If Governor Colecord don't look out he is liable to be arrested for fast driving. When he hitches his fast nag up with General Clarke's it makes a team that could at least violate the ordinance if the driver felt that way.

The printers boycott against the Oakland Enquirer has been declared null and void by the International Typographical Union. It has been decided that newspapers can use plate matter as long as they pay regular rates for type setting.

The Eureka Sentinel says Jerry Abearn has made arrangements for the purchase of the Cornell mine on White Pine mountain which is now yielding about $500 per day, with six men employed. The ore is gray carbonate, going over 60 per cent. lead and from $26 to $29 per ton in silver and gold.

The only successful enforcement of prohibition that the world knows of was carried out by the Confederate Government during the war. The Confederacy wanted every bushel of corn within its boundaries for food, and the most stringent laws were adopted against illicit distilling. As every able-bodied man was in the ranks, the "moon shiner" was unknown in those four years.

The September number of "Current Literature" will have as an added feature a department devoted to "The Literature of the Drama." The idea is to bring together the admirable editorials, special articles and essays now being written on theatrical subjects. For September the selections are: Nym Crinkle's "American Playwrights," "The Independent Theater," by C. H. Metzger; and "The Prejudice Against the Players," from The London Speaker.

Remember the Children.

The following suggestions have been made by forty of the C. & C. subscribers to the Pratt fund as to its disposal: That the money be given to the Virginia Orphan Asylum, 1; the money to be returned, 2; half to go to the Virginia Orphan Asylum and the other half to the State Orphans' Home at Carson, 2; that the money be given to the Orphans' Home in Carson to buy Christmas presents with for the children, 34.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

Where the Indians got the Small Pox.

Old residents of this city—since the small pox has broken out in the Indian School—call to mind the fact that twenty years ago the Ross family—who sold their ranch to the Government for the Indian School—lost two children by the small pox and buried them near the spot where the school now stands.

The graves are under the tall cottonwood trees which are at the right of the road about a quarter of a mile from the school land.

The Indian boys were in the habit of playing under these trees about the graves and no doubt this is the origin of small pox in the school.

Medical authorities claim that it requires about twenty years for the germs of the disease to penetrate the soil from a six-foot grave and reach the surface. After so long a time however the bacteria looses some of its vitality and this probably accounts for the mild character of the disease at the Indian School.

LEG BROKEN.

The Saddle Turns on a Horse and Injures a Citizen.

Yesterday afternoon as Leon Carrieri, a Frenchman, was attempting to mount a horse near Frank Craven's house the saddle turned and Carrieri was thrown to the ground. Lee Craven went to his assistance immediately with a conveyance and took the injured man to his home inside the race track, where he is employed to keep the place in condition. Dr. Lee was summoned and pronounced the right leg broken in two places above and on the right and left of the ankle. The break, although not a serious one, will confine the patient to his home some months, and is almost identical with the break received by Barney McClure some time ago. A break of this kind usually stiffens the ankle, but McClure pulled through and it is to be hoped that Carrieri will.

Suggestion for the Pratt Fund.

The News publishes the following. The fund amounting to $65 raised by the Carson APPEAL has been rejected by Mrs Pratt in San Francisco, and has returned to the APPEAL. Its editor is now puzzled as how to get rid of it. If the News be allowed to make a suggestion, it would say that the money be added to the subscription list to the County Fair, and awarded to the parties making the best agricultural exhibit at the pavilion at the coming exhibition.

The News has a right to make suggestions relative to the Pratt Fund because every compositor in the office contributed. We are still anxiously waiting for some suggestion from our evening contemporary.

A Bald-Headed Fish Story

Editor Mason of the Truckee Republican and family are rusticated at Sierra Valley, and the "devil" and Prof. Baugh, are editing the Republican. The new editors do very well, relating among other stories a tale of a triple-jawed fish caught at Independence Lake by Dr. Fonda. The third jaw is provided with teeth, and the fish has two throats.

It was Gillis.

The papers have been considerably puzzled to figure out a man named Willis who once challenged Mark Twain to a duel. It was not Willis but Gillis, Steve Gillis, who is now a compositor on the Enterprise. Gillis is a little man but always ready to fight twice his weight in rattlesnakes.

DIAMOND BOB.

That's What They Call Bob Logan Now.

The item in yesterday's APPEAL relative to ex-Assemblyman Logan finding some diamonds in Nevada is correct. They were not found in Pine Nut, however, as first reported.

From what the APPEAL can learn Logan had these diamonds before the Pine Nut excitement, and he was never seen about Pine Nut. He declines to tell where they came from. Some say they came from the Como range and others assert that they came from a place in the clay of the Como vein, near the Merrimac mill. He has about 500 in a phial. They are quite small, the largest not exceeding a grain. They appear to have been worked by the action of water, and Col. Boyle, who has examined them, says they are in all respects like the diamonds found in the Kimberley mine in South Africa. The appearance of the stones fit best the story that they came from the Carson river. They must have been washed down and caught in the clay and the source of the supply is well worth prospecting for. Logan is called Diamond Bob now by his friends. He is very reticent about the spot where he got the gems. He also shows a very fine emerald which he got near the same place. The APPEAL does not believe the stone ever came from Pine Nut.

A "Wave" Personal.

The San Francisco Wave contains the following: "C. O. Wallace, is somewhat of a capitalist and considerable of a politician, hailing from Eureka Nevada, was among the sojourners at the Del Monte Saturday. Mr. Wallace is a partner of C. C. Powning and also J. Powning, the powder man of this vicinity." True, Mr. Wallace is "considerable of a politician," but the Gazette has never heard him accused of being "somewhat of a capitalist." Mr. Wallace and Mr. Powning may have struck up a political partnership for all the Gazette knows, but in nothing else.

Sickness Among Children. Especially infants, is prevalent more or less at all times, but is largely avoided by giving proper nourishment and wholesome food. The most successful and reliable of all is the Gail Borden "Eagle" Brand Condensed Milk. Your grocer and druggist keep it. 2t

The San Francisco papers are arranging Stanford's little Presidential boom by telling a very carefully concocted story about Stanford losing $100,000 by keeping a verbal contract that he was not bound to keep.

The same papers are also booming Kate Castleton by solemnly asserting that she never appeared in tights in all her life. It takes Leland and Kate to work the press with a fine Italian hand.

Mr. Parkinson of our evening contemporary, while constantly preaching home industry never practices it.

He has just returned from California, where he has been proving up some timber land. He does not consider Nevada a good place to invest in.
