It is truthfully said that he never had an enemy in Bodie, and was loved by all its residents. He came to Tonopah in the early days and was employed for years as watchman at the Standard mine, now known as the Bonanza mine. Dick Noonan was an honest, upright, good citizen, whose mold of pioneer citizenship is fast ebbing away by death. He was 68 years of age, was born in Massachusetts, and was a mason by profession. Death was caused by arterio sclerosis. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Catholic church, with interment in the local cemetery.

RUSH TO OIL FIELDS OF FORT NORMAN STARTED

(By Associated Press) EDMONTON, Alta., July 11.—The rush to stake oil claims in the Fort Norman, northwest territories, fields has begun in earnest, and each day now sees the tide of fortune seekers sweeping northward from Edmonton, Fort McMurray, Peace River Crossing and other points. The marchers also include scores of experienced mineral prospectors bound for the sub-Arctic in quest of gold. Every own, hamlet, trading post and river is quivering with activity of men striving desperately to be the first into the Arctic with the breaking of the ice in the Great Slave lake. Not since the gold rush of 1897 to the Klondike and Alaskan gold fields has there been such an immense migration. But the odyssey of the Yukon is being rewritten in the present rush in terms of modern transportation. The oil seekers making their way north travel in modern sleeping cars to the end of the northern railways and thence in comfortable river steamers and motor launches. One Canadian oil company is sending its scouting parties into the territories in all-metal airplanes. The moment the traveler leaves the river highway, however, he is face to face with the still unexplored north. Portages must be negotiated with great hardships for those who are transporting heavy oil machinery. They get a taste of the once frightful "Edmonton trail" to Dawson city—the grimmest joke of the gold-seeking northland, where men died by the scores or went rav-

(By Associated Press) LONDON, July 11.—Eamonn De Valera will come to London on Thursday for a conference with Premier Lloyd George to discuss a basis for settlement of the Irish problem. It was officially announced today. The truce between the crown forces and the Irish Republican army became effective at noon today, but there was apprehension that the extremists on both sides of the bitter controversy in Erin would be hard to control. Yesterday's rioting in Belfast, when 15 were killed and at least 100 wounded, aroused grave fears over what might happen tomorrow, the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne. It appeared the conversations between De Valera and Premier Lloyd George would revolve around granting a dominion status to Ireland upon condition that the Sinn Fein demand for the establishment of an Irish republic be abandoned. In Londonderry, according to the terms of the truce, the police were summoned to the barracks to hand in their revolvers, subsequently resuming street duty unarmed. In Belfast, where disorders which were begun Sunday, were still continuing to a lesser degree this forenoon, the police still were retaining arms. Dublin Castle officials, who hitherto had been unable to walk the streets generally were going about this forenoon under normal conditions. As a consequence of the abolishment of the curfew, theatres, moving picture houses, street car companies and railways made arrangements that from tonight on they would resume normal hours. Confidence was everywhere expressed that the Republican forces would observe the truce order.
