ARROWHEAD DRIFT HAS TWO FEET HIGH GRADE

NEWSPAPER MAN IS DEAD

(By Associated Press)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 7.—James O. Scripps, well-known publisher, died early today at his home at Miramar, near here. He had been ill two months, but it was not until a few days ago that his condition took a turn for the worse. He was 35 years old, and is survived by a widow and four children.

Scripps was the eldest son of E. W. Scripps, founder of the Scripps chain of newspapers, and was born in Westchester, Ohio. Upon the death of his brother, John P. Scripps, in 1914, James Scripps became chairman of the board of directors of the Scripps newspapers, which position he held until the time of his death.

GAS MASKS NO USE IN MINE DISASTERS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 7.—Implicit faith in an instrument that saved the lives of thousands of American soldiers in France is daily endangering the lives of scores of men in industrial life in the United States. Dr. F. G. Cottrell, director of the bureau of mines, said today, in another warning against the use of army gas masks in mine explosions and mine fires. Despite repeated warnings from the department, miners and persons engaged in mine rescue work persist in using army gas masks. Dr. Cottrell said, although the devices are of practically no use in the average mine disaster.

Reviewing a number of cases recently where men attempting mine rescue work with army type gas masks had been overcome and had died, Dr. Cottrell said:

"These fatalities illustrate the fallacy of the belief quite prevalent throughout the country that this army type of gas mask will protect the wearer against any type of gas prepared to furnish information regarding its use.

The west drift of the 267 level of the Arrowhead mine has reached the ore, according to Pete Fox, superintendent of the property, who is in Tonopah today.

"The entire face of the drift is ledge matter with two feet of high-grade sulphides on the hanging wall side of the drift," said Mr. Fox. A picked sample from the new ore assayed today ran $47 gold and 422 ounces silver per ton.

Encountering this ore at this level proves the continuity of the orebody explored on the 100-foot level, which proved to be 157 feet long and had an average width of from three to four feet. Should drifting through the shoot at the 267 continue in ore, as it is expected to, the body of ore blocked out will make the Arrowhead one of the leading producers of southern Nevada.

A heavy flow of water was struck with the ore which for the present will stop shaft sinking; it is believed that the water is just a pool and that it will drain itself within a week when sinking will again be resumed.

"Striking the ore at this point, within a few feet as projected by the rake of ore in the vein at the upper level, is one of the most important developments of the Arrowhead mine," said Mr. Fox "It proves conclusively that the ore goes down and with regularity."

Another shift will be put on immediately and both drifts on this bottom level will be pushed ahead with all speed. The ore in the east drift is milling grade and is three feet wide at present.

Superintendent Fox returned to the property late this afternoon.
