

WILLIE RITCHIE WILL RETIRE

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—Personal friends of Willie Ritchie former lightweight boxing champion of the world, believe he will abide by his announced intention of retiring from the ring for all time. With his final bow to pugilism, the curtain will come down on a fighter who was considered one of the greatest that the ring has known.

There are many who have watched the ring career of Ritchie who deem him in a class with Battling Nelson in the matter of standing up to, and taking punishment without a whimper. His last battle with Bennie Leonard, when he continued fighting while reeling from the effects of the champion's blows, more than made good his claims of gameness made for him.

A notable instance of Ritchie's gameness was displayed in his championship fight against Joe Rivers in this city on July 4, 1913, when the latter made an attempt to take the title from the then champion. For the first five rounds Rivers outfought and outboxed Ritchie to such an extent that the crowd was looking to see Ritchie take the final count at any moment. Ritchie continued to fight back under merciless punishment and finally succeeded in landing a couple of stiff punches that slowed up Rivers. The tide then suddenly turned and in the eleventh round Rivers was prostrate.

Ritchie is comfortably fixed in the matter of worldly goods. Besides a handsome cash balance in the bank he owns a couple of apartment houses here which return him a good income. He never has dissipated and does not use tobacco in any form. His one frivolity, which has been the cause of much good natured banter on the part of his friends, has been the fondness for dancing, which he indulges in whenever the opportunity occurs.

Prior to becoming a champion, Ritchie worked in a garage and is an expert mechanic. He considered at one time going into the automobile business and it would not be a surprise if, eventually, he entered this line of work.

WAR FACTORIES TURN TO FARM PRODUCTS

(Correspondence Associated Press)

PARIS, April 17.—The war manufacturing plants of France, many of which have already been diverted again to peaceful pursuits, are turning out a great variety of articles that are a far reach from the implements of destruction which were being fabricated on an armistice day. So far as possible the war machinery has been kept and is being employed to make the things of peace to which it is best adapted.

Grenade foundries are now making iron water piping, parts for agricultural machinery and non-rusting casseroles. One important establishment which was working on shells is now manufacturing locksmith's tools. In other shell works iron window shutters, pickaxes, portable anvils, safes and washing machines are being constructed. One plant which made parts for fighting tanks is, strange as it may seem, constructing machines for the manufacture of paper and of chocolate.

Some of the aviation works have been diverted to strange productions. One is turning out threshing machines. Others which made airplane wings are making furniture. A plant which repaired air machines is building farm tractors. Another shop which made special parts for airplanes is installing looms for the manufacture of braid such as is used in upholstering furniture. Carpenters and plumbers' lamps are being made by an aviation works which formerly made taps used in the mechanism of the flying machine. The reservoirs for petrol and oil made by one plant have given way to kitchen utensils. A plant which manufactured special articles for aviation and telegraphy has found that it can continue the same line profitably.

A plant which during the war made powder machinery is now making implements for the production of benzine and dye-stuffs. Another is turning out crockery. Some plants which were using part of their equipment for the nitration of cotton have turned to the production of paper without finding it necessary to cut down their number of employees.

Works which were devoted to the manufacture of such things as tires have made some changes in their equipment and are about to embark in the business of making thimbles, hooks, paper clips and kitchen utensils such as casseroles, saucers, plates and spoons. One plant which made torpedoes and delicate instruments for the accentuation of sound waves is employed in making sheet iron.

Automobile lamps, farm implements and fireless cookers are being made by a large firm which constructed winged-bombs for air work. Another, which made incendiary bombs, is producing copper wire and fireworks. A marine boiler plant is now constructing utensils for distillation and rectification. Portable houses are being constructed for the liberated regions by a manufacturer which made soldiers' barracks during the war. A plant which made boxes for munitions is constructing artistic chairs. Some of the works which made water bottles, cups and spoons for the army are constructing tin boxes for the preservation of food-stuffs. One plant which made overshoes and wooden shoes for the army is constructing wooden hacks for hushes. Districts for the fishing industry are being made by an establishment which formerly turned out barrels for the army. Woodwork for houses is being produced by a firm which had been making wooden legs.

SUFFRAGE LOST ON THE ISLANDS

HONOLULU, T. H., April 21. (By mail.)—Proponents of woman suffrage have lost their fight at the present session of the territorial legislature, now drawing to a close, and the issue is dead in Hawaii until the 1921 session unless congress should act in the interim. Woman suffrage blanks were in the platforms of both parties in Hawaii when the last elections were held.

A bill to grant woman suffrage by direct action of the legislature was introduced into the Hawaiian senate and passed, but was defeated by a narrow margin in the house. A bill was introduced providing for a plebiscite on suffrage but it has been tabled.

J. Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, delegate to congress from Hawaii has signified his willingness to present a petition to congress at its next session, asking for equal suffrage in the territory, and women who directed the fight in the legislature now have this plan under consideration. They openly charge that the defeat of suffrage in the legislature was due to the efforts of a cabal of Honolulu politicians who feared for political activity of women.
