JACKMAN GETS SECOND PAROLE

At every session of the board of pardons a number of men are either released on parole, pardoned or the case denied just as the circumstances fit and the pardoning board views the case. Then come the comment of the public. The board is most often condemned for letting out the men under sentence, and nine cases out of ten the public knows nothing of the real inside history of the case.

At the recent session of the board Albert Jackman, under sentence of life, was released on parole. Again adverse comment came up, and another public had not been taken into the confidence of the board. There has been a decided misunderstanding in this case. It has been the custom of the papers to state that Jackman "killed a newsboy or messenger." He killed a man, not a boy.

Moritz, the man he killed, was 25 years of age. He was a man weighing about 160 pounds, a prize fighter, and the record shows that he was not all that could be asked for morally. Jackman was 22 years of age at the time. He was slight built and a man of peaceful disposition. The two had trouble in the dance hall one night and Moritz pulled a gun, which was taken away and is alleged to have said he would "get" Jackman.

A few days later Moritz came down the street of Goldfield on a bicycle. Jackman saw him coming and shot him. The first shot brought him to earth and he then fired the second shot as the wounded man was on the ground. It was the firing of the second shot that brought about his conviction. Judge Langan, in a letter to the board, stated that he, with the jury, was probably carried away through public sentiment and the second shot. This letter of Judge Langan was one of the indictments that went to help the parole.

It is alleged that there was a woman in the case, which was not brought out at the trial, as Jackman refused to let it be a part of the evidence.

When Jackman landed in Goldfield he learned that Moritz was paying improper attentions to a girl, a former schoolmate of Jackman's. He advised the young woman to forget Moritz and offered her money to return home. She accepted and left the camp without advising Moritz. Later Moritz learned of the fact and then the trouble began. It was over his that the killing occurred.

When Jackman was arrested he had approximately $66,000. When he finished with the lawyers and the costs he had about half of the sum, and was also in prison under a life sentence. This all happened in 1908. In 1915 he was paroled. This parole was revoked. The pardoning board at its recent session paroled him again, believing, it is said, that the revocation of the first parole was a mistake.

FREIGHT RAISE CRIPPLES MILL

One of Fallon's industries which is destined to mean much to the entire community is faced with possible annihilation if the freight increase contemplated by the railroads is made. Some time ago several Fallon people started an alfalfa meal mill here, and the mill has been working night and day for some time grinding alfalfa and making meal, the market for which is largely found in the Mississippi valley country. Since this meal mill was established the Western Meat company has started the erection of a big mill, and only this week started the operation of this mill. Now comes in a letter from the San Francisco office of the Western Meat company information that the railroads contemplate raising the rates on alfalfa meal 6 cents per hundred-weight. This would make a raise of $1.20 per ton, and with the handicap of competition with Colorado, which is able to ship much cheaper to Missouri river points, this increase would greatly cripple and perhaps destroy this market for the alfalfa meal mills here. This would undoubtedly discourage these enterprises to such an extent that the business would be pushed aggressively and might be discontinued entirely.

This is a condition which the farmers of this community should take steps to prevent. With two alfalfa meal mills operating here the problem of marketing the surplus alfalfa will be largely taken care of, and it should be to the interest of everyone to see that nothing is done to cripple these industries.—Fallon Eagle.

JIM BUTLER MAKES NEW FORTUNE AT

Jim Butler has made another fortune in Divide, so report alleges. He is often mentioned as the "father of Tonopah." It is no stretch of fancy, then, to also give him another mining camp relationship, to-wit: grandfather of Divide, since the latter is Tonopah's offspring. Anyway, the story is current that the late jump in Divide stocks enabled Mr. Butler to sell out a part of his holdings for something over half a million dollars.—Bishop Register.
