

GOOD ADVISORS NEEDED

With the multiplicity of candidates pressing their claims for recognition, and the generally mixed aspect of politics this year, the need of the best political advisors for the Republican party becomes more and more apparent.

A FALSE IMPRESSION.

The Chronicle has in some way been misled into the idea that the ticket elected at the Republican primary was put in the field by the V. & T. R. P.

The Reno Gazette of Saturday innocently remarks:

The Republicans of Carson are voting for the following-named gentlemen for delegates to the State Convention today:

The Gazette should read the APPEAL to keep posted on political affairs. This ticket was put up without authority and received nothing except the vigorous protest of the men whose names were so unwarrantably used.

We are indebted to the editor of the Police Gazette for a handsome engraving of Tug Wilson, the eminent British pugilist.

The inventor of the ticket which succeeded in securing one vote at the primaries, says that the adherents of the club ticket lacked "gumption."

How Cassidy must have laughed in his sleeve when he made the following statement in Congress:

And now, Mr. Speaker, there is a fair and logical deduction to be drawn from this recital of historical facts. Seven out of the eight Senatorial elections were uncontested, while the eighth was between poor men, unable to corrupt any one, if disposed to do so, which I decline to believe.
