BRIDE OF VERN SMITH, TYBO MAN, WANTED IN S. F. TO TESTIFY IN THE TRIAL OF HINDU REVOLUTIONISTS

Vern R. Smith, timekeeper for the Louisiana Mining company at Tybo, and his bride, who was Miss Camille de Berri before her marriage to Smith in Goldfield on January 5, left for San Francisco this morning to testify in the trial of the alleged Hindu plotters, charged with fomenting a revolt in India, before United States District Judge Van Fleet.

United States Marshal Gray of Nevada came up from Carson Saturday and Sunday served a subpoena on Mrs. Smith at Tybo. Smith is a graduate of the University of California. He was suspended in 1915, a few months before his graduation, on a charge of stealing a knife from the clothing of a fellow-student. He claimed that his difficulty was due to the fact that he belonged to the Cosmopolitan club and was active in this organization.

Mrs. Gillingham, known as Miss Camille de Berri, since her divorce from W. B. Gillingham, headed the committee appointed by the Cosmopolitan club to investigate the charges against Smith. She at the time was a special student in the university and a writer for a French publication. It was through her efforts that the matter was finally brought before the faculty, which exonerated Smith and overruled the student body, which had suspended him.

Mrs. Smith has had a spectacular career. She was sued for divorce by Gillingham, a wealthy mining man, and was later the central figure in an alienation-of-affections suit in which Gillingham asked $100,000 damages from William B. Shooler, attorney and politician in San Francisco. The suit was later settled out of court. The husband withdrew his divorce complaint, she then filing an action for divorce in the Alameda county superior court and secured a decree.

Mrs. Smith figured in the Hindu conspiracy case when evidence was introduced by the government showing that Taranath Das was using a safe deposit box rented by the then Mrs. Gillingham, in which he kept formulas for making bombs and infernal machines. Mrs. Gillingham was questioned by United States Attorney John W. Preston. She promised to testify and tell all she knew of the plot. Then she disappeared. Since then the marshal has been searching for her. She will be used as a witness at an early date by the government. When the couple were married in Goldfield on January 5, Mrs. Smith gave her maiden name as Miss Camille de Berri and said her home address was Los Angeles, Cal. Mrs. Smith is a woman of striking appearance. Smith has been timekeeper at Tybo for six months.

BERNE MATCHED TO MEET GREEK AT AIRDOME IN FINISH MATCH

Late this afternoon a conference was held in Harry Greir's office to consider the holding of the match on January 22, the Business Men's club to promote it. The match has been on again, off again 57 times today.

William Berne, the Russian wrestler and Crith Theophilus, the Greek who comes mighty close to being Berne's equal on the mat, will meet in the Airdome on the night of January 26, catch-as-catch-can, three falls to a finish.

This is the final decision, after a good deal of backing and filling, decision and reconsiderations. Harry Greir, matchmaker for the Business Men's club, signed up the Russian to meet Ajax next month. The next night Tony Barragage signed up Berne and Theophilus for the 26th. When Greir heard of it he held that Berne had agreed not to engage in any match before the Ajax date. Berne was anxious to do the right thing and last, at a conference in Greir's office, said that he would call off the Theophilus match, and pay out of his own pocket any expenses acquired by the promoters. It looked at midnight last night as though everything had been fixed, and there was some talk of Berne meeting the Greek after the Ajax match. Theophilus, however, opined that it might prove difficult to bear the expenses of the long wait for the match.

Berne told him briefly that he might learn to "poosh the car" at 35 per, and Crith replied with some heat that he (Crith) would break Berne's neck for him.

This morning Berne discovered to his dismay that the interpretation placed on his decision by the fans was that he was afraid of the big Greek and was running away from him. It made him angry and decisive at the same time. He cancelled his trip to Los Angeles, explained to Greir that he would have to meet Theophilus this month and, if the business men so decided, would have to forego the Ajax match.

The contract signed by the Greek and Berne is a unique one. It stipulates that the first fall of the go shall be "rough stuff," with practically nothing barred in the way of holds and tactics. The remaining falls are to be "clean."

3 ORDERED TO REPORT IN "UNDISIRABLE" RAID

After a general survey of the "undesirable" crop in Tonopah last night, the officers notified three of the gentry to report at the office of the chief of police tonight at 7 o'clock, as he desired a little conversation with them. They will be gently advised to leave town if they show the usual inability to prove "visible means of support."

