

TO INVESTIGATE GOLDFIELD STRIKE

An investigation of the labor situation at Goldfield was started today by Robert F. Cole, state labor commissioner, who arrived in the southern camp.

No official notification of the strike on the properties at Goldfield has been received by the state labor commissioner's office and hence the labor commission has no plans to settle the controversy. It is understood that the Consolidated company's plans will be to leave the mines closed and to operate the mill on the tailings and other ore available on the dumps.

SHORTAGE IN GAS AND KEROSENE

The orders that continue to come to the fuel administrator's office is keeping the force busy deciphering and sending out instructions. Among the latest warning to arrive from headquarters deals with kerosene and gasoline.

In the case of coal oil or kerosene the administrator is advised that there will be a shortage. The circular is to the effect that all care of conservation must be taken. Lamps should be properly cleaned. Heaters should only be used when necessary. The public is refrained from using coal oil for cleaning purposes. The shortage will be most keenly felt in large cities, but all districts are requested to economize to their best extent on this fuel oil.

In the advice on the supply of gasoline the United States fuel administration says. No shortage at the present time will be issued for use of gasoline in freight vehicles, and it may not be necessary to severely interfere with the use of gas for pleasure cars. The paramount use of gas is for the war, and the volume demanded will govern the situation.

In conclusion the advise states: "It seems possible that rational conservation by the public will render government action unnecessary."

From the above it will be seen that while no orders have yet been issued restricting the use of gas or pleasure vehicles, yet the indications are that unless there is conservation, practiced that the government will regulate this matter. The ruling on coal oil affects the outside or rural districts more than the cities of Nevada, as electric power and lights have almost taken the place of kerosene for illumination purposes. It is as well that the public be advised on the conditions as outlined by the fuel administrators.

FORMER SALT LAKER HAS SPECTACULAR RISE

LEAPS IN SHORT PERIOD TO PROMINENCE AND PROFIT IN MINING WORLD

SALT LAKE, July 3.—Revelation of the fact that Otto Sussman, for eight or ten years previous to the world a mining engineer of moderate circumstances in Salt Lake, had become a $1,500-a-year man, as vice-president of the American Metal company of New York, came as a surprise in local mining circles yesterday with the publication of the report of the federal trade commission in the United States senate on profiteering in basic commodities. Sussman, who is a native of Munich, while in Salt Lake, in addition to doing a general business as a mining engineer, making reports and doing like work, was representative for this territory of the American Metal company, which is the branch in the United States of the Metallurgische-gesellschaft, the dominating German metal trust.

While in this city Sussman lived at the University and Alta clubs. Later he married Miss Edna Bailey of this city. He moved his offices as representative of the American Metal company to New York in 1915, according to local mining men, and was in Europe when the world war broke out.

He proceeded down the Rhine and made his way back to the United States. He was in this city in October, 1914, and has made visits to this territory since.

NO ORDERS ABOUT DRAFT REGISTRANTS

L. E. Glass, clerk of the Nye county exemption board, received a letter this morning from Maurice J. Sullivan, adjutant general, advising him that no instructions had been received from Washington concerning the number of registrants and instructing him not to permit any man drawn in the second draft to engage in any branch of military service until his standing was finally and officially determined. It is permissible to allow registrants to enlist in the navy if they prefer that branch of the service.

EIGHTEEN WOMAN WORK IN SHOPS

Eighteen women and girls are now working in the Sparks shops. Four are employed as painters, four as machinists, five as cleaners, and five as store-room clerks, making a total of eighteen taking the positions formerly held by men.

The first woman to don overalls and take a man's job went to work in the Sparks shops about one year ago and since that time only two have quit and that because of sickness in the family. They like the work and are staying with it.

The women workers are for the most part young and strong and are educated and refined. Several university and high school girls are among the number and they do not mind the rough work a bit.

"We are well satisfied with them and they can do a good day's work," says Mr. Jones in reference to his women workers. "The greatest trouble that we have with them is in inspiring confidence in them. They are afraid to tackle the difficult jobs because they think that if they spoil a piece of work that they will be discharged. As fast as we can break them in and find places for them we are going to put more women and girls to work in the shops."

