The Great Raft

New York, Feb. 6. The great log raft which broke adrift about one month ago is heard of again. The steamer Hampshire from Yokohama, which arrived at this port this morning, encountered a great number of logs in latitude 36° 37 min. and longitude 58° 36 min., and one log broke her rudder-chain disabling her for several hours. She also came across a hull of a vessel newly coppered, bottom up. From Ottawa a dispatch was received today which said that "in the opinion of the Deputy Minister of Marine the logs were carried out into the Gulf Stream and will yet be heard from in Africa, the British Isles and Norway." The accident to the steamer Hampshire is the first reported to have been caused by the broken-up raft.

Croup, whooping cough, sore throat, sudden cold, and the lung troubles peculiar to children, are easily controlled by promptly administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy is safe to take, and certain in its action.
'It is worth its weight in gold,' is a common expression. But, while the value of gold is easily affected, the worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier, never depreciates. It will eradicate scrofula from the system when everything else fails.
A few days ago a prospector named Summerfield went to the depot at Luning and attempted to murder Miss Minnie Smith a sister of Mrs. Dormer. Several men about the place came to the rescue and Summerfield has been declared insane and sent to the Asylum.

Endorsed by Other Opticians.

The following will show how well Dr. Harmon is regarded in the honest opinion of other dealers in glasses:

DALLAS, POLK CO., NOV. 14, 1887.

Yamhill Reporter Office, McMinnville-Gentlemen; S. Harmon, an optician from St. Petersburg, Russia, will be in your town soon. He comes well recommended. He has been here for a week and has made many sufferers happy. I merely write this for the benefit of those who wish to take advantage of the opportunity, as so many traveling men are dubbed humbugs. I carry a large assortment of spectacles myself, but it is very difficult to fit many persons, and I take pleasure in recommending him to my customers here for a perfect fit. Yours respectfully, Z. F. VAUGHN.

We interviewed J. L. Luckey, who is a jeweler, and who deals in spectacles; he is using a pair of the Glasses which were made by Dr. S. Harmon, and says they are the best in use. The peculiar mellow light which is reflected through them he says is very beneficial to the eyes.-Ochoco Review.

RENO CORRESPONDENCE.

ARTHUR McEWEN'S METHODS AS A JOURNALIST.

A Review of Some of the Heavy Weights of Journalists.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL:-

The departure of Arthur McEwen for Washington in company of Wm. H. Hearst proprietor of the Daily Examiner recalls to the writers' recollection a few ideas that may be instrumental, in accomplishing a great deal of good for the Pacific Coast. It is not many years ago since in company of our present Attorney General Jno. F. Alexander, this brilliant young Scot supplied the citizens of Reno with rare and racy matter at their breakfast tables on account of having been associated with a newspaper that has since enabled quite a number of gentlemen to become fairly wealthy. He then left for the Bay. Then his clear intellect and capacity to gather and properly classify passing events soon elicited universal attention. The management of the San Francisco Post secured his services and at a salary beyond his expectations he began to grind out such original matter as to attract everybody's attention. Full of native grit it was natural he should succeed. His witticisms and criticisms in the Post gave him a standing at once. His political contributions compelled the Democracy of Nevada to secure him in 1879 to advocate the election of OLD BROADHORNS,

(Governor Bradley) in the columns of the Virginia Chronicle. The work done on that occasion and subsequently with the lamented Denis E. M. McCarthy, is a standing monument to his ceaseless and tireless energy. Friends and foes were alike to him, when he was discharging his duty as a public journalist. To this I attribute his wonderful success. He passed through Reno to-day, for the Nation's Capital. To represent the Daily Examiner. I was sorry I did not see him. Nevertheless I have the happy satisfaction of knowing that in 1879, I told him Washington was his stamping ground. Nordhoff of the New York Herald receives a salary that can hardly be covered by $25,000 per annum while C. C. Crawford of the New York World gets not less than $10,000 per annum. Jake Charlie Murray (the author Sub Rosa) and now correspondent of the Philadelphia Press and the Pittsburg Dispatch and he lives like a prince. He occupies a magnificent residence, and has his anglomania ideas of society. You can see him any day on Pennsylvania Avenue in a dog cart enjoying himself to the Queen's taste. His receipts amount to at least $15,000 a year. He is happy nevertheless. Charley Towle, who sends out short telegrams to the S. F. Post is connected with the New York Evening Press with his friend Frank Morgan (both of whom are nature's noblemen,) the latter is in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, while his big-hearted brother is under Commander Hitchcock in the Navy Department and they, combinedly easily rope in $10,000 a year. The Correspondent of the Westliche Post of St. Louis fares not a whit less because such Irish-American patriots as Congressman O'Neil must have the German vote to win. Occasionally Frank Burr of the Philadelphia Press and (author of a life of General Grant) drops in with George Alfred Townsend, better known as

GATH,

And secures a few of the shekels that drop from the men who are everfound nigh on to the public crib. The latter has at times as many as three short-hand reporters in his employ. The great amount of writing he has so successfully done in his day has not only made him rich; but compelled him to devote the remainder of his days to the improved methods which modern science has placed at his disposal. He is now

THE BOSS DICTATOR

Of America. In his magnificent home in Maryland, and at his ease, after all bills are paid, he nets, through his reminiscences of public men, not less than $25,000

A year. Ben Perley Poor and his fifty years contact with public men, had a great advantage over those who were not reporting when Tom Benton was writing his thirty years in the United States Senate. But the

MURPHY BROTHERS

Of Philadelphia were then and are still, and to-day are quoted at at least a half a million. McElhone held the reins in the House of Representatives and continues to do so. His net receipts cannot be less than $25,000 per year. He is a walking Encyclopedia so far as history and a knowledge of parliamentary law is concerned and the

NEWSPAPER WORLD

Is always accommodated in the most kindly manner whenever it calls upon him for information, and many a raw or green Congressman can thank his stars that "Mac" not only reported his speech, but that he knew the English language well enough to make him appear respectably intelligent in the columns of the Congressional Record. Even Dan Lamont who had his first experience on the

ALBANY ARGUS

Now fills the role of private Secretary to President Cleveland, owes all he enjoys to the friendly spirit extended towards him by the Boyntons of the Associated Press and the newspaper fraternity in general.

Daniel receives $3,000 per year, while his expectations amount to a candidacy for the Governorship of New York. Poor George Butler once held a high place in this peculiar world, but like George Douglass, he petered out prematurely.

Now, for the great West a new star appears. It represents the triumphant march of the Examiner, and Reno naturally takes pride out of it.

The S. F. Chronicle has a gentleman at the seat of Government, watching the interests of the Pacific Coast. It is Mr. Hazleton.

The management of the Western Union once told the writer that outside of Col. Washington of the Picayune of New Orleans, he was the best telegraphic condenser in the United States.

The Examiner, I can tell these newspaperial friends of the past and present, has now in their midst one of the cleverest writers in America, and that no man living can prognosticate what the young Scot's future will be.
