WHISKERS ARE ADORNING MUGS SACRAMENTOANS

Days of Forty-Nine Will be Lived Over Again During Week of May 23-28.

(By Associated Press) SACRAMENTO, May 16.—Whiskers and the Days of '49 celebration the week of May 23-28 are chief topics of conversation in Sacramento. Since St. Patrick's Day, City Manager Clyde L. Seavey and the male portion of the city administration have been letting 'em grow, and dozens of prominent business men have been setting styles in boards for their employes to emulate.

The correct thing in whiskers, however, to personate the gold diggers of '49, is to shave the sides of the face, neck and under chin, allowing the mustache and chin whiskers to form a circular beard.

Some barbers left town in the first few weeks of whisker growing, but they have returned to trim beards.

While their husbands and fathers are growing facial plumage, the women of Sacramento are fashioning gowns into the style of frontier days.

Whiskers and gingham dresses will have honored places in the "Gold Rush" parade May 28, in which it is expected 30,000 persons and more than 200 floats will depict the "days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49."

Five Tonopah People to Face the Federal Court

The federal grand jury at Carson City has returned indictments against Nick Lovrich, Emil Foss, Peter Pristone and Florence Reese, charging them with violation of the Volstead act. Lovrich is proprietor of a light drink establishment on Main street, while Pristone conducts the Mergor buffet in the lower part of town. The Reese woman is alleged to have had a small bottle of moonshine in her apartments. At the preliminary hearing under the state law held in Tonopah recently, she was discharged, the prosecution failing to prove that the liquor belonged to her.

The grand jury also returned an indictment against Gee Fong, charging him with violating the Harrison narcotic law.

Alva Miller, Hawthorne Mining Man, Is Generous

Alva Miller, well known mining man of Hawthorne, and successful leaser on the Lucky Boy mine, motored to Tonopah yesterday. Mr. Miller's bigness of heart manifested itself when he presented to a number of his friends great big speckled blankets which he had snared in Walker Lake. The editor of the Bonanza was not forgotten and about the best treat we have enjoyed in a long time came through the generosity of Mr. Miller who presented us with the biggest catch which has been reported thus far this season.

FREIGHT RATES TO SO. NEVADA MUCH REDUCED

downward trend all classes of L. C. L. shipments many thousands in number and numerous commodity shipments, touching almost all those utilized in the general mining industry.

Mr. Forster submitted a table showing a few examples of how these new figures will benefit mining, as well as contribute in the shape of savings to the local consumer, which will furnish, no doubt, a more effective illustration than a word picture of the situation could possibly accomplish. Here is the table:

Table showing freight rates for various commodities like Acid, muriatic, Acid, sulphuric, Explosives, Fuse, Iron structural, Iron corrugated, Machinery, Oils, refined, etc.

"These," said Mr. Forster, "are carload commodities. All supplies in less than carload lots enjoy the benefit of the reduced class rates. Our less than carload shipments constitute quite a flattering proportion of our tonnage and every pound of package freight has received the benefit of this reduction and this reduction has more than wiped out the last increase of August 26, 1930, and leaves these figures at practically the pre-war status."

A comparison of the new rates with the old will undoubtedly prove of interest, and this is shown in another table as follows:

Table comparing Old and New freight rates per 100 lbs. for various commodities.

Referring to other rate reductions Mr. Forster said:

"In addition to the reductions already tabbed, effective September, 1931, livestock rates were reduced 20 per cent. This completely wiped out the former increase of 25 per cent. The rate on grain and grain products and hay were decreased 10 per cent and so were rates applying on products of the farm, garden and orchard, etc.

"It must be obvious that almost everything that enters into the mining and milling industry is enjoying the benefit of large reductions in both class and commodity rates. Explosives, fuse, machinery, cyanide, lead acetate, shoes and dies, and many other carload commodities and several thousand varieties of small lot shipments are now receiving the benefit of a reduced rate that means to this territory a saving of many, many thousands of dollars per year.

"The commercial interests of our towns have been correspondingly benefited. Merchandising of all classes now enjoys a reduction in transportation costs. We are all consumers, mining men, professional men, merchants, railroad men, the working class, the leisure class, all classes consumers. Our food, our clothing, our luxuries, even our recreations link directly and indirectly with the freight rates. Our present conditions, both local and national, are largely economic. The renewed stimulus afforded by rate reductions to almost prewar figures will, I believe, greatly assist in the return to normal conditions. It must not, however, be supposed that the transportation arm of commerce can alone accomplish this economic feat. The railroads have pioneered the trail. Other lines of commercial endeavor must now contribute their mite."

AMUSEMENTS

AGNES AYRES IN A THEATRICAL STORY

Now comes Agnes Ayres, lovely, accomplished and magnetic, as star in her own right in "The Lane That Had no Turning," which will be the attraction at the Butie today, written by Sir Gilbert Parkes. It brings to the screen a romantic and tense story of self-sacrifice on the part of a woman, who clings to her husband in spite of his deformity, and strived to spare him the humiliation of learning that he is not the rightful inheritor of the Seignory of Pantica, of which he is master. The machinations of a villain, the intervention of a real man—an Englishman—who is the rightful heir, and the final happy ending of a tangled series of events, all laid in picturesque scenes, combine to make this photodrama one that is of real merit. Miss Ayres is supported by an excellent cast.

STUDENTS REHEARSE FOR CLASS PLAY '22

"Nothing But the Truth" is the title of the class play to be presented by the students of the class of 1922, Tonopah High School, at the Butie theater on the night of May 26. This is a farcical comedy by James Montgomery and promises to furnish plenty of amusement in view of the fact that the members of the cast have been rehearsing for a week under the tutorage of Miss Weimer. The cast is as follows: Robert Bennett, young stock broker, Harry Anderson; E. M. Ralston, head of the firm, Donald Toland; Richard Donnelly, another young stock broker, William Ryan; Clarence Van Dusen, Jas. Wilson; Bishop Doran, Maute Esser; Gwendoline Ralston, E. M. Ralston's daughter, Florence Ryan; Mrs. E. M. Ralston, Gwendolyn McLeod; Ethel Clark, whose father is very influential, Evelyn Carlson; Mabel Jackson, Dorothy Conway; Isabel Jackson, Lois McLeod; Martha, a maid, Valentine Toland.

RUSSELL FORMAN TO RECOVER QUICKLY

Judge and Mrs. Forman returned last night from a hurried trip to Bishop, having been notified that their son, Russell, had suffered a broken leg while participating in the rodeo at that place. The young man had been riding a bucking mule, and after the animal had been subdued and had quit cutting up, the crowd called to young Forman to dismount. In doing so the mule kicked him on the left leg, fracturing two bones just above the ankle. A nurse happened to be present and rendered first aid treatment. The patient is getting along nicely, according to Judge Forman, and will be able to leave for Tonopah in a few days.
