"COME-AND-GET-IT" MARCUS.

Editor Bonanza: It was said that "the Jew" would not make a soldier and was after the dollar only. He has given up his position in Tonopah to see that the Mulliganders are well fed for fighting purposes. He leaves with the bunch in a day or two to cast his lot with fate in France. The Jews in this county are fortunate to have a representative on the firing line. This Jew we refer to is none other than Marcus, the meat burner.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE BUTLER. Today is your last opportunity to see the greatest picture ever produced. "The Birth of a Nation." This is the farewell tour and the admission charged to see this production is the least that it has ever been shown for, so every one now has an opportunity to witness it and you will never forget what a wonderful masterpiece it is. Five thousand scenes, 18,000 people, 3,000 horses and cost $500,000 to produce. The wonderful photoplay of the Civil war and reconstruction days, which brings before the eye the greatest scenes in the country's greatest crisis. "The Birth of a Nation" will inspire patriotism, teach history, prolong peace and command respect for the drama and music better than any offering before the public today. The best in motion pictures are seen in "The Birth of a Nation"—Mae Marsh, Henry W. Walthall and Lillian Gish—with hundreds of others of which we have not the space to mention all. Through Griffith's skill all the actors in the production are made to appear as if to a manner born and not awkwardly moving about in half-dramas to which they are unaccustomed. If you have witnessed this picture once come see it again today and you will like it better than ever; it is a production that may be seen over and over and one never will get tired watching such wonders. From coast to coast as the most stupendous dramatic sensation this country has ever known. Just one show tonight, at 7:30. Doors open at 7 p. m. Show starts promptly at 7:30. INDUSTRIES BOARD REORGANIZED

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Reorganization of the war industries board with Bernard M. Baruch of New York as chairman and with vastly increased powers to control the output of American industry during the war is announced by President Wilson. Final determination of all questions of priority in deliveries to any department of the United States government and to the allies is vested in the board, and it is charged with co-ordinating and anticipating the needs of any of these, creating or improving facilities for production and advising as to prices. Much of the power is given to the chairman, with the board acting in an advisory capacity, and he, the president says, should "act as the general eye of all supply departments in the field of industry." Through the board it is proposed to eliminate all competition for supplies between the various departments and the allies, this meeting in a measure, at least, the demand in congress for centralization of power. There were suggestions that the action now announced was one of the steps contemplated by the president when he sent to the senate the bill now pending to enlarge his powers for reorganizing and co-ordinating government agencies, and that
