IN GERMAN PAPERS.

DESPITE the rigid German censorship, the government has been forced to permit the publication of a little truth as to the real conditions confronting the German people. The American committee on public information has clipped from a number of leading German newspapers articles that give an inkling of the shortage of food, the labor unrest and the general discontent that must be felt by the German people. Germany is not free of the ferment of revolution that is so remarkable all over the world at present, and the following extracts from German papers are interesting for that reason:

The Magdeburgische Zeitung says that an agitation prevails among young factory hands in Germany, especially among munition workers. The paper points out that persons having merely agitation bills or lists for signature, etc., in their possession will be punished with imprisonment or death as traitors, regardless of their age. Similar extreme severity will be shown in the case of all attempts at strikes or street demonstrations.

The Vossische Zeitung reports that complaints about the condition of the bread in Greater Berlin are again increasing. The bread has a musty flavor, which arises from the flour used, since no stretching materials are being added at present. It is probable that the deterioration of the flour is not owing to prolonged storage by the Berlin authorities, but that it is delivered in this condition.

According to the Frankfurter Zeitung, the expropriation of linen goods extends to all bed, house and table linen (used and unused) in inns, travelers' rests, private hospitals, including convalescent and rest-cure homes, hotels, public houses and restaurants, passenger boats, sleeping carriages, and in leading businesses. It applies to all white and colored articles used on or for covering beds, or in use in restaurants and kitchens, in waiting and dining rooms, viz., bed coverings, sheets and coverlets, bath gowns and towels, hand towels and napkins, tablecloths and covers, pantry and scouring cloths. Articles made exclusively of paper yarn are excepted.

The Vossische Zeitung learns that publishers of school books have petitioned the ministry to place their businesses on an equal footing with those considered necessary to the conduct of the war. Publishers of school books may apparently use up their stocks of paper for printing, but may employ no new paper. It is already very difficult to obtain books for pupils moving into new classes. It often takes from four to eight weeks before a whole class is satisfactorily supplied. The state of affairs will be unthinkable if suddenly at the beginning of a half-year no more school books are to be had.

The Vossische Zeitung states it is rumored that the authorities intend to prohibit the use of baths in private Berlin dwellings. Although the German people are getting accustomed to the flood of decrees issued since the outbreak of the war, the paper says they must protest strongly against this latest one, as there are not enough municipal baths to serve a population of 4,000,000. Or do the authorities want the people to take up their positions in line outside the public bathing houses, as they now do outside the shops of butchers, bakers and candlestick makers? This is all the fault of municipal arrangements which neglected to provide in time for sufficient coke and coal supplies for private use. Public health will certainly be adversely affected by the new regulation, although certain facilities connected with hot water will be provided for sick people.

(Das Freie Deutsche Wort. From the letter of a German farmer): Swiss papers report on the first German press comments on Wilson's war message. How sad this poisoned stammering sounds. No word that does justice to the event. Only misrepresentation, patriotic affectation and among all this not a single piercing cry of pain that this had to be, that it could be, that the civilized nations of the world stand united on one side—and on the other side alone—we. This we owe to the doings of our pan-Germanists, protected as they were by militarism and the preparedness industry, to our fleet and armament instigators, the imperialistic maniacs who make Germany dreaded and hated throughout the world and who make game of the war. There is only one salvation. Decided withdrawal of the German people from this system, from this folly. This victory of Germany over itself alone would bring the peace.

SAFETY MEASURES.

AN ANALYSIS of the last accident report of the interstate commerce commission indicates that, next to the seclusion of one's own home, the safest place a person can be in on a railroad train. Some interesting observations and conclusions, based upon the 1916 accident report, are made by the chairman of the special committee on accident statistics of the American Railway association.

In 1916, 302 companies, operating 139,000 miles of railroad, equal to the combined mileage of Germany, France, Austria-Hungary and Russia, transported 60 per cent of the country's entire passenger business and 67 per cent of its entire freight business without a single passenger being killed in a train accident. The Southern Pacific system of over 11,000 miles, employing 80,000 men and carrying 45,000,000 passengers in 1916, conducted its operations without the loss of one passenger and but five employees in accidents to trains.

In striking contrast to this record are the fatalities and accidents to those who ignore "safety first" principles as practiced by the railroads.

THAT GOLD MINE RUMOR.

