AMUSEMENTS

"WHITE HEATHER" A MASTERPIECE English melodrama, strengthened by highly interesting undersea views photographed by the Williamson submarine tube, "The White Heather," Maurice Tourneur's Paramount-Artcraft special production, which will be shown at the Butler today, portrays some tremendous efforts to get the "papers" in the case of Marlon Hume, who married Lord Angus Cameron aboard his yacht by the Scotch ceremony of declaration before two witnesses. The documentary evidence of the marriage, enclosed in water proof wrappings before the yacht was sunk, constitutes the sole protection of Marlon and her child, as one witness disappeared—the deep, and the other in the fitful and jettison of the London underworld. Lord Angus, finding himself in serious financial circumstances, urged to marry a woman of wealth, denies his secret marriage to Marlon, and flirts with high-class selfishness to make his own son legitimate, a conflict ending in his own death and that of a lad who tried to clear the young wife's name. There are plenty of stirring scenes and dramatic climaxes in this production which reveals what admirably the material for movie thrillers is to be found in the famous Henry Ford melodramas. This picture received the praise of every critic in New York when it had its premier showing at the big Balto theatre there. Added to the feature will be a Goldwyn Bray cartoon comedy tomorrow, William Russell in "A Sporting Chance" and "Fatty" Arbuckle in "The Desert Hero" Monday. Justin Farnum in "A Man's Fight."

William Lorey, driver of the mail-wagon, was knocked from his seat and temporarily rendered unconscious when the horses drawing the wagon were struck by an automobile driven by F. C. Gruber at the intersection of the postoffice alley and Ramsey street. Lorey states that before the accident he took $500 in cash from a safety deposit box in the Goldfield hotel bar for the purpose of buying express money orders with it and that he lost the money, supposedly when he was thrown from the wagon. The money, Lorey said, represented his personal savings. The vicinity in which the accident occurred was searched thoroughly but the money, which Lorey says was in an envelope, was not found. I.W.W. WILL NOT APPEAL CASE

(Continued From Page One) They be lawfully used for any other purpose than bettering the conditions of workmen, through wages and conditions of work; to instigate assemblages or attend assemblages or assemble together for the purpose of securing industrial or political reforms; or for the purpose of overturning the government by unlawful, violent, riotous or tumultuous methods; to advocate or teach the doctrines of criminal anarchy, criminal syndicalism, direct action, unlawful coercion or to conspire together to deprive any citizen of property without due process of law, to intimidate or coerce any person to do or to abstain from doing anything relating to his work which he has a lawful right to do or to abstain from doing—either by violence, threats or such manner of what is called picketing that coerces, intimidates or has a tendency reasonably to coerce or intimidate. The foregoing is an enumeration in part only of the things that the I. W. W.'s are prohibited from doing in this state, but it is sufficient to show that they will be unable to carry out their usual practices in Nevada without getting into trouble and placing themselves in the position of being in contempt of court. Now that the plan of appeal has been abandoned the only way of getting the supreme court to issue the restraining order will be through contempt proceedings that may possibly arise. There is considerable difference of opinion as to the reasons for the state's highest court. There has been a feeling in some quarters that the final outcome of the appeal might have considerable bearing on a special session of the legislature should by any chance the upper court's ruling indicate that the state is in need of additional legislation in order to handle such a situation as the I. W. W. petition of Tonopah for a time prohibited. It is barely possible that the I. W. W. employed Mr. Scanlon feared that an extended local battle would not only serve to bring about the enactment of more stringent laws by the legislature in a special session—Carson News. Pretty soon the word "picketing" will be in as bad repute as the word "raffish."

BATHING IN NEVADA DECLARED A LUXURY

CARSON, Nov. 21—Is bathing a necessity or a luxury? That will be the question in the minds of the public in the future. Uncle Sam says it's a luxury. Recently a federal revenue agent went through the public bathing resorts at Mesona, Walleys, Carson and other points where charge has been made for the luxury of keeping clean. When the government agent finished his calculations he collected five cents a bath all along the line, and those who had failed to remit to the government and established a five-cent tax on each fifty-cent bath throughout the state. Several of the proprietors complained that they had not been notified, but were required to pay the fine just the same.

FIRST BIRTHDAY FOR TRIPLETS AT AUSTIN

Thursday, the eleventh, was an important day in Monitor valley, being the anniversary not only of the end of the world war, but of the arrival of the Lavigne triplets three fine boys, with only one birthday for the crowd, have flourished like a willow on a creek bank, and have passed the first year of their lives without serious illness. One of them, who took his early nourishment in the good old fashioned way, has considerably outgrown his brothers, but the other two, who receive theirs by the bottle method may be said to have run a dead heat. It became necessary to keep a ribbon tied on the wrist of one, so that the mother and nurse may be able to tell which is who—Reese River Reveille.
