The French and British pounding both flanks of the salient, March said, caused the collapse of the German resistance Thursday. The French walked into Soissons. Complete success of the allies is indicated in a confidential message March received from an officer just returned from Pore on Tardenois.

CROWN PRINCE'S ARMY RETREATING ON THREE SIDES CANNOT STOP SHORT OF THE AISNE RIVER WITH ALLIES CONTROLLING HEIGHTS

(By Associated Press) WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE AISNE-VESELE FRONT, AUG. 3.—(HAVAS NEWS AGENCY).—THE GERMAN CROWN PRINCE'S ARMY CONTINUES IN FULL RETREAT. THE GERMANS HAVE NO HEAVY ARTILLERY IN ACTION. GERMAN LOSSES ARE VERY HEAVY.

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Aug. 3.—The French are holding several foras across the Vesle. Apparently the Germans have abandoned the idea of making a stand there. The enemy is hurriedly retreating north of the Vesle. Great fires are raging in the evacuated territory. The German right wing on the Aisne is in a dangerous situation.

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Aug. 3.—The consequences of yesterday's victory cannot be gauged but it appears certain they will be far reaching. The enemy cannot hold Vesle, it is believed, because they must recross the Aisne since by the capture of Soissons all allies may debouch on both sides of the river and take the enemy in the rear. The German retreat began Friday morning after the fall of Tardenois.

The Americans in the center marched toward Vesle down the Orillon valley, while the French debouched from Hartennes into the Crise valley, taking in the rear the previously impregnable redoubt of Bazancy. The movement quickened and the Dormans-Rheims road was left three miles behind and Gueux Poilly, Vezilly, Goussancourt and Coulonges were passed at a bound by mid-afternoon and the allies were established solidly on the heights on both sides of the Crise. The fall of Soissons irrevocably decided the fate of the battle as it was the pivot of the whole German line.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—(Havas News Agency)—The French took many prisoners when they recaptured Soissons. The Germans who escaped fled northward and the French maintained touch with the enemy rear guards at all points. German losses are declared to be heavy. Paris newspapers say the results of the battle surpassed the highest hopes.

It was not until 8 o'clock that it was decided to hold a celebration and the news was phoned the mine engineers who started their sirens going with the result that Main street quickly filled with an excited crowd. (Continued On Page Four.)

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Aug. 3.—After occupying Soissons, the French advanced to the south bank of the Aisne between Pommiers and Venizel. On the easterly side of the salient line the allies advance runs from Sergy el Prin and Sivigny in the Andre valley to the highest point of the plateau between the Ardre and Vesle, thence to Rosnay, Gueux and Thillois and to Vesle at St. Brice, which is on the original line. Southwest of Soissons the French advanced to a point south of Braite. Fourteen fires north of the Vesle indicate a further German withdrawal.
