36 BILLIONS

(Continued From Page One.) current fiscal year are $12,580,732,800, which, with a balance in the treasury last June 30 of $1,969,983,251, makes a total of $13,550,716,161.

Ordinary disbursements are estimated at $12,316,295,223; loans to allies in the year at $6,115,000,000; public debt disbursements at $321,000,000; and Panama canal expenses, $22,592,000, making total estimated disbursements $18,775,919,956.

In order to allow for a balance in the general fund of about $500,000,000 next June 30, congress must authorize raising of about $5,540,000,000 additional funds. This figure, together with the $3,556,000,000 of authorized but unused Liberty Bonds, and $663,000,000 estimated receipts from war savings, make the $9,659,000,000 which Mr. McAdoo believes Americans must loan the government between now and June 30, 1918.

For the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1919, the secretary estimated receipts at $5,176,000,000, and disbursements at $12,804,034,440, exclusive of allied loans. This makes a $7,627,000,000 excess of disbursements. If the present rate of loans to allies is continued in the 1918-19 fiscal year, $6,000,000,000 additional would be required. Estimated interest on bonds to be issued that year is $385,000,000, and estimated expense of floating the bond issues $28,000,000.

Thus if the deficit is to be met by bonds, $14,040,000,000 worth must be floated between July 1, 1918, and June 30, 1919, in addition to receipts from war savings.

"While these figures represent the situation as it appears today," the secretary says, "it should be borne in mind that the exigencies of the future may cause changes, particularly with regard to the estimate for the war and navy departments." The estimates on which the secretary bases his figures are made by the various government departments.

The outstanding fact apparent from these stupendous figures is that the cost of the war to the American people, including allied loans, for the two years ending June 30, 1919, will be at least $36,000,000,000.

Secretary McAdoo denounced purchasers of Liberty Bonds who sell their bonds when they do not imperatively need money.

To allay any misunderstanding, W. H. Blackburn, president of the Tonopah Mining Operators' association, today made the following statement: "The employers here have no intention of disturbing the German and Austrian element so long as they live within the regulations of the federal government."

Local Austrians are also again advised that the savings bank deposits of enemy aliens are perfectly safe. There is absolutely no truth in rumors that these deposits will be confiscated.

In accordance with suggestions from the state council of defense, Mr. Blackburn today met with all local employers and discussed the situation.
