ALL SORTS.

Sweeny has repainted his saloon.
Sam Jones is sick in San Francisco.
John Mack's brother in Seattle is improving.
Assessor Kersey returned from below yesterday morning.
There will be some good trotting at Sweeny's race track today.
Another rate war is on the tapis between the Overland roads.
Room to rent within one block of the Capitol. Inquire at this office.
The Street crossings are being repaired along the Main street. A good idea.
The stock market is still in the dumps. The $200 limit seemed to hit the mud hens hard.
Mrs. Murphy was shot and killed by her brother Michael Flanagan, in Gold Hill yesterday.
While the boodle press is shouting "Home Rule and reimbursement" it is fighting home industry tooth and toe-nail.
Dollars to dumplings that none of the brokers who have swindled their customers in the late deal, will ever go to State's Prison.
American women get less than eight cents apiece for making white shirts, but the heathen Chinese gets ten cents apiece for washing them.
The managers of a theatre in Vienna have prohibited the audience from passing flowers over the footlights to the performers. This will be a great benefit to the prima donnas who often have to spend $50 a week for flowers which the supes throw on the stage.
No other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the best combination of vegetable blood purifiers, with the Iodide of Potassium and Iron ever offered to the public.
A clear head is indicative of good health and regular habits. When the body feels heavy and languid, and the mind works sluggishly, Ayer's Cathartic Pills will wonderfully assist to a recovery of physical buoyancy and mental vigor. The constipated should use them.
The Mugwump does not flourish extensively in the West. There is not enough of him to offset the large majorities one way or the other. Occasionally he gets in a vicious blow at candidates for Congress, but his work is not of a generally dangerous or effective nature. The East is his home, and along the northern Atlantic shore he plies his political vocation, singing merrily as he toils.—Examiner.
The Women's Christian Temperance Union which grew so bold under the cold tea regime of Mrs. Hayes have taken Mrs. Cleveland to task for using wine at her table at the White House. The W. C. T. U. of Washington should be made to realize that the invasion of a private house and interference with dining room regulations, passes beyond the ordinary bonds of bad-breeding and amounts to a piece of vulgar impertinence.
Chapter Election.
Friday evening Lewis Chapter No. 1, R. A. M., elected the following named gentlemen; officers for the ensuing year: C. N. Noteware, H. P.; M. A. Murphy, K; D. G. Kitzmeyer, S.; J. Klein, Treasurer; Geo. W. Richard, Secretary. The installation of the officers, in connection with the officers of the "Blue Lodge," also the elected officers of the "Eastern Star" Lodge, will take place on the evening of December 27th., at Masonic Hall.

The Auction Sale.
Mr. Stewart opened his auction sale yesterday afternoon in the building adjoining Fox's and there was a large crowd on hand. The women and children were more that delighted, an immense amount of "holiday truck" was sacrificed. The prices realized were in some instances below cost, but Mr Stewart hopes to realize more on Monday when there will be more excitement.

LESS THAN AUCTION PRICES
We offer our stock of toys at prices less than those prevailing at the Auction sale. Satisfy yourselves by inspecting goods first class and plainly worked.

CASSIDY BOUNCED.

He Loses His Place in the Washoe Minstrels.

The other day when George Cassidy, tenor of the Washoe Minstrels passed to Virginia City, he chatted a few minutes with the announcement reporter of the APPEAL. When asked how the Minstrels were getting on he said he had severed his connection with the troupe under very aggravating circumstances. He considered himself booked for the tour and had practiced the "Home Rule Chorus" until his chest was sore, and a few days ago he received a note from Pawning, the manager, that his services were no longer required. He said that he believed that Tom Wren of Eureka was to double up his parts for a slight advance of salary. He felt very sore that Wren should rat him out of a position just as the hard Winter was coming on. He sent to Pawning for his back salary and was referred to Fair who declined to pay a cent. He shall sue for salvage, expenses, back salary and breach of contract. Col. Stone is engaged as his attorney. He predicts the early disintegration of the troupe unless more singers are imported for the cast. Tom Wren as a basso he characterizes as a lamentable failure, who is ignorant of the first principles of vocal harmony and only fit for some cheap concert hall. He says the sagebrush opera is played out this year and has a decidedly black eye.

