

TRAVELER IN INDIA FINDS A WILD BOY

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, March 25.—A wild boy resembling in some respects Kipling's character, "Mowgli," who was suckled by a she-wolf and grew up to be leader of the pack, has been found in a remote section of India, according to a story told in the Times. In this case, however, the boy is reputed to have been kidnapped by a leopard. He has been recaptured and his father is now keeping a sharp eye on him to see that he does not run away to the woods.

The Times credits the tale to Stewart Baker who was recently in the undeveloped country around the Cachar hills on the northeast frontier of India where he was in charge of road-mending. It is customary in that region for the villagers to mend roads instead of paying taxes. Mr. Baker asked a villager why he did not do his share of road-mending.

The man replied that he was afraid to leave his village. His wife having died a short time previously, he had no one to take care of his little "wild son" who, in his absence, might run into the jungle and get lost. Mr. Baker paid the villager a visit and found with him a child about seven years of age, with innumerable white scars of tiny cuts and scratches all over his body.

The child's father told him that, five years before, the villagers of Cachari had killed two leopard cubs. The mother leopard had prowled about the jungle bordering on the village. A few days later the mother of the child left it lying on a cloth while she went away to reap rice. In her absence the mother leopard carried the child off. The villagers searched for it but could find no trace of it.

Some three years later a sportsman killed a leopard in the jungle. He told the villagers that the leopard had two cubs. They reached the jungle and found the two cubs and with them the missing child.

It ran on all fours quite fast, dodged and hid in bushes with great agility and skill and bit and fought with everyone who tried to lay hold of it. It tore to pieces and ate with extraordinary quickness any village fowl that came its way.

NEW STYLE IN BURGLARY

(By Associated Press)
RIGA, March 25.—A new style of costume robbery has been invented in Russia, according to a report from Moscow.

In Petrograd and Moscow strange companies have been established, consisting of "ghosts" of devils and angels who rob belated passers-by in the streets, plunder apartments and murder the people.

The inventive genius of these diabolical companies went so far as the invention of a special jumping board for "flying" over high fences. One of the "ghosts" who was recently caught confessed that his company, consisting of seven persons, murdered hundreds of people and kept the property stolen from them in coffins at the cemetery.

Inhabitants are helpless against these murderers and no help can be expected from the authorities because it is said that in many cities the authorities themselves are involved in these enterprises.

Appetite may become a helpful friend or an exacting enemy.

Many individuals are more inclined to yield to the alluring than the assuring.

STAMP MYSTERY PUZZLES POLICE

(By Associated Press)
VIENNA, March 26.—A "Blue Mauritius" stamp mystery has been turned over to the police for solution. The story goes that a group of men were discussing stamp collections in a coffee house in the industrial suburb of Welner Neustadt when this dream of the philatelist was mentioned.

A car painter in the crowd asked why it was so valuable and when told replied: "Why, I had an ancestor in Mauritius who wrote to the family regularly. We have bundles of his letters." He went to his house and when the envelopes were examined one of the rare stamps was found.

The local philatelic society pronounced it genuine, whereupon the finder's new friends got a motor car and took him from place to place to sell it.

He admits he does not remember just what happened, but when he finally refused an offer of several hundred thousand crowns his stamp was given back. He took it to experts who said it was a forgery. Stamp experts are assisting the police in uncovering the mystery.

The "Blue Mauritius" stamp is one of the world's philatelic prizes and commands a high price among stamp collectors throughout the world. One of the explanations of its rarity is the effect that almost the entire issue of blue stamps sent from Great Britain to Mauritius was lost in a storm.