REJECTED RECRUIT COMMITTS SUICIDE

The body of Clarence Rosenbeck, one of the most prominent young men of Carson City was found in the rear of his father's place of business Monday morning, with a bullet hole through his head. Near him lay a heavy calibre revolver.

Mr. Rosenbeck enlisted in the army early in the year but was taken seriously ill shortly after reaching Camp Fremont and was in the hospital for over a month, being discharged several weeks ago. He returned to Carson in a weakened condition but recently returned to his former position in the state printing office, of which he was chief clerk.

Mr. Rosenbeck was prominently known throughout Carson and Carson valley and also had a wide acquaintance at Reno where he frequently visited.

PASSED BAD CHECKS IS CHARGE AGAINST HIM

At the request of Assistant District Attorney Salisbury requisition papers were issued yesterday by Governor Boyle asking the governor of Nebraska to issue extradition papers authorizing the return to Nevada of Bera Schorr, in custody at Omaha, on a charge of forgery made in Reno, says the Gazette.

Schorr had an office in Reno for some time and is accused by the officers of having left a trail of bad checks, several, it is said, reaching the office of District Attorney Lunnford. Drug stores, saloons and merchandise stores cashed checks for Schorr, it is declared. He is a dentist's assistant.

WEALTHY RANCHERS RESPOND TO CALL FOR LABORERS

Henry and Edward Kirchner, two men who have made a fortune in ranching are not content to remain idle while men are needed to harvest the hay crops. The two men sold their ranch in Paradise valley last spring for $50,000. An urgent call came from Lovelock for hay hands and the Kirchner brothers were among the first to respond.

MASTERPIECE OF KNITTING AT RED CROSS ROOMS

At the Red Cross rooms on Main street visitors are admiring a pair of socks knitted by Mrs. John P. Manion that would attract universal attention anywhere to rthey carry the Red Cross emblem woven on the side half way between the heel and top. Mrs. Manion is one of the best workers of the local Red Cross who has done more than her share in contributing garments and knitted goods of her own handwork to the boys across the water.

INJURIES LIKELY TO PROVE SERIOUS

An examination of the injuries sustained yesterday by Nick Savila at the Desert Queen mine disclosed that the patient was much worse hurt than anticipated from the first cursory examination for the left foot was a compound Pott's fracture through crushing and involving the loss of several bones. Then there are injuries to the back which may prove troublesome, although the physicians could not find that any injury had affected the spine.

WOMEN IN HAY FIELDS

YERINGTON, July 3.—With a large number of women in the fields operating rakes and mowers and doing other hard work the first crop of alfalfa in this county is being cut now. All the ranchers are short-handed and the work is being delayed considerably.

WARY OLD BIRD IS TRUTH

Fact Worth Remembering When One Is Tempted to Criticize Errors Seen in Newspapers.

"Where do you get the absurd facts you print?" is a favorite query put to newspaper men. In the view of these cynics, newspapers spend most of their time misspelling names, imagining incidents that never happened, and generally manhandling life as it is led.

There is just one answer to be made to the query above, and that is: "Newspapers get such of their facts as are absurd from the absurd human beings who for one reason or a thousand refuse to relate facts accurately."

Newspapers, truth-telling newspapers, spend a very large part of their time correcting those misstatements, running them to their source, and getting at the truth. A certain proportion of error gets by—not as great a proportion as can be heard in any village neighborhood gossip, for it is the concern of newspapers—of honest ones, that is—to allow for errors and correct them, whereas it is the concern of those other purveyors of news, gossips, to create errors whenever they are more interesting than the truth.

The next time you find an error in your favorite newspaper, try an experiment. Try to capture one small fact yourself. In your own home town. You will quickly discover just how wary a bird the truth is and how very unpopular.—New York Tribune.

Japanese, Arts and Letters.

