JOHNSON DECLINES TO TALK

PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—Replying to a question relating to his candidacy for the republican nomination for president, Senator Hiram Johnson declared: "I have no interest in the matter whatever. I am interested in just one subject, when the interests of the common people of the United States are imperilled. This is a tremendously important matter in the eyes of a large portion of the press of this nation, it is a reproach for Americans to strive for America."

SAVE FIFTEEN MILES ON ROAD TO ARROWHEAD

Judge R. L. Johns applied to the county commissioners today for a survey that will shorten the distance between Tonopah and Arrowhead fifteen miles. The judge believes it would pay this county to do the work as it brings Tonopah that much closer to a section that is going to make a large tonnage of ore after the mine is fully developed. Eventually the company will establish a mill, but during the constructive stage shipments will be made to the Tonopah mills where they can be treated without any special adjustment to secure a high extraction.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY OVER NYE COUNTY

I. P. Carpenter of the Webster mines corporation, operating at Grantville, says the northern end of Nye county stands a good show for getting the Lincoln highway, owing to representations which have been made to the state representative. It is proposed to leave the main highway at Austin, coming down to Lone and passing out at Bremer, through to Fallon. This route would take the road out of the sinkhole country, give a shorter mileage and cost less money than would be required by the present route.

TEST UNDERFLOW FOR IRRIGATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—To encourage reclamation of Nevada's desert lands, the house today passed a bill authorizing exploration in that state for underground waters to be used for irrigation purposes. The measure, having passed the senate, now goes to the president.

Under its terms, the secretary of the interior is authorized to give a homesteader the exclusive right for two years to develop underground waters, and if in that time he demonstrates the successful irrigation of twenty acres, he is given 400 acres for his labor.

Peculiar climate and geographic conditions of Nevada were cited by proponents of the bill in arguing its passage. They pointed out that less than 200,000 of the 7,000,000,000 acres in the state had become privately owned under the existing homestead and desert land laws, but that if irrigation from underground were successful the state's development would be rapid.

TEN MEN WORK ON GIBRALTAR

Harry Stimler, general manager of the Gibraltar Mines company, is setting that property in shape for making application for the construction of a power line to enable the property to operate at the lowest cost and with a maximum of efficiency. The location of the Gibraltar is peculiarly favorable to the introduction of power lines, as the mountain rises so sharply from the surrounding country that it would be almost impossible to transport any cumbersome equipment, as everything intended for use in the mine or at the camp has to be sent up the hillside on the backs of jacks. The climb to the camp is an elevation of 1,200 feet. Stimler is negotiating with the Hornsilver Mines company for a three-drill compressor that remains at Hornsilver and, if he succeeds in securing this equipment, which is mounted on trucks, will be hauled over from the south. The company has six tents erected on the southern slope of Gibraltar where it seldom snows. Ten men are employed under direction of Jack Jordan preparing to drive a tunnel.

BIG CONFERENCE STARTS WITH A ROW ON RULES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Disagreement over rules proposed for governing the industrial conference called by President Wilson resulted in the conference adjourning suddenly after Secretary of the Interior Lane was elected permanent chairman to meet again this afternoon. As proposed by the committee, the rules provided that all conclusions and decisions must be arrived at by unanimous vote of three groups representing capital, labor and the public, while the decision of each individual group will be by a majority of the members of that group. The rule was attacked by John Sparano, a delegate representing the public.

Sparano declared the conference might as well adjourn if the provision of rules was adopted whereby a majority vote of any group was necessary before a member of the group could introduce a subject for discussion. He objected particularly, he said, because of the provision for a minority expression.
