MAY DRINK FOR 12 HOURS DAILY

(Correspondence Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 8.—Twelve hours a day for drinking will be proposed by British saloonkeepers in a bill they expect to introduce into parliament. Before the war the number of week-day hours for the sale of liquor was fixed at 19½ in London, 17 in provincial towns and 16 in the country.

The new bill proposes to leave Sunday hours substantially as they were in pre-war times, the London number, 7, being applied to the whole of England.

Franchisees of the measure say they are seeking to convert the public house from a place used merely for the consumption of alcoholic drinks into one of varied public refreshment and social entertainment. They propose to remodel public houses in order to make them commodious and airy and to introduce music, dancing and games.

Temperance leaders strongly oppose the bill. "The liquor trade," commented George R. Wilson, secretary of the United Kingdom alliance, "fear the advance of public opinion in this country and is alarmed by what has taken place in America. It is proposed to make the drink shop so attractive that it will become the social center of the neighborhood, open apparently to women and children, as well as men. It seems impossible to believe that the great volume of public opinion will agree to a measure which will enormously increase the power of drink."

Under the wartime regulations, which are still effective, hours for the sale of drinks in public houses are restricted to between 12 o'clock noon and 2:30 p. m. and between 6 and 10 p. m.

SOME TORTURE RIDING CAMELS

(Correspondence Associated Press)
PARIS, Oct. 6.—Lieutenant Boncourt, who piloted the airplane "Goliath" in its Paris-Dakar flight, and came to grief on the sands of Mauritania, relating his experiences to the members of the Aero club at a dinner in his honor, said:

"Flying a thousand kilometers over the desert, making forced landings on crabs and shellfish for six days, drinking water saturated with oil and with the temperature a hundred and ten in the shade, all that was nothing compared to that sixty miles we negotiated on camels' backs to reach Port Louis.

"I would rather fly around the world in the Goliath than ride a camel around the Champ de Mars."

LONDON LEARNS TO BE CIVIL

(Correspondence Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 9.—Politeness is returning to London. Shopkeepers are learning again to be civil. This applies even to grocers who, since the introduction of rationing, have been the greatest tyrants, barring taxicab drivers, that the war produced.

The cynical-minded account for the grocer's unaccustomed civility on he found that his customers will be given the privilege of taking their ration books to some other store, but there can be no doubt of the new spirit in the air.

"We say 'Thank you' now," announces a sign in a cigar store which was recently taken over by demobilized soldiers. These soldiers have brought good manners back from the front.

No reports have been received of any "thank yous" from taxicab drivers, for the cabs are still scarce, but it's no uncommon nowadays to hear a bus conductor express thanks for the penny when he punches the ticket.

The butcher also is falling into line. He no longer expects to be bribed for attentiveness and he has abandoned the war-time practice of throwing a chop at a customer and expecting him to find the paper in which to wrap it up.

Americans who came over for the first time during the war are at last beginning to understand why the war tourists praised life in England.

COFFEE LOSSES IMPAIR INCOMES

(Correspondence Associated Press)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 15.—Results of coffee crop failures are seen in the large number of high grade automobiles available for public hire in this city. Most of them were originally purchased for private use in times of prosperity, but their owners were compelled to sell them when the crop failed and financial distress ensued.

The widespread use made of them for business, pleasure or social purposes is a striking feature of life in the Brazilian capital. They are not of the usual taxicab type, but expensive cars.

The broad, smooth avenues and boulevards are admirably adapted to the use of automobiles, and as there is no speed law the one great object in life for the native chauffeur apparently is to go at top speed whether in city or suburb. That there are not numerous daily accidents is due, perhaps, mainly to expert handling of the cars.