$700 FOR STEER. BILLINGS, Mont., Jan. 17.—Seven hundred dollars was realized here recently from the sale of one Montana steer, and the proceeds all went to the local chapter of the Red Cross.

The steer was donated by the Billings Livestock exchange and fattened for more than three months by the Billings Stockyards company. It was then butchered and auctioned off by the piece in the lobby of a local hotel.

Several meat cutters were kept busy during the auction cutting the carcass into suitable pieces. Several purchasers turned back the steers to be sold again.

MAXIM EXPLAINS

sels with cylinders containing water with a steel screen behind them. When the torpedo exploded, the water tanks, he said, would be buried against the screen, atomizing the water, which would disperse the heat and absorb the gases. A cargo such as apples, potatoes and similar produce containing a large percentage of water would serve just as effectively as the tanks, he said.

Mr. Maxim declared that the ship protection executive committee had made an "irrelevant and untrue" report on his plan, asserting that it would be expensive and ineffective on ships of less than 10,000 tons. He denied that the plan would be costly and said it would operate on ships of 3,000 or 5,000 tons, practically as well as on larger vessels.

Concrete ships, the inventor said, offer a great advantage in combatting the submarine menace over steel or wooden ships, as they give greater resistance and absorb heat better. A concrete hull, he said, would localize an explosion and he strongly urged construction of concrete skins or steel vessels.

Loss in shipping due to submarines was estimated by the inventor at $6,000 a minute, and he said this country could afford to expend a little extra money in order to make its ships "torpedo-proof." He said the nations fighting Germany either must stop the submarines from leaving their bases or build torpedo-proof ships, as he did not think they should attempt to offset the submarine campaign by building new vessels.

Maine shipbuilders who also appeared before the commission said the output of wooden ships in that state could be increased. They urged the construction of all the ships possible, declaring that even with the maximum effort enough vessels could not be built to meet the demands after the war.

insisted that he desist from referring to previous testimony and give whatever facts he might have.

Earle said he could not proceed without mentioning the other testimony and Senator Jones of New Mexico hotly objected to the chairman's restriction. After some discussion, however, Senator Jones said he would not press the point and the examination went on under the chairman's ruling.

Earle, testifying as an independent refiner, said consumption in the United States last year was 295,000 tons greater than in 1916, and that the supply was less than the year before.

Considering only supply and demand, Earle said, the food administration faced a greater task in 1917 than it would have in 1918. He maintained that Spreckels had attempted to show that there was no shortage of sugar and desired to refer to his testimony to emphasize his statement that a shortage existed. Mr. Earle will continue his testimony today.

Francis S. Peabody, chairman of the coal production committee of the council of national defense, submitted to the committee a coal price list, together with a zone system plan which he said would be fair to operators and consumers, increase production and insure better coal to the consumer.

Big Bill Hart, never more daring than in "The Cold Deck," rides over to escape pursuers. Big Bill, the true representative of American courageous pioneers, performed more hazardous stunts than in his latest screen productions. The grim man of the desert, who recently stirred the whole country to a monstrous ovation as he journeyed from California to New York, is absolutely without fear, and yet, curiously enough, is one of the most sensitive of men. It is this striking combination of strength and kindness that has made Big Bill Hart the most beloved of American actors.

"The Cold Deck," his new play, he appears as Level Leigh, gambler, who sacrifices everything in order to take his little sister up to the mountains where she may regain her health. Through treachery he is made to appear guilty of murder of a stagecoach driver. He is placed in jail, and vigilante police are preparing the noose for him when he succeeds in bending the bars of his jail window, leaping twenty feet to the ground below and escaping on horseback. The police follow close on his trail and his capture seems certain, but his daring is greater than theirs, for he deliberately turns his horse toward the edge of a precipice and rides down a break-neck incline. Three of the most noted beauties of the screen support the great western actor in this play. They are Alma Reuben, who has the role of a Spanish adventuress; Mildred Harris, who appears as Hart's sister, and Sylvia Bremer, as the girl he loves. First show at 7 sharp, second at 8:45. Admission: Children, 11c; balcony, 15c; lower floor, 20c.
