ANOTHER of those pleasant sociables will be given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church on Friday evening. The place will be the residence of Mrs. Curry, and the company will consist of everybody who wishes to go.

DICK PADDOCK, one of the unfortunates in the shooting scrape in Virginia, was still alive yesterday, but his recovery is almost impossible. In addition to having a ball in his brain, and having his head fractured in two places, over two ounces of brain have escaped from the hole in the forehead, and yet some of his friends think that he may yet live.

A SERENADE was given to the editor and his family on the night before last by a quartette of musicians who will accept the hearty acknowledgments of the recipients of that pleasant attention.

CHURCH & JONES have discontinued their Saturday evening socials. Not because nobody came, but because they propose to devote that evening to a class for the instruction of ladies and gentlemen. Fifty cents will be required for the admittance of a lady, while double that amount will be necessary for a gentleman. It will be the place to learn the good dances, it will also be the place to have a good time. The music will be good, the instruction will be all that can be required.

In the aisle leading from the Assembly to the Senate Chamber Mr. Evans has started a fruit and cigar stand. He is worthy of patronage, is blind, and sells his articles at a price to suit the times. We doubt whether smoking is allowed with the members when the Legislature is in session, but then everybody can fill his pockets with cigars and puff and smoke afterwards to his heart's content.

Hans Dinkelspiel is one of the characters which Geo. Juddens will next week assume, and Johanna Gretchen-hazelnut is another by Nell. We have only written the names; no attempts have been made at pronunciation. We leave that to the learned. The entertainment will be just as chaste and amusing as the names are funny and long.

Through an inadvertence yesterday we omitted the name of Col. Moore of Elko as a member of the Assembly Committee on Counties and County Boundaries. By writing the above the correction is made.

The United States Circuit Court was in session yesterday, and consequently several lawyers from Virginia were present.

MARRIAGE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE U. S. SENATE.

From the Washington Republic of December 21. Last evening the much-talked-of marriage of George C. Gorham and Miss Ed. Bassett took place at the Fourth Presbyterian Church on Ninth street. The ceremony was announced to take place at 6 P.M., and long before that hour the church was filled with a fashionable audience, so great was the interest manifested in the event. Promptly at the hour named the bride and groom entered the church, and the ceremony was performed by the reverend and much-beloved pastor, Dr. John C. Smith, assisted by Joseph Kelly. The bride party entered the church by the right aisle, in accordance with the old custom of Dr. Smith's, to the glorious strains of WAGNER'S MARCH "TANNHAUSER," performed by Professor Walter, in the following order: The bride's mother, escorted by Isaac Bassett, followed by Joseph Tyssowski and wife, a sister of the bride, and her two children; Master Charles Bassett and Miss Sarah Belle Gorham, H. H. Gorham and Miss C. Gorham, a son and daughter of the groom; Master William and Paul Gorham, younger sons of the groom; Mrs. William L. Fairbrother, a cousin of the groom, with her interesting children; Miss Callie Jones, a California guest of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Hills and daughter, and Miss Lizzie Currier, the ushers, John Young, and Howard French, Jacob Moore and Ed. Goodrich; the groomsmen and bridesmaids, Hon. Thomas W. Ferry, Vice-President of the Senate, with Miss Aurelia F. Bassett, a sister of the bride, and John W. Flagg, Legislative Clerk of the Senate, with Miss Christina Callan; and, last, the bride and groom.

THE GROOM.

George C. Gorham, well known as the popular and affable Secretary of the United States Senate, is a native of Connecticut, but emigrated to the Golden State a number of years ago, where he held several important positions. In 1867 he was nominated for Governor of the Republic, but failed in the election. In 1868 he came East to attend the National Convention and spent the winter in Washington. He was at the time appointed to his present position, at the instance of the entire delegation from the Pacific coast. How acceptably he has filled it for the past eight years the ushers, John Young, and Howard French, Jacob Moore and Ed. Goodrich; the groomsmen and bridesmaids, Hon. Thomas W. Ferry, Vice-President of the Senate, with Miss Aurelia F. Bassett, a sister of the bride, and John W. Flagg, Legislative Clerk of the Senate, with Miss Christina Callan; and, last, the bride and groom.

