Beat the World.

Curtis Bros, of Sacramento, have discovered that Nevada potatoes sell better than any other, and have offered to take a car load of Nevada potatoes every day for the next four months.

—Thomas Chatard, one of the Government Geological Surveyors, is in Carson.

—There will be a terrible big crowd here next Sunday to witness the base ball game for a purse of $1,000.

—The charge preferred by the Salt Lake Tribune against General McClelland, one of the Utah Commissioners, that in voting for judges of elections he proposed to give the Mormons control of one-half the polls is too serious to be passed by without investigation. The law under which the elections were held was enacted for the specific purpose of keeping the Mormons from obtaining control, and if commissioner McClelland has been guilty of such flagrant attempt to nullify it, he cannot be ousted from office too soon for the good of himself and those who placed him there.

TWO GOOD FORAGE PLANTS.

Ranchers Waking Up to the Prospects Ahead.

Yesterday Mr. Woods, the arboriculturist, brought to the APPEAL office a specimen of the wild pea, which has grown near his place without irrigation. The specimen was a vine, or rather a number of vines from a single root, producing a bushy, thickly leaved mass about three feet long and a foot in diameter. The stem was not any thicker than a darning needle, yet the mass of green on the stem would require considerable pressure to stuff into an ordinary hat. The leaves were long and narrow, and about twenty well developed pea pods were dangling on the vine about an inch long.

This Mr. Woods says will grow anywhere in this State without a drop of water, and is adapted to dry, hard soils, where scarcely anything else will grow at all. It is a splendid forage plant, and stock fatten rapidly on it. He is saving seed, and will cultivate the plant to sell the seed.

Another forage plant making rapid progress in this State is the Australian rye grass or blue joint. Mr. Woods has called public attention to this grass before. It will grow four or five feet high without irrigation, and stools broadly at the bottom, making a splendid turf.

Farmers all about the valley are saving it for seed, for they are now convinced that it will make hay fields anywhere that sagebrush or grease-wood will grow, and before long prove a staple hay grass in this State.

With this grass a man can run a stock farm with only water enough to water his stock. The roots are long and thick, and penetrate deeply into the ground, and when once in, is almost as hard as alfalfa to plow up and get rid of. It spreads rapidly, and is a most nutritious plant for stock, being a rapid fattener.

Another good thing about it is that it comes up first in the Spring, stands the Summer heat, and is the last grass in the Fall to wither.

Mr. Woods says that it has proven a bonanza wherever it has been introduced, and is the coming grass for Nevada. It will grow in sand, alkali, clay, loam, and wet and dry places. Wherever it finds a patch of earth it will grow, and is hardly beyond description.

ALL SORTS.

—Wizard Oil at Geo. Thaxter's.

—Editor Fairbanks was down here the other day betting on his home ball club.

—Mr. Geo. Keogh, Langtry's agent, was her first agent, and brought her to this country.

—Sam Wright is putting a new roof on the White House, and making other extensive improvements.

—A man is round town selling a chemical compound to remove ink marks from paper. He charges $16 a bottle. The stationery stores sell the same thing for 35 cents.

—Blaine recently attended the unveiling of a statue of Alexander III. Blaine likes to attend unveilings but just make a statue of Roscoe Conkling and invite Blaine to help unveil it. Blaine don't go.

—Messrs. Ann and Crowder two of the English syndicate who recently bought a number of mines near Aurora, arrived in Carson from London, Tuesday, and left for Aurora yesterday morning. They will examine the mines in company with Ross K. Colcord, who also left for Aurora by private conveyance yesterday morning.

Mrs. Langtry.

Mrs. Langtry was greeted by a packed audience last night at Galatea. Her beauty was pretty thoroughly discussed between the acts and the general verdict was that her profile was as perfect a Helen's face as ever set on human shoulders with a neck that was beyond criticism.

Her front face does not show to such advantage. Her figure, as Galatea, was a dream of beauty. In the last two acts her acting drew forth the hearty applause of the audience, and all voted her a success. She ought to carry a better company and secure another Pygmalion.

A LEVEL-HEADED WOMAN.

Mrs Langtry Purchases Real Estate in Carson.

Yesterday Mrs. Langtry paid a visit to Lake Tahoe, being driven up in one of Raycraft's four in hands. In the morning she selected a corner lot in this city, saying that she had half a mind to purchase and would do so probably on her return from the Lake. When she came back from the Lake she expressed herself absolutely delighted with the spot and closed her bargain for the lot, which was in the Northern part of the city. Lot No. 19 Corbett's addition.

She selected the lot with her usual care and after being driven around the city selected the place in Corbett's addition on account of its being on an elevated spot and also because of the certainty of getting artesian water there. In speaking of the Lake she said, "There is no such beauty spot on God's footstool as that little sheet of water. Of course I purchase property wherever I think it advantageous, and from what I have heard of late of Nevada, I think all kinds of real estate will be valuable here in a few years."

"This is a delightful valley, and I want a little spot I can call my own near Lake Tahoe, so that I can build, and come up here when I am at leisure and enjoy the bracing Nevada air, and occasionally take a dip in the Hot Springs, which seem to me the most wonderful natural curiosity in the State. I want a little land in the Capital city of Nevada, and if I have any consumptive friends I shall send them here to live. I believe the time will come when there will be a rush to Nevada, and people will come here to cure their lung troubles and breathe the delightful air. I never was in such good voice as since I came here."

