AN ELOPING WEST POINTER.

He Holds a Friend of his Wife and Money—The Guilty Pair Tracked to this City and Roughly Handled.

Several months ago Eugene Sagebeer, who had for quite a while been employed at the railroad freight house in this city, was sent to the front by the Carson & Colorado Railroad Company. For some reason he lost his situation, and on the 11th of last June he was engaged by the Garfield Mining Company at Garfield District, as a miner. The foreman of the company, John McGinley, took a fancy to Sagebeer, and invited him to visit his family. Mr. McGinley's wife, a very attractive woman, soon learned to more than like her husband's guest, and her sentiments were ardently reciprocated by him. In the early part of last week Mrs. McGinley, her four-year-old daughter, a most charming child, and Sagebeer turned up missing, as did also Mr. McGinley's purse and six-shooter. The husband soon realized that he had been nursing a viper in the person of the festive Eugene, and at once set out in search of the fugitives, tracing them to this city. He arrived here on the southern express train Saturday night, and with the aid of an old friend searched nearly every hotel and lodging house in Carson without success, however. About 6 o'clock on Sunday morning he was told that parties answering the description of the runaway couple were stopping at a lodging house, two blocks in the rear of the Mint, and he to no time in following up the clue. Before 7 o'clock he rapped at a bedroom door in that lodging, which was supposed to contain his erring wife and her paramour. Not receiving a reply after rapping twice, he placed his shoulder to the door and violently effected an entrance to the room. With one glance he took in the whole disgraceful situation; his wife and her paramour were lying in bed locked in each other's embrace, and by the side of the shameless pair was the little girl. The child at once cried "Oh, there's my papa," and the woman and Sagebeer simultaneously cried out, "Oh! don't hurt us. Oh! don't hurt us." With one bound Mr. McGinley was at the side of the bed and began to beat the Lothario with all his might and main. The woman took sides with her "lover" and struck at her injured husband several times, until he found it absolutely necessary to quiet her in a forcible manner. Beside the bed was a table upon which was lying the stolen pistol, and Mr. McGinley stated to the APPEAL reporter that the only thing that prevented him from using it against the guilty pair was the thought of his little child. After settling with the man and woman in anything but a delicate manner, he compelled them to refund what they had remaining of the stolen money, took his child and left them to their own reflections and fond society. Eugene Sagebeer is about 22 years old, and claims to have been a cadet at West Point at the time that Whittaker's (the colored cadet) ears were trimmed, and boasts that he had a hand in the trimming himself. The woman is about 32 years old, having been married to Mr. McGinley seven years. Mr. McGinley's motive for tracing the shameless pair was to get possession of his child, and as he has attained that end he is satisfied.

Church Social.

A Methodist Church social will be given at the residence of Mrs. George Gillson this evening. For the refreshment of these inner man the will be ice cream and cake, coffee and sandwiches, cream and peaches; in the way of intellectual treats, there will be songs, recitations and instrumental music. An invitation is extended to all to be present.

A Fact Not Generally Known.

It is a fact not generally known that the Washoe and Piute Indians always kill one of a pair of twins a day or two after birth. A Washoe Indian stated to the APPEAL reporter that a short time after the birth of twins the weaker one is put to death because the surviving one will inherit all the physical strength of the slain one, besides his own.

Common sense.—Have all men common sense? No. Those that pay $100 for a breech-loading gun, and $40 for a muzzle-loader, that they can purchase for one third the price at Uncle Harris', have very little sense.

The Only Conclusion.

Last night one of Jewett Adams' friends was loudly blowing his foghorn for his man and making all sorts of wild predictions. "I defy any man to say a word against Jewett Adams," yelled the fellow. "No one can say a word against his record."

Just here a mild-mannered man stepped up to the excited individual and said: "Ah, yes, my friend; probably you are right. Nothing can be said against your man, but what can be said for him?"

"Well, ah—sir—by George!" said the Adams man. "Ah—well—ahem—that is—well—well—oh, none of your damn business."

"That's just what I thought," said the second man, and the rowd that was standing around yelled in derision over the discomfiture of the Adamsite.

On the side, the Adams man afterward remarked that he had heard that Jewett was a pretty good poker player, but he he hanged if he could remember anything else favorable to him that he had heard of.—Footlight.

Vanity Fair and Golden Era.

Harr Wagner, one of the proprietors of the new consolidated Vanity Fair and Golden Era, is in the city gathering data for a Nevada edition of the publication, to be issued about October 1st. It will be a magazine of twenty-four pages replete with information regarding the towns of the State and handsomely illustrated with wood engravings. The edition will number 5,000 and be distributed gratuitously as specimen copies. A sample copy lies before us. It is printed on tinted paper with columns the width of the Argonaut, and its appearance typographically ranks with the best Eastern publications.

Cleared Out.

On Sunday evening Eugene Sagebeer and his mistress, Mrs. McGinley, cleared out of town, having gained enough unenviable notoriety during their short stay here. They headed for Reno. Eugene left early in the afternoon, fearing another visit from the man he had so grossly betrayed, and the woman took the regular express train.

PURE FRESH MILK

CAN BE BOUGHT OF

F. Ambrosetti,

DELIVERED MORNING AND EVENING.

THOSE WITH YOUNG CHILDREN, and delicate persons using milk diet, will do well to order one cow's milk of me. The cows are all healthy, and have clear water and soiled meadows upon which to feed. I do not feed my cows on manure or slaps. I do not live in the neighborhood where the sewage water of the city goes. I do not sell my customers poor milk. My dairy premises are west from Carson, where the pure mountain water and upland grass combine in the honest production of nature's most nourishing beverage. If Carson people can safely call on me for the pure article of milk at prices to suit the times, I will be glad to do so. My residence is at the corner of 1st and 2nd Sts. Jy17
