LIVE CLEAN AND LIVE WELL

SIMPLY because this desert range of mountains is arid, there is no reason why people living here should be insanitary in their mode of living. Water in abundance is pumped from the Rye Patch wells and is for the use of all. It is being now utilized for the flushing of gutters and the sprinkling of streets. Cleaning up is in progress and any property owner or occupant who does not comply will be punished. Tonopah outwardly is to be made clean and pure and healthful. A germ will be as unpopular as though he had "an" tacked to his appellation.

But while these efforts are being put forth for an outward cleansing, so that we will have no epidemics this season, it is as necessary, or even more necessary, to have cleanliness within. There are many little houses in this city occupied by men who work in the mines. They are wearied with their toil and are often careless in their mode of living and in the care of their bodies. It is this slovenliness that originates and spreads disease. Let inspection by the health authorities be within as well as without premises. Tonopah to be healthy must be spotless.

THE BEAST OF BERLIN

THE "cultured" world is beginning to demand reprisals upon the "cultured" tribes and before the war ends they may be enforced. A young man who comes back to Tonopah incapacitated for further service at the front because of wounds, shows a scar that resulted from his being inoculated with the germs of tuberculosis by the Germans when taken prisoner. As result of this fiendish operation he cannot live. He tells of the emasculation of eight hundred Canadian prisoners, of rapine and mayhem without end.

If it were this boy's unsupported story, it might not necessarily arouse our bitter ire and determination that reprisals should follow, but his story is told and repeated by all who have had a "close up" with the Hun. This isn't an ordinary war, nor a war with ordinary people, but a campaign against a race that has reverted to worse than barbarism, that is bestial in its methods and fiendish in its plans. No prisoners should be taken.

CERTAINTY SUCCEEDS CHANCE

THE more the element of chance is cut out of a security, the better it is as an investment. Gamblers grow fat or lean on chance, but these extremes are not desired by the ordinary person with money seeking increment.

So long as silver was a football and nobody knew who was doing the kicking, Tonopah shares were not the most desirable in the world. The only thing that held them at all stable was the gold content of the ore, which actually kept several mines and mills operating during the period of greatest stagnation in the silver market, two or three years ago.

Now that the price is fixed at one dollar, and permanently fixed, there will be a heavier demand for Tonopah securities, for the greatest element of chance, that of metal market fluctuation, is now removed.

A NEW PHASE OF THE GREAT WAR

SOME important move in the game of international politics is probably at the bottom of the landing of British and French troops on the Kola Peninsula in the extreme north of European Russia, where they are co-operating with Russian Red Guards under the direction of the soviet war council to repel attacks on the railroad to the new ice-free port of Murmansk by Finnish White Guards led by German officers. If the Russian government welcomes such aid to protect supplies stored at Murmansk and the railroad which terminates there it should take the same attitude towards the protectors of Vladivostok and the trans-Siberian railway, where similar conditions prevail. This expedition to protect Murmansk may mark the beginning of a return to sanity in Russia, and of concerted resistance to German aggressions that violate the treaty which the kaiser broke before the ink was dry.

This terrible war is still spreading. Finland, by attacking the railway to Murmansk at a point 150 miles within Russian territory, has become the kaiser's ally or vassal. The Finns opened their gates to the Germans for the purpose of securing aid in expelling the Russian Bolsheviks who were looting their towns. Contact has apparently Prussianized the Finns and they are seeking to extend their possessions to the Arctic ocean and the White sea, with Archangel and Murmansk as their chief objectives. In the final settlement of terms of peace and delimitation of frontiers the Germans hold the theory that possession counts as nine points out of ten, and Finland thinks this is the right time to grab what she wants, says the New York Commercial.

Little will be left of Russia if she does not bestir herself. This incident should open her eyes to the necessity for co-operating with her former allies, who are still willing to help her.

MEN IN THE MAKING

PEOPLE always respect those who respect themselves. Take the "great American kid" for instance. So long as he considers the chief end and aim of life to do what he shouldn't and avoid doing what he should, he is a pest, forgivable, of course, at least excusable, but still a pest. However, when the kid puts on a Boy Scout uniform and takes the oath of that organization, and gets up on his toes and throws his shoulders back and reverses the flag and does at least one helpful act a day and becomes a man instead of a kid, then we older fellows who did things in our youth that we are ashamed of and recall no acts of nobility worth mentioning—we want to take off our hats to the splendid lads of today, the Boy Scouts who are the hope of our country.

NEW ARMY FORMED OF AUSTRIAN PRISONERS

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 1.—Captain Jean Seba of the Czech-Slovak army, who has just reached London from the Russian port on the Murman coast, has been engaged for several months in organizing a Czech-Slovak army in Russia, composed mainly of men who were formerly in the Austrian army and became prisoners in Russia. In an interview with the Associated Press he said: "Our army in Russia is so far a small one, but the men having been formerly in the Austrian army, are well trained and are thoroughly acquainted with the organization and methods of the enemy. "My observations in Russia during the past few months convince me for the present Russia is like a sick person who needs breathing space and a rest cure. I am sure she will again come into the war. But it is of prime importance that the Russian invalid should not be deserted by his friends or left to his fate. "With the help of the allies, Russia can be brought back. There is already plenty of evidence of a re-energized working classes are beginning to realize that if Germany is permitted to go on, everything will be lost. All over the country there are local soviets and other organizations which will never give in to German influences."

JAPANESE SOLON HAS GORGEOUS PIPE DREAM

(By Associated Press) TOKIO, May 1.—Some misgivings as to the policy of the United States as affecting Siberia recently have found expression in the Japanese house of representatives. Conviction that Japan should pay close attention to the activity of the United States in Russian territory was expressed by Manitsu Tanaka in a speech in the house recently. This activity, he said, might be designed to obtain rights and interests of various kinds. Tanaka said he believed that if America attained its object a hard blow would be dealt to the interests of the Japanese empire. He thought that American sympathy for Russia was largely due to her ambition to implant her influence, there by utilizing the present opportunity for investing her large capital in an extensive area of Russian territory, to exploit Russia's vast natural resources and to help forward Russia's civilization. To speak frankly, he believed that another object of the United States in showing sympathy to Russia might be to check the advance of Japanese influence northwards. The speaker also referred to a rumor that the United States was trying to purchase Kamahatka which, he said, he believed America coveted for its economic value and perhaps because America had an idea of instituting a gigantic scheme of communication between the three continents of America, Asia and Europe. There is no confirmation, however, of the rumor referred to by Representative Tanaka.

The eighth federal reserve district, outside of St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn., has oversubscribed its quota $23,000,000. Kentucky is the banner state in the district, having exceeded its allotment 66 per cent. The totals up to noon yesterday for Kentucky is $24,931,050, with 92,979 subscribers.

Credit for enlistments will be given when the second draft quota is fixed, Borree said. "MADE IN GERMANY" PEACE (By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 1.—Although without official information, officials expressed the opinion that the report that Austria is about to offer a separate peace with Italy would be primarily with the purpose of creating discord among the Italians and weakening their resistance and at the same time quiet the unrest among the Austrians.