Do Grade Holsteins Pay.
The following is clipped from the Field and Farm:
A few months since I visited a dairyman in New York who has for years kept good common cows. Four year ago he bought a fine pure-bred Holstein bull and crossed upon his cows. Last year his two year old heifers gave double the quantity of milk his common cows did. Or, in other words he received 8,000 pounds of milk instead of 4,000, which at a cent a pound, at first glance, would seem to be just double, $80 to $40. But see a moment. Times were hard and feed high, and it cost $40 each to keep the common cows and $30 each to keep the grade Holsteins, which left a profit of four times as much for the Holsteins. He also sold his three-fourths grade Holstein calves for $30 each, when common calves were worth only $5 each. Here is another four-fold profit. I saw a pair of grade Holstein steers at the breeding farm of F. C. Stevens Esq., Attica, N. Y. which at twenty-six months old weighed 3,565 pounds. I believe they are to be exhibited at the Chicago Fat Stock Show. I have a yearling bull (one year old last March) that weighed 1,200 pounds, also a two-year old heifer that weighs 1,400 pounds. They are thoroughbreds, and only a little heavier than other members of the herd, and hence I think the claim just that the Holstein is the coming cow,—ahead of all others for milk, butter, cheese, and crowding the beef breeds closely for their honors. In other words, every farmer or company of farmers, who have ten or more cows, can afford to buy a pure blood bull calf this Fall, and pay $150 to $250, to use next Spring, and make money from the first year, and increase by exchanging the bull every year thereafter.

The Bowers Mansion.
William Thompson has advertised for proposals for tearing down and taking to Reno the Bowers' mansion in Washoe Valley, to be erected in a business block. The mansion was built by Sandy Bowers in the palmy days of the Comstock when he did not know what to do with his money. Architects were brought from New York to draft the design superintend the construction of building. Money was no object with Bowers. He wanted to build the finest mansion in the State, and he spent about half a million dollars on the structure. An attempt was made at one time to dispose of it to the State for a lunatic asylum but the Legislature refused to make an appropriation for the purpose. The history of the building and its owner would make an interesting chapter, showing the vicissitudes of fortune in Nevada.

Governor-elect, C. C. Stevenson expects to move into his new residence about the 24th. He is having gas fixtures put in throughout the house.

The Preachers and the Ballet.

A theater in Chicago invited the divines of the city to attend a performance of the ballet that they might judge for themselves that it was not so wicked as painted. With its usual enterprise, the APPEAL telegraphed to Chicago to secure the opinions of the clergymen after they had seen the performance. The Rev. Dr. responded with the following beautiful little poem, only requesting that his name be withheld from publication:

I saw their pictures on the wall;
What strange, new-fangled sights,
Almost like Eve before the fall,
In pink and spangled tights.

The men who manage such a show
Must have unbounded cash.
But how can Christian people go
To such confounded trash?

I've seen some swell society,
In its prodigious swims,
But I never shock my piety
With irreligious limbs,

For any human being,
With half an inkling knows
That there's no good in seeing
A woman's twinkling toes.

But still there was no empty chair
Where the powdered beauties squall,
For all the ministers were there
In response to duty's call.

What twirls of sweetly fitting toes,
The girls in neatly fitting hose,
That half-lad maiden that you see,
(From Bagdad, Baden and Pares,)
With her salary immense

The gallery contents
And catches the applause
From ministerial paws,
With strong, terrific strides,
And long, saraphic glides.

There was patterling of kids,
In fashionable encore,
And a chattering of Bids,
Who were seated near the door.

'Tis useless to deny,
What everybody knows,
That Chicago will pay high
For a scarcity of clothes.

And I state it as a fact,
If the church could but attract
Such an earnest crowd of men
As one sees now and then
At half past nine at night,
Beneath the changing light,
That gleams across the stage
When the ballet is the rage.

The rush of souls to grace
Would result in simply this,
You'd have to get a bigger place,
Or enlarge the edifice.

Irresistible Arguments.
Woman's rights advocate—"Yes, indeed, I have had wonderful success on my lecturing tour this season and the cause of women was never brighter."

Omaha dame—"You told me when here last, Miss Bland, that this year you intend to devote all your arguments to prove not merely woman's equality, but her superiority to man."

"I have done so, and as yet not a man, not one, has dared to raise his voice to refute my argument."

"That's splendid; but, by the way, I can't help admiring your dress, it fits divinely."

"Yes, I always have my dresses made by men tailors; it's the only way; but I must be going; I have just got my Omaha home in order, and am looking around now for a man cook."—Omaha Herald.

The Yellow Glean.
A young Idaho lady residing not a thousand miles from Murray, who recently formed one of a tobagganing party in a neighboring camp says: "I don't believe there was a girl in the whole party without a yellow garter on her left leg. This has become the fashionable fetich against bad luck. They didn't expect to disclose them in the vicissitudes of tobagganing, but when the moon came out suddenly from behind a cloud, full and bright, an old chap cried out: "Look at that yellow gleam." Every girl was alarmed by the thought that it was her talismanic garter that had flashed into view and a dozen left feet were drawn in with a violence and precision that betrayed the reason of their emotion.

English Snobbishness.
A curious little story was told me last night of the snobbishness of London society and the real kindness of heart in the family of the Prince of Wales. There is in London an American dentist who is very skillful in his profession, and among other people has attended the Princess of Wales. He was invited to one of the annual garden parties at Marlboro House, and met there nearly fifty of his patients. They cut him to a man. Soon after he found himself face to face with the Prince and Princess, and they at once gave him the most cordial reception, and shook him warmly by the hand. At once every one of the fifty patients pressed up to the lucky dentist and shook hands with equal warmth.
