

Hard, Cold Truths.

Arthur McEwen, in the Stockton Herald, plants some terrible body blows on Senator Fair. It is seldom that so much cold realism is printed at the expense of a millionaire or that it is put in such a small space. Speaking of Fair, the Herald says:

It is as natural for such a man to dive into sensualism as it is for a duck to take to water. He has trained his mind in only one direction—to money-gathering—and it is too firmly bent that way to be turned to any other. He has only his body left, and he spends his money to gratify that. The grossness of the gratification depends only on the strength of the body.

If Senator Fair had been educated—if he had understood during his youth and in the vigor of his manhood that there are other things in the world worth having besides money, he would not now be on the pillory where his fleshly sins and his wife's outraged feelings have placed him. If he had seen that money is a means and not an end he would have had the capacity for many clean enjoyments which are now denied him. Like his class, he has made himself blind and dull. His millions have revenged themselves upon him.

Whether money makes a man happy or miserable depends altogether upon the man. The man who is master of his money is happy. The man whose money masters him is miserable. It is a pleasant thing to possess money. It is the very devil to be possessed by money. The world is wide—much wider than the circumference of a twenty-dollar piece. This is a fact that Senator Fair forgot—and it is a fact that those suffering from the money disease always forget. The disease ends in the death of mind, taste and heart.

A Foolish Endeavor.

We have a sincere pity for the mistaken ambition which prompts George Hearst to make the running of a newspaper the stepping stone to the position of a United States Senator. So far Mr. Hearst has done nothing in the newspaper profession which entitles him to political honors. He has run a uniformly poor paper, because he had nothing but money to run it with. If he makes a failure of the Examiner the party will naturally assume that he is also unfit for Senatorial honors, while on the other hand, if he succeeds in establishing a first-class daily in San Francisco this success will so cover him with honor that he will not need the vulgar bauble of a Senatorship. Let him bear in mind that to run a leading newspaper gives a man a prestige to which political honors can add nothing. A man can climb to the highest political eminence through the tricks of corrupt primaries and conventions, but no man can establish a newspaper in a large city without hard work, brains and application. An editor should never aspire to be a Senator when he reflects how easy he can gather the crudest material and make one to order. The creator is always greater than the product of creation.

Friends of the Jackass.

For several years past the APPEAL has been championing the cause of the jackass, and since Minister Daggett removed himself to the Sandwich Islands this journal has been obliged to conduct the defense alone. It gives us more than ordinary pleasure to know that a power has risen up in London who is also friendly to the animal:

The much abused jackass, which is popularly supposed to be too lazy to work, and too tough to eat, is appearing in a better light. "I sympathize," says Mr. Labouchere, in London Truth, "with the Birmingham butcher who has been condemned to one month's imprisonment for selling donkey as human food, because donkey is infinitely better eating than either beef or mutton; indeed, I do not know any meat which is better. This was soon perceived by the French during the siege of Paris that donkey meat was about five times the price of horse meat. At Voisin's there was almost every day a joint of cold donkey for breakfast, and it was greatly preferred to anything else. Let anyone who doubts the excellence of cold donkey slay one of those weak-minded animals, cook and eat him."

DUNN, THE MURDERER OF ELLIOTT, ACQUITTED.

EXCITEMENT IN IRELAND OVER THE PAPAL BULL.

TWO SOUTHERN EDITORS DRIFTING INTO A DUEL.

A WIFE MURDERER HUNG.

A Bad Verdict.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The jury in the case of Dunn, charged with the murder of Elliott, the pugilist, in Chicago, returned a verdict of "not guilty," after being out since 4 o'clock this afternoon. The prisoner was discharged immediately. The result was received with loud cheering by the crowd assembled in the street.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The verdict reached in the trial of Jere Dunn provokes savage comment in all the city papers this morning, and the alleged agencies which aided in his acquittal are particularly condemned by two or three of the morning journals. They all give long accounts of the reception tendered to Dunn by the sporting fraternity after he quitted the court room, champagne being given him at a resort known as "The Drum," where the festivities lasted very nearly through the entire night. Among those who grasped the hand of Dunn was a character known as "Stockyards Johnnie," and Dunn, resenting his overtures, struck the man in the face. The incident is said to have put the crowd in high spirits. The leading counsel who had defended Dunn so successfully was noted among those present at a fine supper.

Hung.

