First Day of a Recruit at Camp Has Third Degree Skinned a Mile

(By Associated Press) CAMP KEARNY, June 26.—With the arrival of several thousand men of the June draft quota to begin work in the service of their country as soldiers of the 40th division, there was set in motion here today one of the most highly organized pieces of machinery devised in this part of the country for executive purposes. This was the organization for uniting the men into companies, assigning them to quarters, arranging for their feeding and their examination, listing and classifying and mustering into service.

As the men left the trains which brought them here they were lined up and told off into provisional companies, each of which was marched to a company street. Squads were told off to occupy the tents in this street.

Formed into a long line, the recruits were marched to the first of the series of buildings, whence they were to emerge as soldiers or men unfit for service. Near the door stood a group of officers and men who took the finger prints of each draft man. The recruit then washed his hands in gasoline to remove the ink used for taking the prints.

As the recruit entered the building, a soldier handed him a piece of string and a numbered tag. The first room was a dressing-or, rather, an undressing-room, where the recruit stripped, tied his clothes into a bundle with the string and attached the numbering tag. Carrying the papers given him by his draft board in his hand, the recruit turned in the bundle of clothes at a window. Besides the window was a soldier armed with an indelible pencil, who marked on the recruit's chest the number which the tag bore.

At the first of a series of tables in the next room the recruit gave his draft papers to a clerk, who looked them over and identified the recruit with the papers. This clerk started a service record for the recruit.

Next were medical officers and his assistants, who filled in on the service record a description of any scars or marks the man bore and made an ordinary medical examination of him, without, however, examining his heart, lungs, feet, joints or teeth.

Representatives of the orthopedic board, next in line along the stream of recruits, examined the drafted man's feet and joints with minute care. The dental board's representatives were next.

A party of medical officers, specialists and cardio vascular work, were next, and to them the recruit was made to yield secrets regarding his heart and blood system that even he did not know he possessed. If he passed their scrutiny he went to the tuberculosis board.

When a recruit had passed all these examinations, he was ushered down a passageway to the psychiatric board, which tested his mentality by certain means not disclosed.

Dressed again, the recruit started through another round of clerks.

Other clerks ascertained whether the recruit wished to make an allotment of any portion of his pay, and if so to whom, and solicited his application.

Until the recruit dressed again, he was subject to "side tracking" from the regular flow of men through the examining offices and being sent to a special enclosure. In it was an officer charged with the duty of discharging any men found physically or mentally unfit for army service.

Provided he passed all the examiners correctly, had his papers in perfect order and was dressed, the recruit was allowed to approach a door at the far side of the office where his personal record was taken. The only thing he lacked was a serial number, which was assigned at a desk by the door. A clerk affixed this to all his record papers.

Carrying his papers, the recruit passed through the door to the mustering officer's office and was sworn into the army. With the mustering officer he left all the papers except his service record and passed out, a soldier, but with his trials not yet over.

Outside a group of medical officers and orderlies awaited him and while one vaccinated him on one arm, another gave him his first injection of anti-typhoid serum. A clerk entered the date of these prophylactic measures on his service record. When he escaped from the clutches of this group he was assigned to a recruit company and ready to go to work.

sible for delivering the men to the receiving station at their destination.

Lee Mueshet was as active as usual at the depot and circulated a hat to raise funds for providing the boys with tobacco money. The sum of $75 was realized and the publicity agent of the Nye County Council of Defense was given a hearty cheer as the train rolled down the canyon.

The Tonopah Drum Corps, which accompanied the band to the station, played the marchers back up town after the train swung out and the way the seven men tore off the martial melodies caused the crowd in front of the Mizpah Hotel, where the parade disbanded to get up and yell. The members of the corps are as follows: Snare drums, Louis Cornberger, Jim C. Robinson and Charles Hall; piccolos, Theodore Stamp, Ben Bowen and Josiah Bennett.

One of the best extemporaneous speeches was made just before departure of the train when Frank Dunn was hoisted to the top of a baggage truck and made a few remarks, closing with the following toast:

Here's to the Blue of the wind-swept North,

When you meet on the fields of France

May the spirit of Grant be with you all

As the sons of the North advance,

Here's to the Gray of the sun-kissed South,

When you meet on the fields of France

May the spirit of Lee be with you all

As the sons of the South advance,

Here's to the Blue and Gray as one

When you meet on the fields of France,

May the spirit of God be with you all

As our boys this morning advance.

DOCTOR LEAVES FOR AMERICAN LAKE

Dr. Claude Church left this morning by his own car for the coast, where he has been called to his colors. He was accompanied by his wife. This is not the doctor's first military experience for he was a member of the Massachusetts coast artillery in 1906 and entered the Sixth U. S. infantry hospital corps in 1912. Later he was captain attached to the Twenty-fifth horse artillery in Alberta, Canada. He came to Tonopah from St. Joseph's hospital, San Francisco, and has been associated with Dr. Grigsby in conducting the Mine Operators' hospital. Dr. Church has been commissioned first lieutenant in the U. S. medical reserve and goes to Camp Lewis at American Lake, Wash., where most of the Nevada boys are stationed.

I loan you a watch to carry while I repair your own. I am the finest watchmaker who ever came to Tonopah. Emile Merman at Robert's Grocery store. advM137 retired vowing they never had a more enjoyable time than that extended by the citizens and Elks of Tonopah.

