

AN EDITOR'S FIELD DAY.

Editor Barry, of the San Francisco Star, must have felt pretty good last week.

Some months ago he opened up on Judge Murphy, who was then in the height of his power, and the Judge fined him $500 for contempt of court.

Now, there is not an editor in California who has sufficient command of any known language to express his contempt for Judge Murphy, whom the decent people of San Francisco spat upon the other night at Metropolitan Hall.

In the same week the Supreme Court decided that the outrageous and malicious fine imposed on Barry was illegal, and reversed Murphy's work.

Only Newspaper Men Perfect.

The appalling array of clerical scandals that have developed themselves of late on this coast, leads the Merced Sun to make some reflections upon the preachers of California. The Sun says: A C. J. Devine was recently accused of causing the death of his servant girl. Then a Tulare clergyman committed suicide because his wife applied for a divorce. Another Tulare parson is about to be ousted from his church for sending notes through the postoffice to a young lady asking permission to kiss and hug her. And a Monterey clergyman has been charged with embezzling money from a woman. After all, we guess newspaper men are about the only people on top of earth who are entirely perfect.—Grass Valley Telegraph.

It is rumored that there will be music in the air before the next Grand Jury over alleged illegal cattle branding in Steptoe Valley. It seems strange to us that people who are old residents, and whose fair name and good reputation in all their affairs with their neighbors have stood test for a quarter of a century, should lay themselves liable to such a charge. The old plea among cattlemen used to be that such practices were necessary for self protection. The old custom was wrong and stringent laws have been enacted to eradicate it. They should be strictly enforced.—White Pine News.

In the local columns is printed the account of the charges made in San Francisco, concerning Samuel C. Denson, formerly of this city. The people of Carson, where he resided for several years, will take more stock in his denial than in the charges against him. He held an honorable record here and lived in the respect of the community. His old friends here consider that he is the victim of a job.

Affairs in Russia have reached a terrible depth of wretchedness. On every side rises the cry for bread, peasants in a starving condition, have killed and eaten their own children, and women, rendered desperate by the pangs of hunger, sell themselves for bread. Along side of this gaunt speaker of famine, looms the red torch of war and winter is tightening its grip on the country.

William Chisholm, aged about fifty, employed by Dr. Leek of San Francisco, attempted suicide near Petaluma Sunday. His wounds, it is believed, will prove fatal.

A man named Reardon from Los Angeles went to Bakersfield and bought nine carloads of potatoes from Chinamen who have heard nothing of the man since. As the man promised to pay at a future date the Chinamen are out $700.

Sheriff McKenzie of Napa county has returned to Napa with the supposed murderers of Mrs Greenwood. The principal is said to have made a confession. Mr. Greenwood does not identify them, though the evidence is sufficient to hold them.

Now that the Fair is a thing of the past, the town is settling down to its old time business state.