A LADY OF MANY ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Who by her grace of manner and amiable disposition has endeavored herself to many of our oldest and best families. The toilets displayed on the occasion were exceedingly rich and tasteful. The bride wore a superb cream-white silk, cut with Empress train and tight-fitting corset bodice, trimmed with gold and silver fringe, bustion and spray of orange blossoms. The veil was held in place by a magnificent wreath of the same material. A pair of solitaires, one of the presents, sparkled in her ears. The bridesmaids wore dresses similar to that of the bride—white silk trimmed with tulle and garnished with flowers, a peculiar arrangement of which made it appear that the leaves were falling. Among

OTHER NOTICEABLE TOILETS

Were those of Miss Mary Gorham, who wore a "silk" blue silk, cut "en train" and trimmed with tulle and tulle; Mrs. Tyssowski, in rich apricot silk, trimmed with lace; Miss Sarah Belle, the "polly" daughter of the groom, who looked "like a queen" in white muslin, with pink insertion and pink sash and hair ribbons. As soon as the party had reached the altar, two of the attendants carried the satin ribbons from the door along the entire length of the aisle, which effectually prevented the usual rush upon the conclusion of the ceremony. The floral tribute and decorations were exceedingly fine, the pastor's desk resembling an oasis in the wilderness of rare exotics, and the cluster of jets on either side were tastefully entwined with Boston smilax. Upon the table by his side was a magnificent pyramid of flowers, with four branches and a superb centerpiece, a marvel of the florist's art. Each member of the bridal party carried a bouquet. After the ceremony a brilliant reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 929 New York avenue, a few intimate friends, among whom were Senator Stewart, Judge Field and Ex-Governor Shepherd, together with the bridal party, being the only guests. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers and vines, and upon the several tables were displayed the wedding presents. A sumptuous collation was discussed, after which the happy couple departed, loaded with congratulations, to their new home at No. 29 New York, York, Boston and New London, Connecticut, the old home of the groom. They will return about the 8th of January, when a regular reception will be held, but they will be at home to their many friends at No. 29 New York avenue. As our lady readers are always interested in

BRIDAL PRESENTS.

A description of a few of them is presented. The California friends of Mr. Gorham sent a large package containing the following: First, a highly-polished cabinet, six feet long and about the same width and depth, made of laurel and other woods native to that country, and lined with pink and blue satin, and ornamented with silver. Its contents consisted of the following gold-lined articles: Soup ladle, cream ladle, pie knife, berry spoon and a dozen small spoons. Also, the following massive silver pieces: Pickle knife and fork, one dozen table spoons, one dozen dessert spoons, one dozen tea spoons, two dozen forks and two dozen ivory-handled silver-plated knives. The case and contents are estimated to be worth about $800. Second, a Turkey morocco case, two feet long, containing ivory-handled dinner and breakfast carving knife and fork, steel, corkscrews and champagne cutter. Third, an elegant set of the purest solitaire diamond earrings and a center, in handsome case, valued at $1500. Among the other presents were a large and superb black and white side ornaments, trimmed with oxidized silver, from ex-Senator Stewart; a plate glass jewel case, with gold and silver base, from Senator Ferry; a very exquisite silver bronzed greyhound, from Mr. Flagg; a black onyx and gold neck-chain, from Miss Mary Gorham; a handsome tortoise shell opera glass, from a son of the groom; a silver and crystal card receiver, from William Galt; a silver toilet stand, with cut-glass bottle, from several lady friends; a cylindrical silver jewel case, with satin lining, from William L. Fairbrother; a handsome Russia leather and cut-glass glove and handkerchief box, from Mr. and Mrs. William L. Drury; silver card cases, from Mrs. E. A. Hills and Mrs. Henry R. Mitchell; a costly lace handkerchief and a beautiful bouquet, from Senator Edmunds; group of three large, magnificent bronzes, from the clerks in the office of the Secretary of the Senate; a large gold watch, from the Secretary of the United States, friends of Mr. George C. Gorham, Secretary of the Senate. This is a present from the Senators irrespective of party, and is the most complimentary of the kind ever paid to a bride by the Senate of the United States. It is also a marked recognition of the valuable services rendered by the distinguished Secretary of the Senate, which have won for him the respect and esteem of that body. The presents from the groom were very elegant and heavy gold bracelets and a handsome fan. The simple and elegant bridal trousseau was the gift of the bride's mother. The bridal bouquet and other floral ornaments were presented by General Babcock.
