PLAYING THE LAST CARD.

CONGRESS IS IN SESSION. The roll could not have been avoided any longer or it would have been issued. President Wilson faces what Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts said was a shame and an outrage that it should not have been called a month ago. The business includes appropriations that should have been acted on shortly after the expiration of the regular session to satisfy the country's demands and save hasty action precipitated by the desire of the president to rush the business at an extra session which will run dangerously close to the end of the fiscal year. So short a time will make it impossible for Congress to give adequate consideration to any of the bills that appropriate hundreds of millions of dollars. The president is asking Republicans of the extra session to do in a few weeks what the Democrats of the last Congress could not do in three months. Members returning to Congress indicate that they will refuse to act hastily on any of the measures which failed of passage at the last session having no intention of putting through bills drafted by the Democratic majority. They are reluctant to pass through any continuing resolutions. Apparently the desire to show that President Wilson alone is responsible for the strained financial conditions faced by the executive departments. The Republicans are aware that they will be charged by the Democrats with delaying legislation and seeking to put the burden of the distress of the president. This bald criticism does not cover the situation. The Democrats dawdled along with their appropriations in the last session when they should have reported them out promptly and thus caused a glut in the closing days.

Moreover the Republicans have been eager to organize Congress and help to work on the appropriation bills before the debate on the peace treaty interfered and President Wilson has refused to permit the aid to do so. The whole thing is politics from start to finish, with the departments suffering for money and in danger of drifting into an even more serious financial condition. Apparently the Democrats hoped that the Republicans would become involved in a row over organization as soon as the Sixty-sixth Congress assembled which was not realized as the Republican organization was ready for business from the drop of the gavel. While the Republicans were able to organize without difficulty the indications are that the Democrats are not a quail. One of the interesting features brought out by the Republicans is that Victor Berger, Socialist of Milwaukee, now under sentence to a federal prison under the espionage act, is drawing his monthly salary as a member of Congress. Mr. Berger has already received $1250 of his salary and would have continued to receive that emolument had it not been for the prompt action of the Republican majority in challenging his right to a seat in the House. This is only one of the numerous scandalous defections of which the Democratic party is accused and prompt steps will be taken as shown by the resolution introduced at the opening session to proceed with the impeachment of a man who has been found guilty by the courts of obstructing the government in dealing with the agents of the enemy.

MENDACIOUS CORRESPONDENTS.

AT EVERY OPPORTUNITY some of the San Francisco newspapers take delight in having a fling at anything that will militate against Nevada or any of the institutions which are represented in the development of this state. A recent illustration of this policy is found in the San Francisco Chronicle whose Tonopah correspondent wilfully perverted the facts concerning the recent acquisition of the Victory and Belcher groups of claims. Accompanying the formal announcement of the purchase of these groups by the greatest colonic of mining investors in the United States was the statement that the action was preliminary to merging the combination into one company for the sake of cheapening costs of operation and to centralize the power of the controlling interest. This statement is a wanton falsehood uttered with complete disregard for the positive assertion and pledge of the man who made this deal possible, that no such movement was contemplated and that the companies would continue to operate as distinct entities without any disturbance of the plans of development entered into by previous owners. In face of this unqualified statement volunteered when news of the consummation was given out, some unscrupulous correspondent manufactured the story that would impair the value of every holding operated under the same auspices. There is no indication that any merger is to be attempted and a glance at the field shows that every company organized for operation in the Divide District is going ahead on its individual treasury by installing the very best and most expensive equipment that money can command or the potentialities of the properties suggest. Every company is operating on its own bottom and on the merits of its particular location. The only departure from this principle is among some of the junior companies where arrangements have been effected by which others may use or share the cost of installing and operating large compressors to supply other adjacent prospects with pressure for drills. No one attempts to argue from this that there is any danger of consolidation from the fact that these minor organizations save their stockholders considerable money by contracting with other companies in the neighborhood to furnish air. The other day the Bonanza told of several companies uniting in building a boarding house where the men of several properties would find the best living at a less cost than what obtains in town. If each of these companies maintained its own boarding house for every eight, 10 or 15 men, with the attendant overhead, it stands to reason that the cost of the service could not compete with the prices applicable through the feeding of a hundred men with one set of cooks and kitchen help. The saving made through this co-operation is money in the pockets of the working miners who are receiving the very best food properly cooked and tastefully served for less money than they would be called on to pay in any of the cheap boarding houses that usually infest new mining camps. No man in his senses would infer from this joint effort that the companies contributing to the well being and contentment of their employes harbored any designs in the way of a general merger except the hairbrained rummy who sent out the malicious statement that there was to be a consolidation of Divide operating interests.

SYSTEM RECOMMENDED TO TONOPAH RENTERS

(Correspondence Associated Press)
 LONDON, April 22.—In many districts, and particularly in Yorkshire where the dearth of houses is acute, the practice of paying "key money" is growing. So keen are prospective tenants to get into a house directly it is vacant that as much as $50 to $100 is offered to the occupier for the key, this transaction generally carrying with it the understanding that the landlord will accept the succeeding tenant.

 METZ, France, April 20.—In the porch of Metz cathedral stands a statue of Daniel the prophet, to which a sculptor had given a marked facial likeness to former Emperor William. When the French took possession of the city, they put a pair of handcuffs on the emperor-prophet's wrists, from which hung a placard inscribed "Sic transit gloria mundi."
 Now the statue is to be taken away altogether and a new one substituted by a local artist. A fund for this purpose has been opened here.