LEXINGTON, May 18.—J. C. Jones, the wife murderer, was hanged to-day in the presence of a great crowd of people, many coming a distance of sixty miles. Jones attempted to commit suicide yesterday by opening the veins of his arm, and was only discovered when he had lost a gallon of blood. This morning, becoming stronger, the Governor telegraphed the Sheriff to proceed with the execution. Jones asserted that the only reason why he killed his wife was because he loved her. The feeling against him was very bitter. It was thought he would be lynched if not executed by law. The gallows were erected in a field about a mile from the Court-house. Jones was taken from the jail and escorted by the guards to the gallows. The prisoner went to the gallows with great coolness, talking with the reporters all the way from the jail. At the scaffold he explained that he thought it no crime to take his own life in order to prevent death on the scaffold. After prayer by the Rev. Mr. Gibson, the black cap was drawn over his face. The drop fell at 2:30 o'clock. His neck was broken.

The Code.

MEMPHIS, May 19.—During the past three days quite a newspaper war has been conducted between General James D. Chalmers, of Mississippi, and Colonel M. C. Galloway, senior editor of the Memphis Appeal. Each has denounced the other in unmeasured terms, but so far no duel is imminent. The friends of Colonel Galloway say that as he gave the first offence by denouncing Chalmers, the challenge, if any, should come from the latter. On the other hand, Chalmers's letters and telegram, which are published in the Avalanche, indicate that he is of opinion that Colonel Galloway should be the challenging party. General Chalmers is now at Batesville, Mississippi, engaged in law cases, but says he will be in Memphis next week.

BOSTON, May 19.—Lydia Pinkham, of proprietary medicine fame, died yesterday in Lynn, aged 64. She spent $18,000 a year in advertising.

WILMINGTON, D. I., May 19.—Three negroes were whipped at New Castle jail to-day for petty thieving.

St. Louis, May 18.—Dr. Thomas O'Reilly, Chairman of the Executive Council of the various Irish National Leagues in this city, telegraphed the Freeman's Journal, Dublin, to-night as follows: "Catholics here generally condemn the Papal circular as an unjustifiable interference on the part of Rome with Irish politics."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 19.—The Democratic Convention yesterday re-nominated P. W. Hardin for Attorney General and nominated J. C. Crawford Register of the Land Office and adjourned sine die.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Rich Diggings.

GUAYMAS, May 18.—The schooner Rambler, which arrived here from Muleje, brings news that the reported placer discovery in Lower California is confirmed. Manuel Gralbe came over direct from the mines, and brings some six pounds of coarse gold, among which is a gold nugget weighing sixteen ounces. The major part of the gold resembles that found at Mormon Gulch, in California. Being interviewed, Mr. G. said that the mines, so far as prospect, were about five miles wide by about twenty in length, and situated in a valley of the mountains some 200 miles from Muleje. There were only a few natives at the mines when he left, but there is quite a crowd on the way there. Mr. G. has located a gold quartz mine near the seat of the placers, and only came over to get supplies and tools for the working of his claim. The mines are only some four or five miles from Angel Guardia Bay, opposite to Baren Island, where there is a good harbor. There is plenty of water, wood etc. A large party starts from here on the Rambler, which leaves on Friday and takes all the passengers she can carry.

LATER.—Mr. Garcia also came over on the Rambler, and brings about seven pounds of coarse gold. The town of Guaymas is alive with miners anxious to reach the other side. Another schooner has been laid on, and will sail by the end of the week.

GUAYMAS, May 19.—The schooner Rambler left at 5:10 yesterday for Muleje, with freight and all the passengers she could carry, bound for the new gold fields. A great many miners are in town waiting for a chance to sail to the same place. A company in Guaymas has been organized under the name of the Sonora Mining Company. Two of them left on the Rambler. The gold already exhibited assayed twenty three carats, instead of seventeen and a half, as previously reported. The citizens have unbounded confidence in the reports from Lower California, and some business men have closed their stores and departed for the gold fields. Vessels will sail between Guaymas and Muleje frequently, and as Guaymas is the most direct route for the mining district, all available vehicles will doubtless be brought to this port for equipment.

A special from Hermosillo, Mexico, says: The news of the rich gold discovery near Muleje reached here last night, and the city is wild with excitement. Two or three companies will be formed here. The men will go on a schooner that sails from Guaymas on Saturday.

DUBLIN, May 19.—James Carey, the informer, was to-day released from custody. Carey declares that he intends to remain in Dublin, and further, that he will vigorously prosecute the tenants occupying his premises who have refused to pay rent; since he became an informer. Ever since Carey turned informer his house has been guarded by policemen, and on his liberation to-day the guard was doubled.

DUBLIN, May 19.—The Crown proposes to distribute the reward offered for the detection of the Phoenix Park murderers among the informers. It will also send abroad forthwith all informers who desire to leave the country.

ROME, May 18.—The Pope, on hearing of the meetings in Dublin in which his recent action was condemned, sent for Cardinals Jacobini and Simoni and insisted that his letter to the Irish Bishops be strictly obeyed.

LONDON, May 19.—The excitement in Ireland over the Pope's circular to the clergy is unabated and finds expression in all quarters.
