Nanon.

The performance of Nanon by the Carleton Opera Company, last night, well merited the excellent reports that preceded them. The opera is world-wide in its popularity, and the waltz, "Ann, in rapture I come to thee," has been whistled and sung and played from Maine to California, as well as in every town in Europe. The very excellent drilling of the Company is such that the opera moves through each act with a smoothness which is evidence of the artistic feeling of the entire Company. Where everything is so good it would be invidious to select any special features; charming looking ladies; handsome costumes, good singing and acting, made up a grand ensemble, and we can promise the Carletons a hearty welcome should they favor us with another visit.

Our idea is that a troupe of such general merit need not represent through the newspapers that they are to produce new scenery, which they do not carry with them; nor was the charge of $1.50 for reserved seats warranted by the performance, when it is considered that the Winston troupe played for $1.

SUTRO'S TREES.

They Arrive, and Go Like Hot Cakes.

Yesterday morning the 1,000 trees donated the city of Carson by Adolph Sutro came by express, addressed to the editor of the APPEAL. They were opened in one of the rooms of the APPEAL building, and found to consist of 600 French Pines, 100 Monterey Cypress, 100 Euclih Elms, 100 Locusts, 100 Maples.

Inside of five minutes there was a rush for the trees, and those who made the first raid seemed to think that about 50 apiece would be the correct thing. They simply grabbed a bundle apiece and trotted off. It was decided to restrict the amount but a good many said they were authorized to get trees for their neighbors, and amid the vociferous demand for the trees, and the rush and confusion, anything like an equal distribution was impossible.

Three hundred were sent at once to the Public School, in addition to which crowds of school children called and took a tree apiece.

The ladies took a great fancy to the Monterey Cypress, and some took ten apiece, so that it is easy to see why they did not go far.

Each church was given 25, and 50 apiece to the Orphan's Home, State Capitol and State Prison. The rest went to such citizens as called, and in the general confusion some got considerably more than their share.

The APPEAL would suggest that any person who took more than five trees would be doing the square thing by his neighbor to make a little "divy."

The express charges were paid by Mr. Sutro, and the trees did not cost anyone in Carson anything.

In the afternoon the trees were distributed among the school children, and the announcement that Arbor Day would be observed as a holiday by everybody was well received by all interested.

In planting the pine trees care should be taken to put sand in the hole, and dig deep enough not to cramp the roots. The tree should be watered once well, and then, (according to the tree men in the city,) not watered afterwards more than once in one or two weeks, as too much water kills them. Elms and maples need more water. Use no manure as it rots the roots.

The Committee had talked of securing a lot and planting a grove, but there being no available funds for the purpose this project fell through. Several citizens volunteered to donate lots, but as there was no provision for providing for the expense of keeping the trees cared for, it was decided to make a general distribution of the trees, in order that in a diversity of soil and treatment a larger per cent. would be likely to live.

Gov. Stevenson also received 1,000 trees from the East, and sent some to the different towns of the State.

Many citizens here sent below and provided for their own trees, and a good many who depended on Sutro's trees did not make application in time, and it was a case of first come first served.

Several parties in response to an announcement in the newspapers sent in their application a few days before and had their trees reserved.

Parties who did not call for their trees until late in the afternoon found them all gone. They said they had no idea that there would be any rush. The fact that there was a rush shows that there was an interest taken in Arbor Day.

The following letter accompanied the trees:

SAN FRANCISCO, Sutro Heights }
April 11th, 1887. }

Sam Davis Esq: MY DEAR SIR:—I forward to your address today, by Wells Fargo & Co's express, one thousand small trees:

These should be kept covered up so the roots are not exposed to the air, until the moment of distribution.

After planting, each little tree should receive a good supply of water, and they ought to be watered once a week for a month after that, for three or four months they should be watered monthly or until the next heavy rains set in.

Hoping that the children will enjoy the tree-planting, and that it may be continued from year to year, is the hearty wish of yours truly,
ADOLPH SUTRO.

BILL KISSANE.