While the actual receipts from the use of the wheel of fortune ran close to $1500, it is customary to credit the receipts of Elks' day to the visitors. This practice has been followed elsewhere and on that basis the Reno lodge is entitled to credit for adding $5000 to the Tonopah war savings stamp fund. Among those subscribing yesterday to the Limit Club were Senator Key Pittman and Mrs. Hugh Herd, of Manhattan, who gave their checks for $100 each.

Toward the close of the reception there was such enthusiasm excited that the audience demanded that Governor Hutchinson remain and keep the wheel spinning for the remainder of the night. The governor refused point blank to accommodate the crowd as he said the Reno Elks did not make a habit of going into a community and milking it dry. However, as a special concession, he permitted the last four rolls to go on with a ten-dollar limit and then quietly unshipped his wheel and slipped out of the building.

Today the Reno Elks are enjoying a small respite from their voluntary labors as they are not billed to appear in Yerington, the next stop, before tomorrow. The party left by automobile at noon with the intention of making the journey by easy stages. From Yerington the Reno boys go to Gardnerville, Minden, Carson City and home after completing the most successful tour of any company of entertainers that ever hit the sagebrush.

MEDICOS WANTED BY NAVAL RESERVE

An opportunity is offered to the physicians of the Pacific coast to enroll in the naval reserve of the United States naval reserve forces. This announcement was authorized by Dr. Morton W. Baker, medical aide to the commandant of the twelfth naval district, from headquarters at San Francisco. Members of the medical profession are urged to respond to this call for patriotic service. Applicants upon being enrolled will receive the commission of assistant surgeon with rank of lieutenant J. G. The naval reserve medical service is a part of the medical officer's advancement if the assistant surgeon is found proficient.

In addition to a liberal allowance for quarters, fuel and light while ashore, assistant surgeon's commission carries a salary of $166.66 a month with a uniform gratuity of $150 which is allowed by the United States government.

All applicants are requested to send at once to the medical aide to the commandant's office, No. 461 Market street, San Francisco, California, for information and enrollment papers.

GIVES THREE SONS TO THEIR COUNTRY

On the train going north this morning was Mrs. Annie Hughes of Belmont, a venerable grey-haired little lady with a pleasant face and a smile that instantly makes friends among strangers. Mrs. Hughes confesses to 65 years of age and she is not trying to shade her years any either, for she is the proud mother of three boys who have gone to join the colors and she expresses a devout wish that they may be of some service to their country. The boys could have applied for exemption, but this patriotic mother told them their duty was with the flag and she urged each of her boys as she bade him good bye to do his best by his country and his God to the last breath.

The boys in the order in which they went out are William, Edward and Fred. The latter was with today's quota and his mother went out on the same train to be with her remaining son as long as possible, and then to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bert Taylor, in Oakland. Mrs. Hughes is one of the best known residents of the northern part of Nye county, having lived at Belmont for the past thirty years.

NINE MEN MUST ENTRAIN FRIDAY

The Nye county exemption board is struggling with the problem of where to find nine recruits with which to fill the next requisition for nine men with grammar school education to be sent to the University of Arizona for special mechanical training. The entire list of class 1 men has been exhausted and, if the adjutant general insists on the men going out they will have to be taken from the deferred classification. The order calls for the men to entrain Friday morning, June 28th. Nothing has been heard from the governor who addressed a telegram to General Crowder asking to have the men assigned to the University of Nevada, and it appears that the original order will stand.

Larry Glass advises men brought forward from the deferred classification that they register for the quota to entrain Friday for Tucson, providing the registrant has the advantage of a grammar school education. This is about the only way in which this demand can be filled in the short time allowed. Any one who wishes to go may have his physical examination at once.

RENO, June 26.—Provost Marshal General Crowder has refused to grant the request of Governor Boyle to allow the 103 Nevada men called to go to the University of Arizona on July 1 for training, to train at the University of Nevada.

AMUSEMENTS

MABEL NORMAND AT THE BUTLER

Broadway beauty choruses will have to look to their laurels now that Mabel Normand has surrounded herself with about a hundred thousand dollars' worth of feminine loveliness. The surrounding occurs in "Dodging a Million," her new Goldwyn play, in which she will appear at the Butler this evening. A series of scenes in the early part of the play occurs in a fashionable modiste shop where about twenty beautiful models are posing for customers in the latest creation of the couturier's art. The band of models is led by six professionals from the studio of a fashionable Fifth avenue modiste, and they put all the others through their paces. One could not easily imagine how many convolutions there are in the technique of being a model. One begins—that is, for models of this season—by being tall and slender. Point two is to be languid and haughty in demeanor. Point three is to be graceful in a skinny manner. Everybody's doing this season. Probably the only criticism to be made of the models in "Dodging a Million" is that they are not skinny enough. They insist on being good looking and as though they ate not less than three meals a day. Pathe News will also be shown.

Tomorrow, another great favorite—Pauline Fredericks, in "Madame Jealousy," and "The Boy Scouts"—the last and final number.

WOMEN'S WAR WORK SHOWN IN LONDON

(By Associated Press) LONDON, June 26.—Articles used in the war, all the work of women, attracted much attention at an exhibition by the ministry of munitions and opened recently in London at the Whitechapel art gallery. Two hundred specimens of parts of engines for aircraft, on which women are doing work of high precision, were among the objects shown.