When asked what price she had paid for the land she only laughed and said that she never dickered over real estate, or repeated business transactions.

The Right of Way.

The members of the bicycle club are feeling very jubilant over the result of the conference Tuesday between the Board of City Trustees, the City Marshal and the committee appointed by the wheelmen in regard to riding cycles on Main street. Two of the Board—Messrs. Klein and Kitzmeyer are absent from town but they will surely coincide with the views of the three other members. Trustees Bryson, Lee and Wooley and Marshal Ullrick, all expressed the opinion that not the slightest objection could be found to bicycling on Main street as long as the same rules were observed by wheelmen as the riders of other vehicles followed, and so as long as this is done bicyclers can enjoy the same privileges given to all vehicles. In order to preserve perfect harmony the bicycle club will adopt certain rules for their government while on the streets, such as keeping to the right, dismounting and hiding the machine when meeting a fractious horse, etc. The course pursued by our Trustees follows the custom which is now becoming universal in all cities. By the San Francisco Chronicle of Monday it will be seen that Governor Hill, of New York, in which State a bitter fight has been waged against bicycles for several years, has signed a bill which allows bicycles, and tricycles to be treated as vehicles, and gives them the right to travel over any roads or parks which are open to carriages.

Prison Burial.

Wm. Williams aged 43, died at the State's Prison about midnight on Tuesday. His funeral took place yesterday at 2 P. M. and was conducted by the Prison Chaplain, Rev. Mr. Davis. The prisoners were all present by order of the Warden and seemed deeply impressed as the burial service was read, many of them shedding tears. Mrs. McCullough presided at the organ, the men joining in the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee." After the service the prisoners filed past the coffin to take a last look of their comrade who had spent 14 years in the Prison walls. A procession was then formed and amid the sad sound of the tolling Prison bell, the remains of Williams were laid to rest outside the Prison walls.

CHINESE TROUBLE.

Masks and Shotguns in Ormsby.

ASHLAND, Or., July 19.—The Chinese laborers in Siskiyou tunnel were paid yesterday. At 11 o'clock last night, while they were peacefully enjoying themselves in the store of Charlie Den; a masked mob, estimated at thirty or forty, attacked the store and began firing. The Chinaman offered no resistance. All were robbed. They claim their losses are $800. One woman was shot in the thigh; a flesh wound. A boy was shot in the spine; recovery is doubtful, and a man was beaten over the head with a shotgun and his skull fractured. It is estimated that 150 shots were fired. Two shot-guns used as clubs by the mob were broken from the stocks. Colonel Schobie, whose camp is near, says the cries of the Chinamen were heart-rendering.

Dr. Parsons of Ashland, also a prominent Chinese Doctor from Portland, were called from here at 5 o'clock this morning to attend the wounded. It is said there is no trouble to point out the guilty parties almost to a man, but it may be difficult to prove anyone's guilt. Charlie Din, proprietor of the store, is said to be a peaceable citizen.

ANOTHER STORY.

SISKIYOU MOUNTAIN, Or., July 19.—At 11:30 o'clock last night a Chinese gambling and opium den at this place was raided by the Deputy Sheriff and a posse. The Chinese had established a gambling and opium hell near the grading camps which are located here and have caused the company a great deal of trouble and annoyance. Many Chinamen employed by the company had been habitual frequenters of the place and it was impossible to get any work out of them, as every morning there was always a number of them very much befogged by the effects of the debauch of the previous night. The company decided to put a stop to these proceedings and break up the place, and a well-organized raid took place and the Chinamen were driven out of their headquarters.

CAPPING FOR CORPSES.

How Reno Tries to Populate Its Graveyard.

Mrs. Bowers is at present in this city at Shaw's Hot Springs endeavoring to regain her health. She also wishes to secure the removal of the bodies of her dead husband and children, whose graves now adorn the mountain back of the once famous, Bower's Mansion in Washoe county.

She wishes the remains of her husband to be placed in the Masonic Cemetery in this city, because in his life time he was a member of the Carson Lodge in good standing. The old members of the lodge who knew Sandy Bowers in the days gone by are also anxious to have him placed in Masonic ground.

Some time ago while in Reno she spoke to some of the leading citizens there about removing the remains while she was told that they ought to be brought to Reno by all means, as Reno was the coming town of the State and that in a few years it would have the Capitol and that Carson would be a played out town, with nothing left but a graveyard. The Capitol and State's Prison were sure to come to Reno and if the remains were brought there they would rest in a live town.

A portion of this sort of stuff was shrieked into Mrs. Bowers' ear through a speaking trumpet, as the old lady is quite deaf, and was heard in the adjoining rooms.

The lady was quite shocked at the idea of being importuned in this manner and declined with many thanks. The remains will be brought to Carson because they belong here, to be placed in the cemetery of the Order of which Mr. Bowers was so long a member.

Jack Rabbits.

Jack rabbits are becoming more numerous in parts of California than they are in Nevada. In Tulare county farmers keep greyhounds to chase them and on some ranches they kill from fifty to sixty a day. A disease has broken out among them in some places and they are dying by the thousand. So far this Summer they have not been as numerous in this State as they were a year ago, and farmers do not complain much of their depredations.
