

PARDONING SCOUNDRELS.

The Report is very much surprised at Governor Waterman's pardon of Charles Josselyn. Josselyn committed an atrocious crime—an utterly vile and unmanly deed, which should have been regarded as unpardonable. But it was understood over a year ago that Josselyn had "a pull." He was indulged in the State Prison and not treated as other convicts, and the officers were all ready to testify in his behalf for a pardon. We are sorry to know that a State Prison pull is so strong. Josselyn and another vile wretch outraged a helpless, delicate woman, on her way from visiting her children in the Mount St. Joseph Orphan Asylum, and she died three months later from the effects of their treatment. When Judge Tooley sentenced Josselyn to fourty years imprisonment, everyone applauded the severity of the penalty, and now the Governor pardons him! The event should inspire strong hopes in the breast of Frank T. Northey, the jury-briber.

LICKED, BUT UNCONQUERED.

The agony is over. A gold bug has been elected Speaker of the House, and the silver men may expect every possible obstruction, in the way of committee appointments and parliamentary tactics to the goal of free or increased coinage. But the silver lion is not dead, neither sleepeth he muckly. He is wide awake, and will tear and gnaw unceasingly at the meshes of the political web which environs him, and two years hence he will break loose and awaken the echoes and loosen the very pavements from Wall street, with the intensity of his roar—and don't you forget it.—Times-Review.

A Few Figures.

Isaac Trumbo, in a letter to Gov. Waterman declining to serve as a delegate to the St. Louis Silver Convention, presented a letter that is an object lesson in national finance. The table shows the enormous decline in the circulation of money in the United States for a period of 21 years:

YEAR.	PER CAPITA.
1866	$52 01
1867	37 51
1868	21 47
1869	19 34
1870	18 70
1871	16 89
1872	16 14
1873	15 45
1874	14 51
1875	14 04
1876	13 40
1877	12 28
1878	11 23
1879	10 65
1880	10 23
1881	11 48
1882	11 97
1883	11 48
1884	10 17
1885	8 90
1886	7 63
1887	6 97

It would seem that the contraction from $52.01 to $6.67 ought to satisfy the most avaricious of the Shylocks, but it appears to be otherwise. It is hardly a wonder that the farmers who have fallen into clutches of the capitalists despair of ever getting out again. The result of the figures given by Mr. Trumbo is not hard to discover. While the rewards of labor have grown less, money has become more valuable. The farmer's expenses have augmented with the contraction. While he must pay out more he receives less. When, therefore, he permits the Shylocks to take a mortgage upon his farm, his life begins to look like a perpetual career of servitude to his relentless master.

If the gold bugs can manage to demonetize silver and thus further contract the circulation, gold will become so valuable, prices so high and wages so low that the money-lenders will be absolute masters of the nation, whose people will be at the mercy of a clique who will give no quarter until their pound of flesh is forthcoming.
