SHERIFF HILL'S ACCOUNTS.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FIND THEM TWO THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS SHORT - THE BONDSMEN LOOKING FOR THEIR MAN - THE REFORMER CITED BUT CANNOT BE SEEN

During the past few days ugly rumors have been afloat regarding Lloyd Hill, the Sheriff of Ormsby County, and even since the beginning of the month it has been whispered that his accounts were short several thousand dollars.

FAILS TO CASH UP. On last Tuesday, the 6th of the month, at a meeting of the County Commissioners, he was called upon to settle with the County and City for the licenses collected by him for the quarter ending June 30th. He came before the Board and answered that he would be obliged to ask for a few days time as some of the money had not been paid over. He was then given until two o'clock to make good his account and at the hour designated failed to appear.

THE BOOKS EXAMINED. The Commissioner then ordered an examination of the books and for the past two days they have been undergoing a thorough over-look. According to the figures of Milton Elstner, his deputy, there is now due the County by the Sheriff, the sum of $2,300; this amount was due on the 30th of June.

THE SHERIFF CITED. As soon as this fact was ascertained the Commissioners, in accordance with the law in such cases, cited Hill to appear before them at ten o'clock this morning. If he does not make his appearance at that hour the Commissioners will proceed to collect from his bondsmen, declare the office vacant and appoint a sheriff for the unexpired term.

MILL'S WHEREABOUTS. It was extensively rumored yesterday that he was in Virginia City endeavoring to raise money and make good his account. His friends insisted that he would be down on the evening train, but he failed to appear and his bondsmen, some of whom had been in Virginia City looking for him, state that no trace could be found upon the Comstock. His appearance this morning at the hour appointed is still a matter of conjecture, but it appears to be the general impression that he will not be on hand.

HIS BONDSMEN. On Tuesday G. V. Adams, one of his bondsmen, asked to be released from the bond, but his request was not granted, as it came too late. Other bondsmen also attempted to get out but were too late. His bonds covered $20,000 and the names are perfectly good. John Rosser went off his bonds some months ago. For some time past there have been whispers of rottenness in the Sheriff's office in spite of the fact that one Grand Jury pronounced it all right and the last Grand Jury declined to investigate it on the ground that those who deemed an investigation necessary were actuated by political motives.

HOW HE CAME TO BE ELECTED. In the Fall election of 1878 a split occurred in the Republican party of this county, and the sore headed Republican formed a combination with the Democrats for the purpose of reform. Lloyd Hill, who was at that time doing a retail butchering business opposite the Mint, was selected as the reform candidate for Sheriff, and, unfortunately for himself, was elected. He entered the office on the first of January, 1879.

MANGLED BY A DOG. - Yesterday morning officers Duncan and Hawthorne took charge of a savage dog belonging to Mr. Grundy who lives in Bill Gibson's house near the railroad track, and leading it beyond the city limits sent a couple of bullets through its head. The reason of this was that a few weeks ago the dog, which is a cross between a bull dog and a blood hound, chased a woman along the railroad track and tore her clothes half off her. The police warned the owner of the savage animal to kill him. He paid no attention to them and on Sunday last the brute set upon Mrs. Adams, the old lady who owns a block of land east of Judge Hawley's residence. She is about 80 years of age and so feeble that when attacked was utterly unable to defend herself. The dog threw her down, tore off her clothes and fixing his fangs in her left thigh tore the flesh and tendons so that the blood flowed profusely. He also mangled the calf of her leg, and had not a passer-by driven off the dog with a club she would doubtless have been killed. Her injuries are so severe that she is still confined to her bed. Yesterday afternoon Grundy meeting the officers on the street opened upon them with a tirade of abuse, and now an effort will be made to bring him before the courts for the assaults made by his dog. The probabilities are, however, that such a prosecution would fail, as there is no law reaching the case.

A RIFLEMAN HEARD FROM.

EDITOR APPEAL. - I noticed in yesterday's APPEAL a comparison between the wonderful shooting at Dollymount, and the work done at the short range targets here. The New York Herald gives an account of the off hand shooting at the 200 yard targets at Dollymount the day before the big match. Many of the scores were under forty, which is not as well as we frequently do at Treadway's. Now the difference is this, at the short ranges we shoot off hand, and at the long ranges the riflemen are allowed to make any kind of a rest they please out of their bodies, which is a very material assistance. Yours, A CARSON RIFLEMAN.

A CHINAMAN'S DISPATCH. - A couple of Chinamen called at the Western Union telegraph office yesterday, and one remarked to Farrell.

"Me likee cletchum di patch." "What's your name?" "Ah Wong." "No dispatch." "Me likee send dispatch to Wah Kie." "All right." "You fix um."

Farrell got a blank ready, poised his lead pencil and waited for instructions. "You tell Wah Kie send me four dollar hap belly quick. Tell him Hop Wing steal him sister. Ping Wing cut Ah Yum two times belly bad. You sabe Ah Yum live Sutro and Silver City, heep good man." "Want this all down?" "You bet, puttum down, tellum Kie me buy out Hop Wee wash house fifty dollar like 'em come up and work, you sabe! How much?" "To San Francisco, all this will be four dollars."

"Oh gulong! Me no sabe four dollar. Me send dispatch one day hap dollar. Me want hap dollar dispatch." After some labor, Farrell condensed what he could into ten words, and read it.

"New give me his full address, where he live, what street?" "Me no sabe where he lib. One time our year ago he lib in Glass Volly, Sometime he go Wallsho, guess now work on railroad somewhere. When he catch'em dispatch make 'em pay;" and the spokesman and his companion snatched out leaving Farrell hunting for a six shooter. The fact of the weapon being mislaid saved a homicide.

A NOVEL WARFARE. - Night before last two cyprians of Carson who lived about half a block apart got into a squabble and one called at the other's house for the purpose of thrashing her. When she reached the door it was slammed in her face and while she was challenging the other to come out and fight, she heard a sizzling noise at the window and a ball from a Roman candle whizzed past her head. This caused her to effect a hasty retreat through the front gate, and as she did so flaming shots from the novel weapon passed by her. She escaped without injury and going down town purchased half a dozen Roman candles and returning to her enemy's house began a lively bombardment. After two shots had passed through the window an officer came up and endeavored to arrest her. She immediately turned the candles on the policeman and chased him down the street, lighting a new candle as fast as one burned out. One of the shots burned the officer's coat and the way in which he dodged the flying fire balls was a source of intense gratification to the spectators. After her ammunition was exhausted he returned and the woman struck her colors. The house she had bombarded caught on fire from one of the shells, but the flames were extinguished by a dipper of water. The woman was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning and gave bail for her appearance at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SPOILED HIS FUN. - The other evening while Sherry Corbyn's theatrical combination were playing at the theater a man who was a perfect stranger to Corbyn came in and sauntered through the door as if he owned the show.

"Ticket sir." "Oh, that's all right." When the man took his seat Corbyn followed him up and tapped him on the shoulder and remarked: "I hope sir that you will not condescend to sit in the body of the theater. I had been expecting you and had a private box reserved; that one on the right. I'll have the usher take you right up. Come round to-morrow night and bring your family." The man looked a little puzzled, and pulling out a dollar, proffered it to the manager who in the most polite manner possible refused it. "He can see the show for nothing if he wants to," said Sherry, "but I'll bet I've spoiled his evening." He evidently had, for in a few minutes the man rose and sneaked out.

THE NARROW GAUGE. - Work on the narrow gauge is now fully resumed and about 200 white men are employed at this end of the line. Mr. Yerington informs us that most of the strikers have returned and so far none who asked to be reinstated have been refused.
