The Homer Index has a very interesting article on "Ledge Formation" which should be read by every man who is anxious to be considered an expert. It was too good an article to be copied without credit by one of our numerous city contemporaries.

Blaine, (much cheering), "Harrison (slight applause)," about tells the story, and if Blaine, the greatest American of the age should be nominated in 1892 he would sweep the country as clean as a Kansas cyclone occasionally sweeps sections of that State.

LAVISHLY PERFUMED.

An Indian Mother's Idea of "Fixing Up."

The young girls at the Indian School are not much behind their white sisters when it comes to primping up. Whenever a young white man visits the school the instant they see him coming they scamper to their rooms and begin to decorate their faces with complexion powder and smear their hair with sweet scented oil. A bottle of fifteen-cent hair oil will make an Indian girl happy for a month.

On one occasion an Indian girl who was about to pay a visit to Carson asked Mrs. Gibson if she could use a little of her Jockey Club perfume. The request was granted and a few moments later Mrs. Gibson went to the girl's room to see how much she considered an ordinary dose for a handkerchief.

The girl was standing in the middle of the room with her clothes lifted to her armpits and her mother was applying the perfume to her person, spreading it over her with a rag.

She had just finished the bottle when Mrs. Gibson appeared.

A Second Leadville.

Experts who have examined the rich galena discovery 26 miles east of Ogden report that the camp will be a second Leadville. Ore in one gulch was found in enormous quantities. It is almost pure lead, with a pay quantity of silver. Two miles away are bodies assaying in the hundreds. A sheep herder who first discovered the ore has been offered $40,000 for a one fourth interest in his claim, by a wealthy Salt Lake mining corporation. A stream of miners and prospectors from all parts of the Territory is passing through Ogden en route to the mines. The hills are covered with miners and the town of La Plata has already been laid out.

A Lively Corpse.

Not long ago the Santa Cruz Herald died, and the Sentinel next day made some very unkind allusions to the corpse.

To the astonishment of everybody the corpse rose up in its coffin and after printing the life and history of its rival for one issue only again suspended publication and sank quietly to rest, assuring its readers that it was ready to rise up and walk at a moment's notice.

Now the Sentinel man gives the coffin of the Herald a wide berth.

He Didn't Take the Papers.

Oroville has one citizen who does not take the local papers. A few days ago he asked the public administrator when a certain estate, against which he had a claim, was to be settled. He was astonished when told that the estate, after due publication, had been settled two months ago. "Well," said the citizen, with a remorseful look, "I don't take the papers." There is a good, strong, healthful lesson in this item and he was out $87.

A Conundrum.

P. C. Riel of Lovelock has a cellar near his store, situated about three hundred yards distant from one of the Humboldt sloughs. Last Spring water from some source rose in it to the depth of about three feet. He had to abandon it for use and locked it up. A few days ago he examined it to see if the water had disappeared. He found two feet of water there yet, and, to his amazement, a great lot of young fishes sporting in the water.

The question which is now the subject of discussion in that village is how did the fish get into the cellar? The pisciculturists of the Lower Humboldt have failed to give a satisfactory explanation to themselves or any one else. One of Lovelock's scientists advances the theory that the spawn was carried from the slough by percolating water in the cellar, and the fish hatched there. Doubtless this theory will be accepted until one more rational is advanced.—Silver State.

Sagebrushers Abroad.

Captain Sam is down from Sacramento with a lot of Indians picking hops. He is thus quoted by Record Union "Johnny Mackey all the same bloke, now," he said, "heap pull'em down big mill. Dan De Quille no got'em no more old pant for Injun. Two-bit heap big—all same twenty-dollar. Indian no catch'em money Ferginny now; come Sacramento pick'em hop; mebbe so whita man like come too. Him no sabbe pick'em hop. To heap dam hot. Two-bit gib'm me.

A Buzzard's Nest.

Near the Brunswick mill on the Carson River is a small forest of cottonwood where about sundown some twenty-five or thirty buzzards come to roost.

They have sought these trees along the Carson for a roosting place for over twenty-five years and in the twilight present a curious appearance as they hang on the trees in big black clusters. No one ever disturbs them although it would seem as if the Kodac fiend would do well to take a shot at them.

Good Advice.

The Gazette having said that thirty competent girls could find employment at good wages doing housework in Reno, the Chloride Belt says: "If the Gazette could induce about 100 of the young women who can be seen walking about the streets of Reno daily to take the situations it would do good service in the cause of both industry and morality."

False Economy

Is practiced by many people, who buy inferior articles of food because cheaper than standard goods. Surely infants are entitled to the best food obtainable. It is a fact that the Gail Borden "Eagle" Brand Condensed Milk is the best infant food. Your grocer and druggist keep it. 2t
