The Behring sea question is not a case for arbitration. Mr. Blaine's letter shows beyond dispute that England never had any rights there, and will never have any without our consent. Then why is there any cause for arbitration? The mere suggestion of such a thing is unwise and would be counted against us in a Court of Adjudication.
Smokeless powder has just been introduced, and recently Emperor William witnessed a new mode of attack under cover of smoke produced by the attacking forces. The two new war devices are not incompatible. Smokeless powder has its advantage in that it does not foul the gun, but smoke is very useful in concealing the movements of forces behind the curtain. The smokeless powder combined with smoke otherwise produced, an army would have the advantages without the disadvantages of the new explosive.

PRESCOTT, ARZ., Aug. 13.—Moses Moore, a prospector, arrived here last night from Jerome camp, suffering from a skunk bite on the right foot, received while asleep. A Carnivorous Horse.

A horse belonging to Mr. Barrett at the Jennings farm in Six-mile Canyon yesterday killed a chicken and ate it, munching bones and all, but leaving most of the feathers.

The animal was seen to do this by a number of men, who watched him intently as he smacked his tongue around when the warm blood spattered around its mouth.

He seemed to enjoy his meal with much relish, and when he got through he walked straight to the yard where the chickens are kept and looked longingly over the fence.