MORE OF THE EXPOSE WHICH SHAKES CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco Bubbling with Excitement and the Press Still Muzzled.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Your correspondent has been untiring in his efforts to learn more of the true inwardness of the Kissane mystery, and the developments prove to be more startling and sensational than anything yet discovered. Last night a letter was sent covering the main facts of Kissane's career, and this will be followed by others, giving all the facts attainable. What will most startle the Masonic fraternity, that has moved every lever to screen Rodgers, is the fact disclosed by your correspondent, that Bill Kissane was expelled from a Masonic Lodge, in 1852, for his crimes. This is given on excellent testimony, and the truth or falsity of the statement can easily be proved by reference to the Lodge records. If, as stated, Rogers is now a member of a Masonic Lodge then Reuben H. Lloyd, his brother, has transgressed one of the most stringent rules in Masonry, in allowing his disgraced brother to sail under the cloak of Masonry.

The situation is hourly becoming more delicate and none can tell WHEN THE EXPLOSION WILL TAKE PLACE.

It is believed that it only awaits the final decision from New York on the motion to quash the former indictments. It is whispered that if the matter gets into the Courts W. K. Rogers is not the only prominent citizen in the United States who shall be asked to recall the misdeeds of thirty five years ago. The confession of Kissane gives a full history of the gang of which he was a member, and they are not all dead. It is even whispered in San Francisco that fingers can be laid upon at least, one other party who could not satisfactorily explain his connection with Kissane. The hour apparently is not ripe, however, and the chains of evidence must first be well forged before those who know these facts, will talk. General Darr declined for the present to be further interviewed for publication, and your correspondent has been forced to seek other channels of information, with what success, will be seen in my letters and telegrams of today, and of the balance of the week. W. K. Rogers, otherwise, BILL KISSANE IS IN SAN FRANCISCO Now and will probably make no attempt to get away. Even if he should, it would perhaps only precipitate matters, for the Chemical bank and the untiring Darr, who has tracked him for 35 years, doubtless keep a close watch on his movements and know where to put their hands on him when the requisition arrives. Rodgers on Friday or Saturday, obtained a promise from Fitch that he would allow no ad. to be inserted in the Bulletin, referring in any way to Lloyd or Rogers by name. This was explained as the reason why the Bee's advertisement was declined.

Lloyd is in town but has not been seen on the streets since the arrival of the Bee, Thursday night.

CONCLUSIVE PROOF OF HIS IDENTITY

Has been discovered and will be treated of in my letters. Up to the present time it has been believed that Lloyd was in no way connected with any of his brother's crimes, but some testimony developed in one of the forgery cases, and given in my sketch of Kissane's career, would indicate that Lloyd himself may be somewhat implicated. It is believed, at all events, that he will not willingly place himself on the stand where awkward questions may be asked.

It is now learned that when it became evident that some one familiar with the facts had disclosed Roger's identity to one or two persons—something over a week ago—Rogers came down from Sonoma fully

FROM KILLING GENERAL DARR, From whom he inferred the statement had come. The determined spirit of the Bill Kissane of thirty-five years ago shown in the face of the white-haired millionaire from Sonoma, and he swore he would shoot Darr on sight.

Some of his friends got wind of it, however, and managed, with great difficulty, to dissuade him from the step. Whether Darr knew of this or not is not known, but he certainly deemed it possible that he might be assassinated, for he made all preparations, so that in such an event the arrest of all known and living members of the Kissane gang should at once follow. The publicity given the affair by the Bee, however, has rendered any bloodshed foolish in the extreme, as it would only precipitate matters, and it is not likely that any killing will be done. The public excitement, however, is intense, and there may yet be trouble.

A Square Firm.

Some months ago a gentleman in this city ordered some cloth of Stein, Simons & Co., the San Francisco clothing dealers, corner of Market and 2nd streets, and after he had a pair of pants made he found the goods shelf-worn and weak. He wrote to the firm, explaining the situation, and they promptly sent him new goods to replace the old, gratis, express charges paid.