The Yamato association has been formed by distinguished Japanese citizens for the purpose of making Nippon's achievements in arts and letters better known to the western world. Its promoters believe that Japanese civilization is not correctly understood by the vast majority of Occidental people. Her naval, military and scientific advancement is recognized, but the West has yet to comprehend the significance of her achievements in the humanities. The Japan Magazine, commenting upon the new organization, says: "Many foreigners are disposed to look upon Japan as merely a military nation, whereas her most important side is the genius of her unique civilization and character. If people could get a glimpse of the soul of Japan they would have quite a different opinion of her. This can best be had from Japanese art and literature, which in many ways are equal to those of the West. Even those Occidentals who try to appreciate Japanese art prefer the least representative art of the nation. And as for Japanese literature, it is practically unknown among western people."

The association will publish works on Japanese history, literature and art and make translations into European languages of the best works of Japanese writers, ancient and modern; in addition its endeavor will be to promote the improvement of the national music and drama.

Glass Industry in America.

Glass was first manufactured in America by the people of Jamestown, Va., during the year 1615. Commenting on this fact, John Smith lamented that "the labor of the colony has been misdirected in the manufacture of ashes, soap, glass and tar, in which they could by no means compete with Sweden or Russia." The inhabitants of Jamestown did not agree with this view, however, and soon afterward commenced the erection of a glass works, the completion of which was interrupted by the Indian massacre of 1622. The first glass factory in North America to attempt the industry on an ambitious scale was built in 1780, at Temple, N. H., by Robert Hewes of Boston. The workmen, 82 in number, were German deserters from the British army. The carelessness of a workman caused the destruction of the plant by fire in 1781. In 1803 a glass factory was established in Boston, and since that time the industry has flourished.

THE BELMONT MEN BOAST OF HIGH FLAG

John M. Fox, superintendent of the Belmont Wagner Mining company's office at Telluride, Colorado, states that the boys of that property have the highest per capita subscription to the third Liberty loan. This means that they expect to receive the honor flag which will fly from a pole 11,600 feet high, which the boys think is some pole. Mr. Fox mentions the circumstances as reflecting credit on the boys belonging to a Tonopah organization and subsidiary of the Tonopah Belmont Development company.

TALLEST MARINE IN THE SERVICE

BALTIMORE, Md., July 3.—Uncle Sam now has six feet five and a half inches of real U. S. marine. He is Carroll William Doggett, 25 years old, a mail clerk of this city. Doggett has just become a marine, but he had a rather difficult time breaking in.

When the 7 1/2 inches of humanity strolled into the local recruiting station, the officers in charge had the shock of their young lives.

After some little difficulties, which included bumping his head on the electric light fixtures in the ceiling, the lengthy caller managed to get down into a chair.

Upon examination, he was told he was three and one-half inches too tall and 26 pounds overweight. So Doggett got busy and after much work and worry, arranged for a waiver from Washington. He is the tallest man in the marine corps.

REWARD MONEY FOR WALTERS MAY GO TO RED CROSS

In case the claims of Lovelock men who aided in the hunt for Paul Walters, slayer of Sheriff Mark Wildes of Churchill county, are allowed, the big end of the reward offered by the state for the capture of Walters will go to the Red Cross. In a letter sent to Governor Boyle, signed by twenty-seven men who participated in the chase as members of the various posses, they ask to be allowed their proportionate shares of the reward money and pledge themselves to donate it to the Red Cross.

What Food Saving Involves

Sign the pledge and enroll as a member of the United States Food Administration, and you will be asked to do these things:

Eat plenty, but wisely, and without waste. Fresh and practice the "wasp of waste" the clean plate."

Buy less; cook no more than necessary; serve smaller portions. Use local and seasonal products.

Whenever possible use poultry, game and sea foods in place of beef, mutton and pork.

Use potatoes and other vegetables freely.

Save wheat by substituting, in part, corn meal and other cereal flours for wheat flour.

Save butter and lard. Use butter on the table, but substitute vegetable oils for cooking.

Save sugar. Use less candy and sweet drinks and less sugar in tea and coffee.

"This is a duty of necessity, humanity and honor. As a free people we have elected to discharge this duty, not under autocratic decree, but without other restraint than the guidance of individual conscience." —Herbert Hoover.