THAT wild rumor from San Francisco that the government was preparing to close down gold mines has been adequately refuted. Officials of the government and mining men have jumped on the story with both feet. Whitman Symmes, member of the Nevada delegation now in Washington, wired the following telegram to Herman Zedig of San Francisco:

"In answer to your inquiry, will state that continuous production of gold and silver is absolutely necessary to successful prosecution of the war. Considerable international trade, formerly balanced in merchandise, must now be settled with gold or silver. Domestic coinage demand is also considerable. This administration is acting fairly. Furthermore, the West will have democratic and representative government and our alert mining states' representatives could not allow mining industry to be destroyed without long debate in congress. Don't you know Great Britain has subsidized South African gold production? It may interest you to know that Tom Lawson is now advertising that there are only two good buys, namely, United States bonds and silver stocks. Mine prices are now low because the public is, as usual, foolish."

100 YEARS MORE FOR CAL. REDWOOD FOREST

(By Associated Press.)
EUREKA, Cal., Dec. 8.—Constantly increasing production of redwood lumber in Humboldt county means that in less than a century the only commercial redwood forest in the world will be stripped bare, according to compilations made by George A. Kellogg, secretary of the Humboldt Chamber of Commerce. In 1895 it was estimated that the standing redwood timber in the county would be sufficient for 200 years, but since that time the capacity of the mills has been more than doubled, with prospects for a continued increase in the future.

Out of 538,000 acres of redwood timber standing untouched before lumbering operations were begun in the county 93,000 acres have been cut over. This cut represents some of the best timber of the county, for the bottom lands along the rivers where the best timber stands have been harvested first.

CROSS FOR CAPITALIST.

(By Associated Press.)
HELENA, Mont., Dec. 8.—The cross of the first class of the order of St. Olaf has been tendered by King Haakon of Norway to A. M. Holter, a capitalist of this city and a pioneer of Montana. The tender was made through Edwin C. Holter of New York, a son of the Helena man, by H. H. Bryn, Norwegian ambassador to the United States.

Mr. Holter has written letter of acceptance of the honor, and has inquired the reason for its bestowal, which was not communicated to him. Several years ago he contributed $1,000 to a fund for destitute families of Norwegian fishermen, and his donation was declared to have been the largest received, either from Norway or the United States. He thinks perhaps the decoration is being given him on this account.

(By Associated Press.)
BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 8.—With the purpose of developing rabbit breeding to help make up for the deficiency of meat, the Idaho Rabbit and Pet Stock association was organized here recently. Members estimated that there are 1,000 rabbits raised monthly in this country, and said this number could be multiplied ten times if breeding is properly encouraged.

It Pays to Buy the Best

But every housewife should remember that the best is not always the highest priced. Experience has taught me that you can't always judge quality by the cost sign.

That is particularly true of baking powder. Baking powder quality can be determined only by bake day results. The baking powder that serves you best—regardless of what you pay—is the best to buy and use.

I have made a close study and careful investigation of baking powder, because it is unquestionably one of the most important of baking materials. It effects all ingredients employed with it.

No woman, no matter how careful her selection of flour, sugar, eggs, etc., can employ the limit of baking economy if she uses a poorly made, wasteful baking powder.

Merit, not money, is the only safe basis upon which to estimate the worth of a baking powder. Fortunately the housewife no longer has to conduct costly experiments of her own to determine just which particular brand is the most efficient and economical. Experts like myself, make a business of testing baking powders and accurately arriving at their actual value. We make no mistakes in our decisions as our experiments are made along strictly scientific lines.

Millions of women are now profiting by the aid offered by domestic scientists. I know this to be true—as choice is now centered on the brand of baking powder that I and other domestic scientists have found superior through both chemical and oven tests. It is becoming more popular every day. Its tremendous sales increase was not influenced in the least by cost. It is a moderate priced baking powder. Costs considerably less than some other brands. Still it is preferred by women who could and would pay more were it possible to secure the desired quality. They don't buy this brand of baking powder because of a saving of cost—but because of its demonstrated superiority. To them it means the greatest quality value—the greatest purity—and greatest certainty of results that can be had at any price. Decidedly the best, set because of moderate price, but because of its unimprovable merit.

In justice to those who read this article—that they may share in the savings and baking success assured by the biggest selling and recognized superior baking powder it is no more than fair that I give publicity to the brand preferred alike by experts and America's millions of housewives—Culmfit Baking Powder.
