspapers and press associations of every section where the administration is spending money for one purpose or another is out bidding for the labor of other states. It does not matter what these pork barrel patriots have to say they never think of resorting to the common and business like system of patronizing the advertising columns where ever they seek to draw labor from steady employment. It is very amusing to see how these loyal gentlemen and able publicists blend the calls of country with the demands of business and it is also really interesting to see how attractively they paint the inducements to workers to abandon whatever they may be engaged in for the purpose of boosting whatever special game these publicists may have to promote. There is not the slightest doubt about the monetary profit inuring to the several war contract communities where tens of thousands of men are gathering but that is a circumstance which the begging publicists are willing to overlook. They are not in business for their health or for the exclusive good of their country for we find on reference to the contracts placed by Uncle Sam that they are accompanied by promises of prompt payment with the addition of heavy bonuses in the event of accelerated service. Instead of proceeding in a legitimate way like any other line of business where help is wanted these communities are pressing their claims to notice by passing the hat in the most reprehensible panhandling style. Gentlemen, let it be understood that this war is a serious business and also let it be known that the government of the United States is paying contractors handsomely for the performance of contracts. The United States is spending over seven billion dollars in putting millions of men on the fighting line and in the course of transmission some of this pelf will stick to the firms that are making such an ado about patriotism. They are not in the business for their health but they insist that the printer remain the only one in a long chain of industrial relatives who shall not receive anything for his services. This begging business has been overdone and the Bonanza wants it understood that it has done its share and, to an extent, more than its fair share of the work of demonstrating its loyalty to the administration. This paper has not been a friend of the administration for the reason that President Wilson was the first president of the United States to order that no advertising emanating from government sources should be given a newspaper not friendly to the administration. Frank, plain spoken Republican newspapers, under this ruling, were not disappointed by getting any. Nevertheless when the president of the United States declared the country was in a state of war the Bonanza and the editor of the Bonanza stood behind that official act and, without any reserve or equivocation, gave their influence to the absolute support of the government without expectation of receiving a cent. But, now that the war has been fairly launched, it is time that the conduct should have some other merit than charity which begins and ends with the news papers. Others have a chance of profiteering but the publisher is denied the right of conducting his business along plain business lines on penalty of being stigmatized as disloyal.

Therefore, when you read of sections or cities wanting thousands of men at ordinary wages pause awhile before you decide to make a change. Look before you leap. Inquire what these newly organized industries have done in the way of providing accommodations for the armies of workers which they are seeking to allure from comfortable homes. Inquire into the increased cost of living in these inflated towns and also ask them if they are willing to offer you and your family a comfortable home as good as the one they urge you to abandon. Don't be a blithering idiot by running off to the tip of the rainbow simply because the siren voice of war profits beckons you from your legitimate occupation.

ONE LAW FOR ALL CITIZENS.

SENATOR Pittman has introduced a joint resolution in congress having for its object the exemption of all men who enlist in the army or navy and owning mining locations from doing the annual assessment work. This resolution is similar to one enacted in 1907 when the panic created conditions that precluded men in mining states from furnishing funds for the prosecution of location work. At that time the action was general. The resolution exempted all from the performance of the annual labor required to hold mineral claims. There was no attempt to discriminate between rich and poor for it was accepted that everybody was crippled financially and thousands bankrupted by financial reverses. The same system should prevail at this time for all of us are doing more or less for the good of the government and for the prosecution of the war. The man who stays at home is often doing more for the nation than the man who goes to the front and there should not be any discrimination. Some of the subscribers to the Liberty Loan bonds entered their names on the lists with the knowledge that the amount of their purchase would involve scripping, stinting and saving to the end that the government be supplied with funds for the conduct of the war. In the vicinity of mining camps this means that persons who would otherwise devote their surplus funds to hiring annual labor would be deprived of the funds necessary for that purpose and their position should entitle them to consideration by including everybody in the resolution and exempting every citizen from assessment work during the period of the war. The effect of such a measure would be found helpful in many ways for it would keep at home thousands of dollars to assist the war movement along. The stay at homes are doing their share in this great cause and they should not be slighted. The farming papers are filled with eulogies of the boys who are doing their bit in the fields and on the farms, the men in foundries and steel plants are advised that they are just as loyal as the man in khaki who shoulders a rifle and the miner engaged in extracting metals for the construction of war ships, and powerful ordnance, copper for armament, lead and zinc for munitions, silver with which to pay the troops away from home where paper money has no standing, are all patriots. If these men are helping the cause of freedom by staying at home and sticking to their jobs, they should receive as much consideration as the Jackie or Sammy who is assured of protection on filing a notice in the office where the location notice or certificate is recorded before the assessment year in which he is mustered giving notice of his muster into the service of the United States and of his desire to hold his mining claims.

BASEBALL GAMES

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Chicago in the American league is meeting difficulties in holding on to first place, while New York in the National has brought to a close its victorious trip throughout the west. The White Sox, winning only one game out of six last week, saw their lead cut down to virtually nothing. Today they gained slightly on Boston by defeating Cleveland. The Giants by taking five out of six games increased their lead further and unless some of the first division teams show greater class Labor Day may show McGraw's team with the 1917 pennant virtually assured.

RAPID BUILDING OF CANTONMENTS

(By Associated Press.) PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 13.—Where was a plowed field at dawn, the other day, there stood at night ten wooden warehouses, each 150 by 200 feet, complete throughout except for certain minor touches on the roofs. This was the work of one general foreman and his men, and, according to army officers, is typical of the progress being made on the work for the various national army camps throughout the country. At Palo Alto there are five of these general foremen, each with its crew of foreman, "straw bosses" and laborers. A superintendent, two assistants, and, at the very top, a general superintendent, make up this civilian regiment of eight or nine hundred men. So vast is the work that the assistants go about in automobiles, light and strong enough to negotiate fallow land at a good pace. Other wise there would be many assistant superintendents, instead of two. Five spur tracks from the main line of a railroad dump in materials all day long. More than fifty teams hustle it to places indicated by the general foreman, who fear nothing in the world except a shortage of supplies. Tractors snort through the fields, dragging great plows that dig the trenches for sewer and water system, and releasing hundreds of men for work demanding a man's intelligence. Unlike many organizations, this
