

No Records Likely to Be Broken in Series

(By Associated Press)
 NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Notwithstanding the general increase in baseball throughout the country, it is unlikely that in the coming series to decide the world's championship that new records will be made in attendance for a single game or for the series. The reason for this is that the capacity of the parks where the games are to be played is insufficient to erase from the record books the top-notch figures that have been established in previous years.

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a single game in a world's series was 42,629, which was the attendance at the game between the Boston Red Sox of the American league and Brooklyn of the National league, played at Boston. The best record for total attendance at a series was made in 1912, when the Boston team of the American league and the New York team of the National league played 251,991 persons in eight games.

Ebbets field, the home grounds of the Brooklyn club of the National league, has been taxed to its capacity in one world's series, that of 1916, and while it is possible for between 22,000 and 23,000 to crowd into the stands and pavilions, the largest official attendance there in the 1919 series was 21,662. The parks of the contending clubs for the American league pennant show no possibilities for new attendance figures for a single game or the likelihood of a new record for the series when paired with the comparatively small capacity of Ebbets field. The seating capacity of the park at Cleveland is approximately 20,700, while that of the Chicago White Sox is in the neighborhood of 25,000. The largest number that has ever attended a world series game at the grounds of the White Sox was 33,373, the official attendance at the fifth game of the series between the White Sox and Cincinnati, last year.

After the routing world series will tendance per game since 1903 of 23,977.

HOUSES OF TURKEY ARE NEVER PAINTED

Correspondence of Associated Press
 CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 8.—Turkey is a paintless land. Most of the houses are wooden and unpainted.

ed. This is not a condition growing out of the war. The short-sighted policy of the government in imposing taxes on buildings in proportion to the sightliness of their exterior has encouraged shabbiness. Even in Constantinople a large percentage of the residences and many of the business houses are of wood. Many of the large apartment houses and office buildings have brick or stone fronts, but wooden sides and backs. Hence the disastrous fires which have laid more than one-third of the city in ashes since the beginning of the war, and the general terror of the population when a fire alarm sounds.
